

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

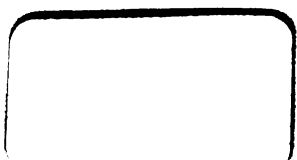

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTION.

The work of compiling this book should have been done by other hands in days long past, and we have taken it up simply as a duty and labor of love, and not with hopes of any pecuniary gain. In the main, written records have been relied upon; written statements from individuals have, in some instances, been inserted, and where tradition is given, it is so stated.

This work is compiled and published especially for the home circle of the Borton and Mason families, and those who have descended therefrom; and we hope and desire that it may be received in the same spirit in which it has been written. Some families will not appear owing to a lack of proper data concerning them; but knowing their ancestors for two or three generations, will be able to trace their genealogy and family history back to the progenitors. Much authentic history has been inserted, believing that it will not only add interest to the book, but will help to preserve it for those who may come after us.

There will doubtless be mistakes in genealogical data, compilation and construction of this volume; but when we think of the work, stupendous in its nature, which has been done during moments of time as they could be snatched from a busy professional life, and also think of the vast correspondence and research required, we believe that all criticisms will be considerate and charitable.

THE COMPILER.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

The arrangement of the work is by generations, and the names of the children in each generation who married are carried forward as parent of the following generation.

The index includes the eighth and ninth generations, and the numeral placed, in each instance, before the name Borton and Mason can through the above arrangement be readily traced back to the progenitor, assisted by the number of each generation given at the margin of each page.

The abbreviations are: b., born; d., died; m., married; gen., generation.

These families will be known and spoken of as follows:

New Jersey Bortons.

Ohio Bortons, descendants of

Benjamin, Sr. of the IVth gen., immigrated to Gurnsey Co., Ohio, 1804.

Samuel, Sr., of the Vth gen., immigrated to Stark Co., Ohio, 1808.

Daniel, Sr., of the Vth gen., immigrated to Stark Co., Ohio, 1810.

Josiah, Sr., of the IVth gen., immigrated to Clinton County, Ohio, 1812.

Sons of Bethuel, of the Vth gen., immigrated to Fulton County, Ohio, 1836 to 1839.

Indiana Bortons, Ira Borton, and Sons of Samuel, Jr., VIth gen., immigrated from Stark County, Ohio, 1858.

Masons, "Evesham" Burlington County, New Jersey.

Masons, Ohio branch, descendants of John Mason, of the 5th gen., who immigrated to Fulton County, Ohio, 1839.

In preparing this history of the Borton and Mason families, search has been made in Friends Records of monthly meetings in Philadelphia, Pa., and also in Friends Records, London, England, also local church records in that country. A thorough search in the Congressional Library, Washington, D. C., also, in Friends Library, Philadelphia, and in the University Library, Urbana, Ill., and all books have been examined that would probably give information with regard to the history or genealogy of these families. We have given the biographies of noted persons in the Mason family, compiled in part by Miss Eleanor Lexington, while others have been taken from Encyclopedias and other authentic sources of information. While the present work has to do with the

THE BORTONS IN EUROPE.

The ending of the name in "ton," and the location of a town named Bourton in Gloucestershire, a county adjoining that of Northampton, would indicate that the ancestors of John, the immigrant to America, were of Norman origin, and were no doubt one of the tribes who came into England at the time of the Conquest in 1066; and that Bourton in Gloucestershire was their county seat, and which was devised to them by William the Conqueror. Tradition says that the chief of this tribe was John of Bourton, and that later the crest on the arms was a boar's head.

We quote the following from Joseph Besse's "Collections of the Sufferings of the People Called Friends for the Testimony of a Good Conscience." Two Vol., London, 1753.

"In 1 mo., 1660, John Bett and John Borton, of Aino, Northamptonshire, were taken out of their own houses by soldiers, and committed to prison for refusing the oaths. Also, in the year 1665, John Bett, John Borton, Edward Hardley and John Holcroft, (poor laborers) had their goods taken by distress for a fine of four shillings each, imposed for four weeks' absence from their parish church."

In the year 1674, Oxfordshire; taken by distress for meetings this year, from John Holcroft, John Borton and Thomas Mercer, 1 pound, 15 shillings. From a search made in Friends' Records, London, it is probable that John, the immigrant, with Ann, his wife, were the only converts to the Friends' faith in the Borton family; and being persecuted not only by the established church of England, but possibly by members of his own family, he sought a home and refuge in the new country. He became a Friend, as shown above, many years prior to immigration; and the dates of births of all of his children except the youngest daughter, who was born in America, are to be found in Friends' Records of England. There are Bortons who still reside at Aynho and vicinity, and all Bortons in America, so far as known, descended from John and Ann; and the ancestry in all cases has so far been traced back to these progenitors.

In Samuel Smith's History of the Colony of New Caesaria, or New Jersey, 1765, page 151-152, "Transactions of the Assembly of West New Jersey, Session 1682, 1st to 11th, 1 mo.," states that John Borton was chosen in connection with William Brightwen for constable of London tenth. John Borton in his will left his sons, John Jr. and William, shares which he owned in the above named tenth. Throughout the county of Burlington, a tenth of land was considered as 32,000 acres and the inhabitants thereof were entitled to ten representatives in the General Assembly of West Jersey, which Assembly was empowered to appoint persons to fill all public offices from Counsellors to Constable.

BORTON FAMILY

We have been able to trace the genealogy of the Borton Family, in America, back to John Borton and Anne, his wife, who came from the Parish of Aynho, Northampton county, England, in the year 1679, in company with several families of Friends. In this company of Colonial Immigrants were the progenitors of the Gardiner, Moore, Prickitt, Evans, Collins, Engle, and Troth families.

John Borton, with Anne, his wife, and seven children, two boys and five girls, settled at Hillsdown, on the Northampton River, now known as Rancocas Creek, New Jersey. The land which he entered was a tract in Evesham township, now Mount Laurel, Burlington county, New Jersey. The tract of land extended from a line now occupied by the Mount Holly and Moorestown turn pike to Rancocas Creek, and was known as the "Borton Tract."

✧ his six daughters, but does not name them

John Borton died at Hillsdown in the year 1687, leaving a will dated 28th day of the 5th month, and proved the 11th month and 14th day of the same year. He named his son John and William and enumerates

The "Borton Tract" of land, by will, became the property of John Jr. and William; and from them to their descendants. A portion heired by John Borton Jr., he felt to his son John, from whom it descended to his son, Abram Borton.

Abram was a son of John Borton and Elizabeth Lord. He married Rachel Engle. They had a son, Uriah Borton, who married Mary Collins. He heired a portion of the "Borton Tract" on which he lived, and at his death, left the same to Joseph Borton, their only son, who married Sarrah Jessup.

Joseph was born on the homestead of his ancestors, April 29th, 1800; here he resided until 1835, when he purchased 127 acres of land in possession of the family as late as 1882. ✧ We insert a cut taken from on the Rancocas and Burlington road, in the township of Westhampton. Here he resided until his death, April 9th, 1868. His wife Sarah, died 26-9 mo., 1876, age 53 years. Portions of the "Borton Tract" remained

John Borton, Jr., and William Borton purchased land on Northampton River, Burlington County, New Jersey, in 10 mo., 1681, one hundred and seventy-five acres, and one hundred and fifty acres respectively.

Certificate of removal of John Borton, the Immigrant, from England to America.

John Borton and Anne, his wife, of Hillsdown on the "Northampton River," Burlington County, New Jersey, came from the Parish of Aynho, Northamptonshire, England, bringing a certificate from the monthly meeting of Borton, in Oxfordshire, dated 3rd month, the 5th, 1697, O. S., and signed by a number of persons who vouch that they have "Known ye sd John and Anne Borton these many years, and that they have walked honestly among us, living in the fear of God and in obedience to the blessed truth revealed in this our day, and have been of a good savor to friends and to their neighbors in ye village where they dwell."

Copy of the Will of John Borton, 1st, the Immigrant.

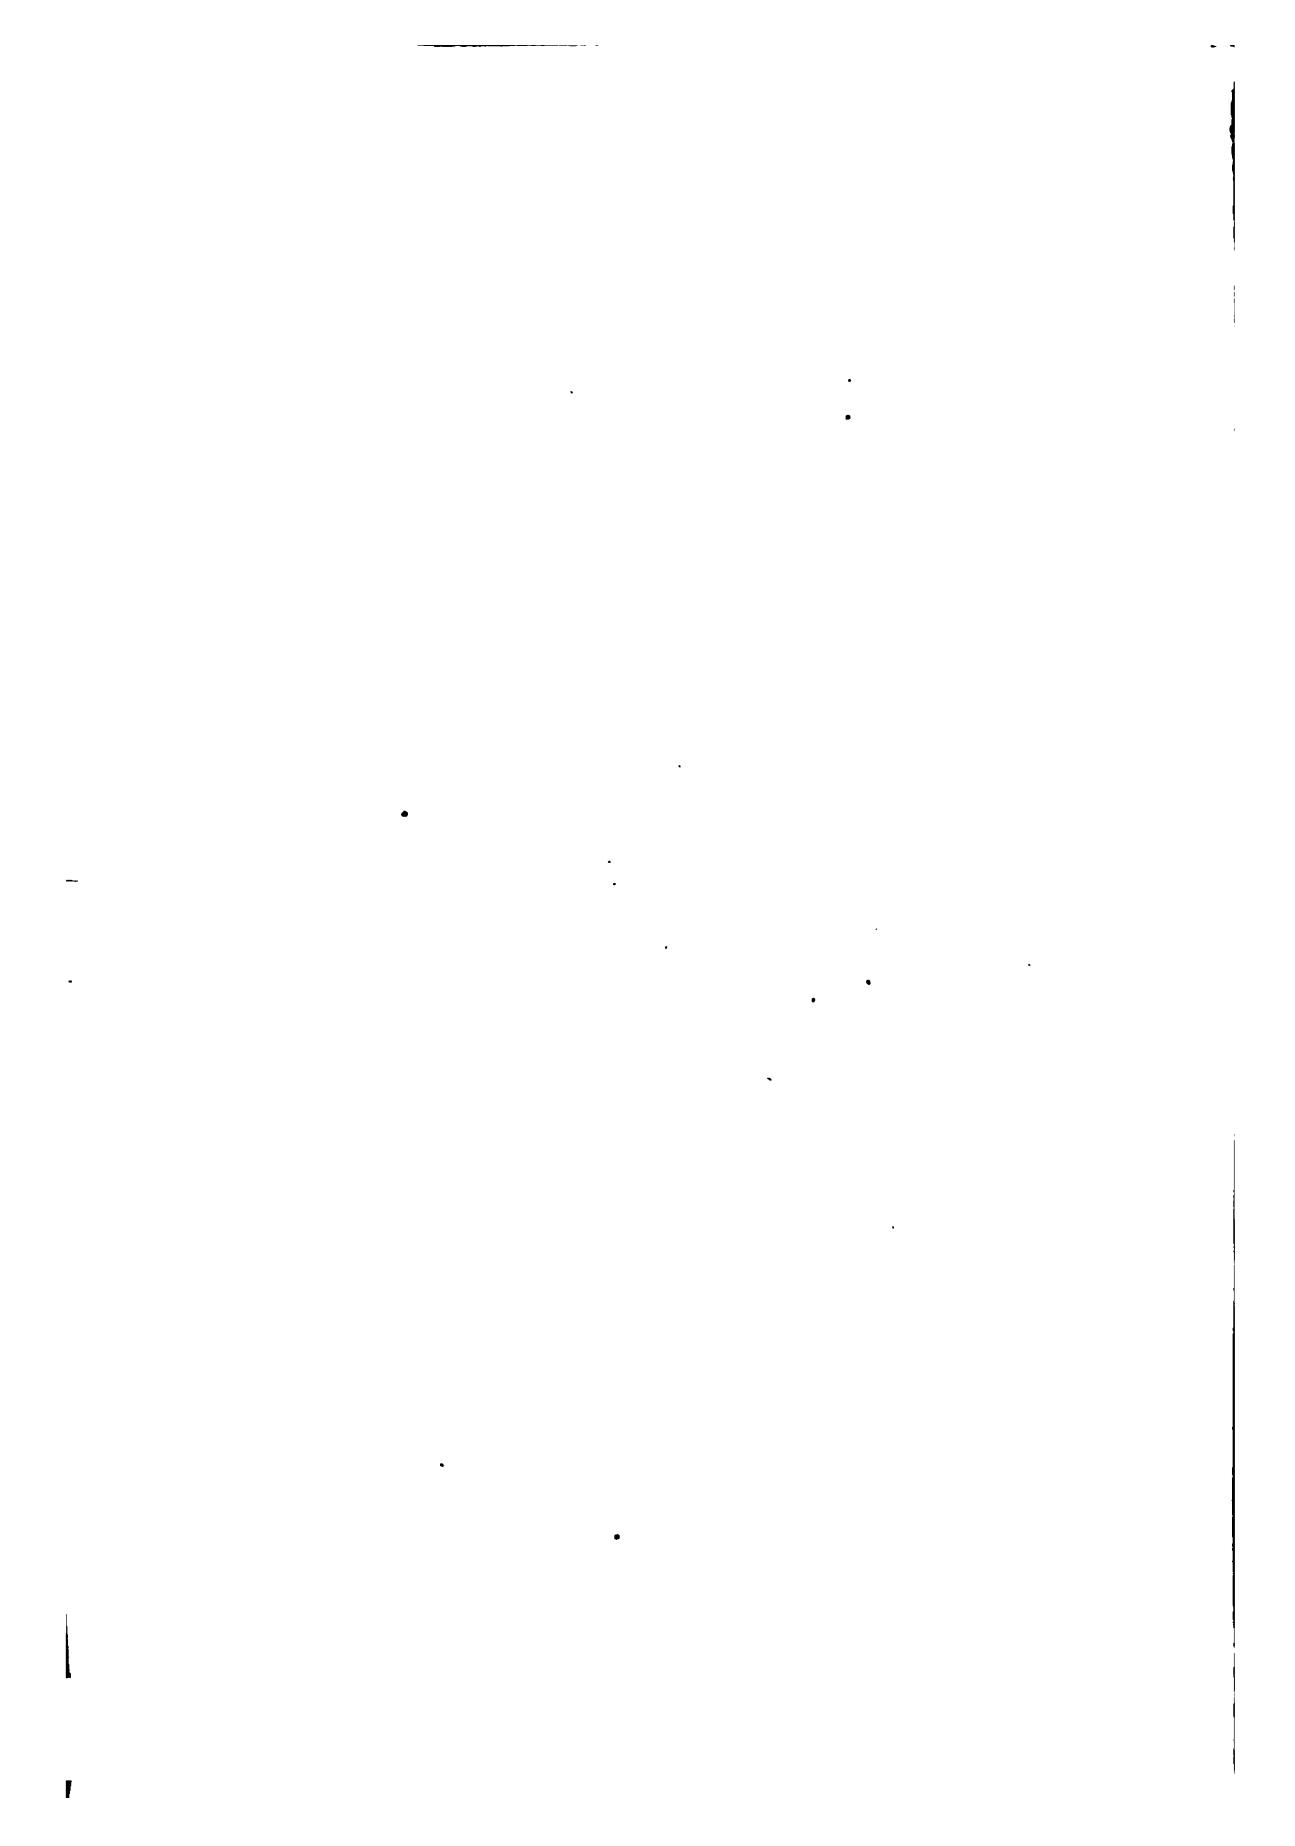

Ye 28th day of ye 5th mo. 1687. I, John Borton, of Hillsdown, being weak in body but of a perfect memory, have made this my last will and testament in manner as follows. Imprimis. I commit my soule to Almighty God who gave it me. And my body to ye earth from whence it came, and to be laid in ye burial place of Friends at Burlington.

Item. I give to my son John that settlement called Hillsdown, lying on ye south side of Northampton River, being in quantity 300 acres and somewhat more, together with barn, house and all other out houses, with garden, orchard and all manner of improvements whatsoever, except one third part thereof which I give to my dear wife Ann Borton, with Five Pounds a year, which she will have during her natural life and widowhood.

I also give to my son John a two and thirtieth part of a propertie through ye County, and one pair of oxen.

Cedar House at Masonville, N. J. Built 1682.

Item. I give to my son William the settlement fronting upon Northampton River northward, being in quantity one hundred acres and somewhat more, with house, barn, garden, orchard together with all manner of improvements thereunto belonging, with my three lots upon Burlington Island and also a two and thirtieth part of a property throughout ye County with one yoke of oxen.

Item. I give to my grandchildren ten shillings a piece.

Item. All ye rest of my cattle and goods I give to my wife and six daughters, my debts and legacies being first paid, as followeth: viz: One third part to my wife, and ye other two parts to be divided equally among my six daughters.

John Borton.

Signed in ye presence of us.

John Woolman.

Enoch Coore.

It may seem strange, but yet we believe it to be true, that the original log house, built by John Borton, the immigrant in 1682, is still in existence and is being put to daily use. This building is about 18x24 feet in size and one and one-half stories in height, and is made of hewn Red Cedar logs, brought down to a uniform size of 4-6 inches. It was formerly a part of the residence of John Borton Jr., and later of Pember-ton. See page illustration. In 1850, it was moved from the "Borton Tract" to Masonville, the distance of one mile, by Charles Darnell. It has been resided without and plastered within and is occupied for store purposes by A. A. Zelley. See cut on page opposite. What proof do we have as to its identity? First, it formed a home on the "Borton Tract," and is built of Red Cedar, a timber which does not decay. It was built before saw mills were introduced into Burlington county, New Jersey, as with access to mills no one would incur so great an expense, in preparing the material; further, the logs have been hewn by an expert. The writer has observed much timber craft and knows full well that a broad-ax cannot be skillfully used, except by one who has been carefully trained, and has had much practice with that tool and the person who did this work in so early a day must have come from the ship-yards of England. How home like it must have seemed to the Borton immigrants, when they took up their abode in this clean, cedar scented, neat little home, so snugly tucked away in the great, primeval forests of New Jersey.

IV. Mary Borton, daughter of Obadiah Borton and Susannah Butcher, married Joseph Engle. Their children were:—

John, b. 16-8 mo., 1761; m. Lucy Brooks.

Obadiah, b. 16-3 mo., 1763; m. Patience Cole.

III. A Testimony from Evesham Monthly Meeting in New Jersey, Concerning Obadiah Borton.

"He was born in the township of Evesham, New Jersey, in the year 1708 and the influence of divine grace made early impression on his mind whilst young in years, which led him to love solitude and sobriety, and to shun those vices incident to youth. About the twenty-second year of his age, a dispensation of gospel ministry was committed to him. He was very awful at times in his public approach before the divine majesty in prayer, and often engaged to exhort friends to humility, and to shun arrogancy and pride, being a good example herein himself; so that his upright, innocent deportment, gained him the good esteem of his friends and others. He departed this life the 7th of the seventh month, 1761, age fifty-three years. A minister thirty-one years and was buried at Evesham, New Jersey."

III. Copy of the Will of Obadiah Borton Sr.

I, Obadiah Borton, of the Township of Evesham, and county of Burlington, Province of west New Jersey, being at this time weak of body but of sound mind, do make and ordain this as my last will and Testament, making null and void all former wills made by me, and this only to be taken for the same. Imprimis. My will is that my just debts be paid by my Executors and Executrix, hereafter named. Item, My will is that my land be divided in the following manner, that I give to my son Benjamin, twenty acres to be taken off from that side next to Abraham Borton's land. To my son Job twenty acres to be taken off the South end of my land at discretion of Executors.

I give to my two sons Samuel and John, all the west end and remaining part of my land improvements to be equally divided, and to pay to my two daughters, Jane and Phebe, to each of them the sum of twenty pounds in the following manner. My son Samuel to pay to each of them ten pounds, when he attains the age of twenty-five years, and likewise my son John to pay to each of them the sum of ten pounds, when he attains the age of twenty-five years.

Likewise I give to my two said sons all of my Cedar Swamp except one acre for my son Benjamin, and one for my son Job, to be equally divided to my said four sons according as before.

I give to my loving wife Mary the room at the west end of my house to dwell in, also the chamber over it so long as she shall bear my name, with same privilege in the cellar and garden and oven, and at the well for water. Also I give my said wife, the profits of my farm or plantation until my said sons shall attain the age of twenty-one years and take it into their own hands, but not to make any sale of timber but for firewood and fencing or other repairs.

I also give to my said wife all my movable or personal estate to her disposing after my just debts are paid in the lieu of dower, and to bring up my children. My will further is that my two sons Benjamin and Job be put to such trades as may be thought best. Lastly I denominate, constitute and appoint my loving wife Mary, my Executrix, and my true friends William Foster and Benjamin Haines my Executors of this my last Will and Testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 28th day of 7th month, 1761.

Obadiah Borton. (Seal)

Pronounced that the above writing doth contain his last Will and Testament in the presence of us.

Stockton Borton, Sewing Machine Inventor.

By the death of Stockton Borton, on 7-1 mo., 1907, the sewing machine industry suffered a loss in a man to whom it owes a huge debt, as it is probable that but for his inventive genius and mechanical skill those manufacturers who are large users of sewing machines would be unable to turn out the enormous product in their respective lines which the growing trade of the world requires. Manufacturing in many lines has been made easier both for the employer and the employee by means of Mr. Borton's numerous inventions.

Mr. Borton died at Lakewood, N. J., a few days after returning from Jamaica, where he had gone for his health.

He was born in Moorestown, Burlington county, N. J., in 1853, his parents being members of the Society of Friends.

Borton's boyhood days were spent in his native town, and on the occasion of his funeral Dr. Haines, a practicing physician, made an interesting address, having been a student in the same class.

Mr. Borton leaves a widow and two sisters. The funeral ceremonies were held in the Friends' Meeting House in Moorestown on Thursday, 10-1 mo., 1907, interment taking place in the Colestown Cemetery, near Moorestown.

His early tastes led Mr. Borton to mechanical lines and he first started to work in Philadelphia, becoming interested in the sewing machine business in the '70s. In 3rd mo., 1881, he was employed by the Willcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine Company, his immediate superior being Mr. Charles H. Willcox, of that company, who was present at the funeral. At the time of his death, the immediate cause of which was hemorrhage of the brain, Mr. Borton had been in the continuous service of the Wilcox & Gibbs Company for over twenty-five years.

Some of Borton's inventions are marvels of the sewing machine industry. For Willcox & Gibbs alone, he took out over fifty patents. His wonderful mechanical mind was specially directed towards the invention and perfection of high-class sewing machines capable of being operated at great speed, with the maximum productive power and consequent reduced cost to manufacturers.

One of Borton's inventions had particular reference to the upholstery trade, namely, the Overlock Lace Edger. This machine was primarily designed for finishing underwear, on which work it is extensively used, but it was soon found to be of even greater service for making a strong and sightly edge on lace curtains. It is estimated that since 1896, when the Overlock corded edge first appeared on the market, upwards of 250,000,000 pairs of lace curtains have been finished on this machine.

It is to inventors like Borton that a large part of the material prosperity of the United States in the manufacturing line is due.

Most of Mr. Borton's work in connection with the Willcox & Gibbs machines invented by him had been for a number of years carried on at the Brown & Sharp Manufacturing Company's works, Providence, R. I., where all their machines are made.

IV. Caleb Borton, son of William Borton and Abigail Lord, married Silence Willits, daughter of Richard and Patience Willits, at Burlington, New Jersey, 10 mo., 1764. Their children were:—

Caleb, b. 1-11 mo., 1803; died 13-4 mo., 1804.

Eternity.

We are to live

As many years as atoms in the air:

When these are past, as many thousand more

As grains of sand that crowd the ebbing shore:

When these are spent, as many still behind

As leaves of forests shaken with the wind:

When these are gone, as many to ensue

As blades of grass on hills and dales that grow:

When these are past, as many on the march

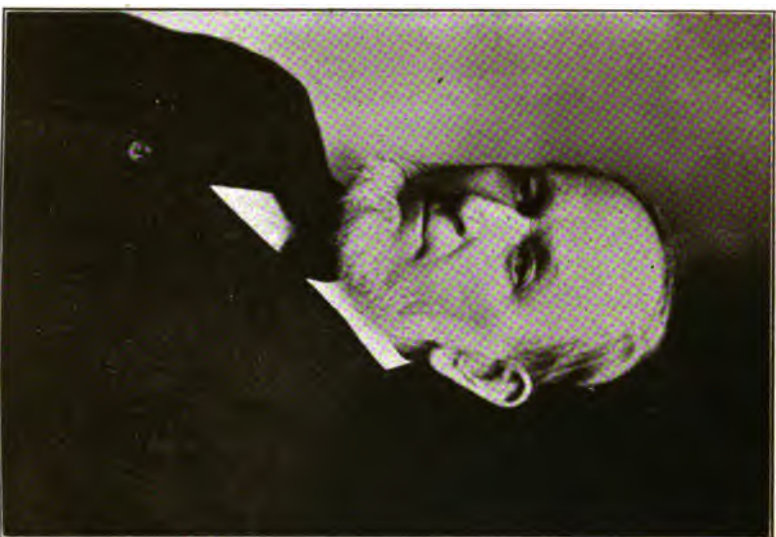

As midnight lamps that gild the starry arch:

When these expire, as millions more

As moments in the millions gone before.

Friend's Intelligence.

VI. Phoebe Sharp Borton, daughter of Josiah Borton and Margaret Sharp, born 5-8 mo., 1815, married Japheth Leeds Prickett, 27-12 mo., 1838. He was a son of Isaac Prickett and Dorothea Joyce. Their children were:—

Daniel J., b. 15-8 mo., 1840; m. 4-10 mo., 1865, Lydia G. Borton.

Sarah Jane, b. 31-3 mo., 1842; died 6-4 mo., 1850.

James H., b. 7-11 mo., 1843; m. Eunice T. Axtell, 1869.

Anna M., b. 19-8 mo., 1845; died 20-11 mo., 1851.

John B., b. 9-10 mo., 1847; m. Marie McCrue, 1870,
m. Melissa Pechin.

Abigail E., b. 15-5 mo., 1850; m. Isaac N. Drake, 1872.

Josiah B., b. 6-1 mo., 1854; died 8-1 mo., 1854.

Mary E., b. 22-9 mo., 1855; m. Frank E. McWilliams, 1890.

Japheth C. F., b. 14-9 mo., 1857; m. Anna Momeyer, 12 mo., 1888.

Phoebe S. Borton died 26-1 mo., 1901, in her 86th year. Japheth Leeds Prickitt died in the spring of 1893. See biography by Daniel J. Prickitt.

Lydia G. Borton, wife of Daniel J. Prickitt, was a daughter of Benjamin Borton and Abigail. Benjamin was a son of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton. Bethuel was a son of Benjamin Borton Sr. and Charity Rogers. Benjamin was a son of Obadiah Borton and second wife, Mary Driver.

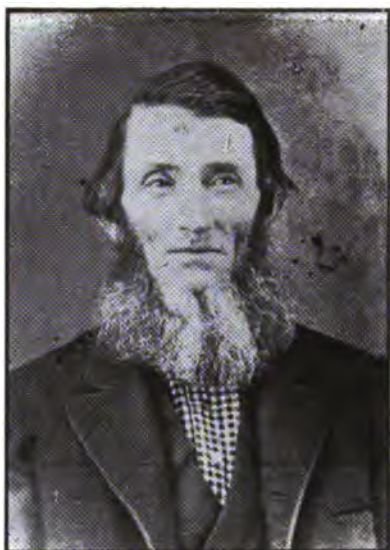

Biographies of Japheth L. and Phoebe S. Prickitt, together with family and neighborhood history, written by D. J. Prickitt.

Phoebe S. Prickitt was the eleventh of twelve children born to Josiah and Margaret Sharpe Borton, six sons and three daughters being born in N. J. and three near Lumberton, some seven miles north of Wilmington, Court House, of Clinton county, Ohio, where the subject of this memoir was born, 5-8 mo., 1815, dying near West Unity, Ohio, 26-1 mo., 1901, aged 85 years, 5 months and 21 days.

Her ancestors came from England and are of Scotch-Irish and Welsh lineage. Her paternal ancestors came to America in 1677 and settled in Burlington county, N. J. and judging from the Bortons, Sharps, Engles and others there and elsewhere their number is legion. But you never heard of a Borton being in the penitentiary, however guilty they may have been.

Josiah Borton and family came to Ohio in 1812, settling on the lands on which he died in 1844, in his 64th year, and accumulated some eleven hundred acres in Clinton and Auglaize counties, giving each child a farm and retaining one hundred sixty acres for himself. He engaged in farming, even had a small distillery, I am sorry to say, but it was not disreputable then. His better judgment caused him to discontinue the business very soon. He also had a smithy and he and two or three of his sons were experts for the times.

Her mother died about 1819 and in 1820 Hannah Fairfield, a native of Virginia, took the mother's place to whom were born two sons. She dying in 1824, Sarah Pendry took her place as stepmother in 1828 or 1829, dying in 1846. She came from Charleston, S. C., to Kentucky, starting in the month of February as the peach was coming in bloom and although six weeks on the road the peach was just blooming in central Kentucky when she arrived. They came on horseback or on foot, carrying their worldly effects on their backs or pack horses. Those were the days that tried the souls of men and women as the red man was troublesome. Mrs. Pendry was left a widow by a former husband and had given shelter to a sickly young man. When the Indians came to her house she fled with her child to a place of safety. When she returned she found the boy had been thrown into the fire. She dressed his burns and when able to travel took such goods as were needful and fled on horseback across the Ohio river.

Phoebe grew to robust womanhood inured to the labors and toils of the hardy pioneer life. Could shear the sheep, card, spin and weave wool, cotton or flax, the latter of which she would pull and put through all the processes—break, hackle, scutch, spin, weave, bleach, cut and make into garments. Within the past three years she spun some flax on the "little wheel" which Mary Crumrine wove into toweling and her oldest son is in possession of a checked linen apron of her make from raw material which he wore in his infantile years. She, like some of her brothers, was a born mechanic, and could cut and make almost any garment without a pattern—after the olden style and some of the newer ones. Could decorate them with needle work and trimming. She undoubtedly stamped the aptness for mechanics on her children.

Religiously her ancestors were Friends and her father strove against the impression that he had a call to the ministry of that church. Her aunt, Sarah Engle, mother of Edith A. Thorne, whom a very few remember, was an acceptable minister among Friends.

She became a member of the United Brethren church in West Unity, I think, during the ministry of John Northland and so far as know remained such and although not demonstrative her older children can remember her reading the scriptures to and praying for them. Hers was a busy life, full of cares, toil and much suffering.

Japheth Leeds Prickitt, second of seven sons and four daughters of Isaac and Dorothea Joyce Prickitt, was born three miles east of Medford, Burlington county, N. J., died 14-4 mo., 1893, aged 77 years, 8 months and 9 days.

His father's family are all gone, the father, mother and brother next younger dying within three days, and the youngest on the U. S. man of war, Kickapoo, in Mobile Bay, 1864.

J. L. lived at home, tilling the soil, cutting and hauling cedar and maple timber from swamps, attending the country school in the neighborhood, thus securing a sufficient education to conduct such business as fell to his lot.

About his twentieth year he engaged with his grandfather, Danine Joyce, who owned a saw mill and lathes and manufactured material for chairs, which was hauled to Philadelphia, twenty miles distant. Here he was engaged for a number of years, mostly doing the team work, hauling chair stuff to the city.

He worked for Isaac Newton in Pennsylvania one summer, farming and hauling dairy products to the Philadelphia market. Newton was one of the first, if not the first, Commissioner of Agriculture, and it is said was so interested in the improvement of sheep husbandry as to ask Congress for an appropriation of five thousand dollars for the importation of Hydraulic Rams.

In 3rd month, 1838, he and Aaron Borton, brother-in-law to J. R. Clifton, Sr., and Benjamin Borton came to Clinton county, Ohio, carrying their effects in knapsacks, the journey occupying three weeks. They stopped at the home of Josiah Borton, uncle to Aaron.

I might say in passing that J. L.'s father had before this time been engaged in butchering at Cincinnati and was considered an expert. None of his descendants follow the business from choice.

After his landing in Ohio, he engaged to work for John Borton, who carried on a cabinet shop and farming, where he soon became a fair workman, as a few pieces of furniture in possession of his children will attest.

Here he became acquainted with Phoebe S. Borton. The acquaintance ripened into friendship, and with the approval of her father they were married, 27-12 mo., 1838. No wedding arch or march to sound of pealing organ or jingling piano, costly supper, wedding tour to Chicago or Niagara in palace car, but on a timber wagon to the squire's and home to a supper of mush and milk. Not much sentiment in that!

Gathering together a few of the necessary articles of furniture they began housekeeping in a log cabin west of Lumberton, where their son, Daniel J., was born. Soon after they moved to a one and a half story log house near the paternal home, where Sarah J. and James H. were born.

In 1844 they built a house on forty-two acres of the home place, which was deeded to the wife by her father, where they lived till 10 mo., 1845. Here their fourth child, Anna M., was born.

John R. Clifton Sr. came down from Williams county and praised the country so highly that they sold out, and leaving the associations of brothers, sisters, and friends, journey to the north, accompanied by S. L. Seward and wife, who was Martha Anderson. After eleven days' journey they reached their goal, staying the last night at Benj. Borton's.

They purchased of George Kellog the quarter section now occupied by the heirs of Henry Emerick and Israel Mattern, in the northeast corner at the elm tree south of Fayette, S. L. Seward taking the northwest corner forty, where Stahl now lives. Here they engaged in farming. S. L. Seward's brother, Amasa, soon came and a cabinet shop was erected, and furniture and undertaking went together with toils of felling the forests and cultivating the virgin soil.

The howl of the wolf was heard and the deer pastured the wheat too closely at times. Game was plenty, so plenty that Giles Harrington wished he had not promised to carry all the squirrels Sam and Mace would kill in an afternoon. What they killed in less than three hours satisfied him.

While living in Gorham township, the father made a journey on horseback to Clinton county by way of Wapakoneta, also to N. J., from which place he was accompanied by his sister, Sarah S. Prickitt, who in time became the wife of Adam Gettings.

The nearest markets were Adrian and Maumee. The grist mill nearest was Bird's mill, on Mill Creek, three-fourths mile southeast of what is now Zone postoffice, but usually they went to Canandaigua, on Bean creek, and for lumber to Chatfield's on Bean creek, east of Zone.

Hosea Harrington manufactured black and white salts from the ashes left from the log heaps of the clearings, selling the salts usually in Adrian, Michigan.

Hosea was the nearest neighbor and preached some excellent sermons from the Free Will Baptist standpoint, but went insane on the question as to whether the dead will recognize each other in the spirit world. His was a mild insanity and he alternated between the jail at Ottokee and his home.

The courts in those early days were held in Maumee, and I remember of father going on horseback to Maumee as juror. Uncle Jimmy Riddle was on the same jury. When father came home I got my first school reader, Sander's Third Reader. Heretofore I had used Webster's Elementary Spelling Book and The Introduction to the English Reader, by Lindley Murray.

Here was born their fifth child, John B. In 1848 or '49, Fulton county was struck off from Williams, Defiance and Lucas, and they were in Fulton instead of Lucas county.

While living here in the spring of 1846 an orchard was planted. The trees were from the nursery of Benjamin Borton, who carried the grafts from New Jersey.

The children attended school in the log school house a few rods west of the elm tree. Of the teachers, Annette Deming, now the wife of Uncle John Gamber, of Fayette, and Hope Jane Verity, sister of Judge O. B. Verity, of Fulton county, are remembered. Hope Jane taught two or three weeks at the home of Joseph Ely, father of Mrs. Hannah McIntyre, which, of course, was contrary to law, but Jake and Dan got what they needed in "lickings" and she was sent to the school house to finish the term.

The Presbyterians held services often at Mr. Ely's, and Hosea Harrington preached in the school house often and acceptably. When he warmed up with his subject he would pull off his coat and if necessary his vest.

Camp meetings were held on camp grounds about a mile northeast of S. B. Darby's, on the lands owned by O. G. Greeley, who, by the way, was born a few miles from where the writer of these lines was.

In the late summer or early fall of 1849 the farm was sold to one

Singer, and the following March, 1850, the family moved into Wm. Clifton's house, staying there till July 17 following.

While here a scourge of scarlet fever visited the neighborhood, and the oldest daughter, Sarah Jane, died of it. D. J. and Anna Maria were very sick and neither ever fully recovered from its effects. Here Abby E. Drake was born in May.

The father alternated between home and West Unity, where he and S. L. Seward purchased the saw mill of S. N. Baker. He also bought the "New Orleans Drug and Grocery Store" of E. E. Thorne and Dr. Jos. Thorne was made his agent to carry on the store. Meantime, a house was built on what is now a part of the public school ground. The house was changed and is now the home of Comrade John Robnolt.

17-7 month they moved into town, sleeping the first night at Dr. Thorne's. Of those who lived in Unity at that time but few remain who live there now. Those of the Bohner family—Comrade Jacob and Katy Mohr, Mrs. Skinner, Geo, Rings, and those of H. H. Peppard's family, born in 1850 and before, Justus Munson and his mother, I think are all.

The mill and store engrossed attention till the store was sold to Benjamin Borton. While in possession of the mill a good living was made, but no fortune. Seward, after two or three years, sold his interest in the mill to his partner and everything went as usual.

The Plank Road was built from the northwest corner of G. H. Ritchie's east across Bean Creek a few rods from Johnson's mills. The school house, which is now a part of Denman's drug store, stood where Wm. Clay's residence is, and was used for religious services.

Rev. Wood and H. M. Taft had a select school in the upper part of the foundry, which stood about on the line between Mrs. Gill's and John Hollington's. It is now used as Combs' livery stable.

The old school house was replaced by the two story house 32x52, built in 1854, G. W. Money, contractor and builder. John Rings, J. L. Prickitt and P. D. Benson, I think, were directors and building committee.

Anna M., the second daughter, died in 1851, and Josiah B., Mary E. and J. C. F. were born. Life in the usual way went on. Sickness and death are ever present.

D. J. and J. H. attended the village schools regularly except when someone came with oxen to haul logs on the skidway, then J. H. objected to going—would rather drive the cattle. In 3rd month, 1854, the Pike's Peak fever struck Daniel J., so he and Thos. J. Coslet started west, and as the fever seemed to have partially subsided they only got to Palmyra, Mo., where Eli Anderson was living. They hired out to work on the farm, Coslet returning after harvest and D. J. taking an eight months' term of school, returning in 6th month, 1860, after the nomination of A. Lincoln for president.

The old mill was about worn out and in the winter of '60 and '61 a new one, a portable, was purchased and D. J. concluded not to return to Missouri, where he had contracted to teach a twelve months' term. The new mill was started in April, 1861, after a few days' instruction from Uncle Joseph Burkholder, and run by home forces.

In April came Lincoln's call for seventy-five thousand men and D. J. packed his valise to become a soldier in the old 14th O. V. I., with Allegar, Moudy, Ewers, Burwell and others, but his parents prevailed on him to stay until the mill was paid for. So on August 20 he enlisted, his brother, J. H., Wm. Rings, Allegar, Allgire, Russell, Hinman, Hartman, Scannel, Hansey, Skinner and a host leaving the 10-9 mo., for Columbus to become a part of the 1st O. V. C., but not liking the situation went to Monroeville and became Co. H. 3rd O. V. C. In 1864 the mill and other property was sold to the Grindles. John B., Thom. Russell and John Rings in the fall of 1864 went to Gallatin, Tenn., and were employed in the commissary and quartermaster departments under W. A. Hunter, formerly editor and proprietor of the first paper published in this town.

The war ended in April and D. J. and J. H. were paid off at Columbus, 15-8 mo., 1865, having served almost four years. D. J. married Lydia G. Borton, 4-10 mo., following and has ever since lived on the Benjamin Borton farm.

In the spring of 1866, father's family moved to the Geo. Carpenter farm one mile east and half mile north of town. James went west and worked at bridge building and carpentering for the B. & M. railway in Iowa. He came back and married Mrs. Eunice Axtell in 1869. Went to Redwillow county, Neb., in 1872, accompanied by Abby E.; J. H., after living at Redwillow a few months, returned east on account of his wife's health, living in Battle Creek, Mich., West Unity, Iroquois county, Ill., again working for B. & M. railway, living in San Francisco, is now settled at Pomona, California.

J. B. learned blacksmithing, working in Hamer with John Kosier, Ft. Wayne and Kendallville, Ind., Lexington, Ky., and with Nate Stoner in Unity, leaving West Unity in 6th month, 1872, with his wife—having married Marie McCue in 1870—going to Portland, Ore., and to Jackson county, where he engaged in hydraulic mining and is now in Forest Grove, Ore., farming, smithing and threshing.

Abby E. married I. N. Drake late in 1872 at Ft. McPherson and followed the life of a soldier's wife at Ft. McPherson and Ft. D. A. Russell, near Cheyenne, Wyo., accompanied the army, after the Big Horn expedition, to the Spotted Tail agency in S. D., where her husband resigned in 1878 and is now living at Loretta, Bonhomme county, S. D., on a farm.

On account of her health Mary E. went to Drake's in Wyoming, in 1876. Came home and went west to Drake's again in the spring of 1878. Went west to J. H. Prickitt's in Illinois, in 1880, then to Los Angeles and Pasadena; then to San Francisco, caring for Mrs. Mayberry, a helpless invalid, and from there in the winter of 1881 and 1882, to J. B.'s in Oregon; then back home and back to Pasadena to keep house for herself and J. C. F. She married Frank Williams, 1891, and lives near Chino, where they are raising sugar beets for the sugar factory.

J. C. F. has traveled this country over, having worked in lumber woods in Michigan; been in Florida, Louisiana, Oregon; carpentered, farmed and tunneled in California. He was married to Anna Momeyer, 12th month, 1887, and has lived on the home farm ever since.

Father and mother kept the even tenor of the farmer's life until after the marriage of their youngest; then they bought a house and four lots and moved to town in 1888, where father died in the spring of 1893. Mother rented the house to D. McLaughlin and went to California in the fall of 1893, staying some months with Mary E., then to San Francisco, spending some time with J. H. and family, from there to Oregon visiting J. B., until the fall of 1894 she returned accompanied by John B. Since she has lived alone most of the time except a few months, Mrs. Phoebe Ayers made her home with her and for a few months her grand-daughter, Mamie Drake was with her. Last summer the property in town was sold to S. E. Jackson. Two large rooms were built to the farm house and a few weeks before her death she began again to keep house, but the death angel called her and she must needs go to her rest like as a shock of corn cometh in its season. Only one of her father's family living, Aunt Ann Garwood, past ninety-one and soon to walk through the valley of the shadow of death.

VII. Japheth C. F. Prickitt, son of Phebe Borton and Japheth Leeds Prickitt, was born 14-9 mo., 1857. He was married 4-10 mo., 1887, to Annie Cath MoMeyer, born 13-10 mo., 1850. Their children were:--

Charles Augustus, b. 10-6 mo., 1888.

Mary Elizabeth, b. 30-8 mo., 1889.

Phoebe Emma, b. 22 4 mo., 1891.

Clara Maria, b. 31-1 mo., 1893.

Grace Evangeline, b. 14-9 mo., 1894.

Charlotte Amelia, b. 12-6 mo., 1898.

George Eldridge, b. 18-1 mo., 1900; died 27-1 mo., 1900.

Franklin Japheth, b. 15-10 mo., 1907.

VII. Abigail E. Prickitt, daughter of J. L. Prickitt and Phebe S. Borton, born 15-5 mo., 1850, married Isaac N. Drake, at North Platte, Neb., 28-11 mo., 1872. Their children were:—

Phebe, b. 24-8 mo., 1874; m. Grant Carothers, 22-4 mo., 1893.

Mary Mamie, b. 15-4 mo., 1876.

Charles, b. 31-12 mo., 1878; m. Myrtle Baldwin, 30-12 mo., 1900.

Hester, b. 13-1 mo., 1886; m. Herman Seiling, 23-8 mo., 1905.

James Edward, b. 16-3 mo., 1890.

VIII. Phebe Drake, daughter of Abigail E. Prickitt and Isaac N. Drake, married Grant Carothers. Their children were:—

Francis Borton, b. 10-2 mo., 1894.

Hazel Marzy, b. 2-6 mo., 1895.

Harry Sherman, b. 22-6 mo., 1897.

Irva May, b. 16-4 mo., 1899.

Angelina Abigail, b. 20-10 mo., 1903.

They reside at Brookings, S. D.

VIII. Charles Drake, son of Abigail E. Prickitt and Isaac N. Drake, married Myrtle Baldwin. Their children were:—

Norman Isaac, b. 10-10 mo., 1901.

Merle, b. 30-1 mo., 1902.

Lola, b. 3-mo., 1904.

Isaac N. Drake enlisted in the regular service, Company M. 3rd U. S. Cavalry; was engaged on the western frontier against Sitting Bull, being in several expeditions against the Sioux and other Indians, including that of the Big Horn, under Generals Terry, Crook and Custer.

V. Isaac Borton, son of Josiah Borton and Rebecca Haines, married Sarah Peacock, daughter of John Peacock and Susannah Ballinger. Their children were:—

Abigail, b. : m. Benjamin Borton.

Sarah, b. : m. John Clifton.

Aaron, b. : died a young man.

Charles, b. : died young.

Samuel Clifton, son of Nathan Clifton and Mary, married Ann

..... Their children were:—

Rebecca, youngest daughter, b. about 1828; m. Davis Bisbee,

m. Jefferson Sweet.

Rachel, b. 26-12 mo., 1813; died 1885, age 73 years

Mary, b. 8-2 mo., 1815; m. Job Borton.

John, b. 22-6 mo., 1819; m. Sarah Borton.

Amy, b. 29-9 mo., 1822; m. Joseph Powell.

William Henry, b. 12-12 mo., 1826; m.

John Clifton died 22-10 mo., 1887, and William Henry Clifton died in Chicago, Ill., 5-1 mo., 1898.

VI. Sarah Borton, daughter of Isaac Borton and Sarah Peacock, married John Clifton, son of Samuel Clifton and Ann Their children were:—

Rachel Ann, b. 1-4 mo., 1840; m. Silas Mills.

. m. John Metcalf.

Esther, b. 4-2 mo., 1842; m. George Sparks.

John S., b. 22-8 mo., 1848; m. Melvina Kime,
m. Helen Smith.

Mary, b. 10-5 mo., 1845; m. David Crumrine.

Samuel, b. 11-9 mo., 1850; m. Emma Pifer.

George, b. 30-11 mo., 1855; m. Alice Hibbard.

Sarah, b. 20-2 mo., 1844; m. John Hutchison.

Abigail, b. 18-10 mo., 1852; m. Samuel Crumrine.

VII. Rachel Clifton, daughter of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married Silas Mills. Silas died and Rachel then married John Metcalf, of Amboy, Mich. They had one daughter:—

Pearl Metcalf, b. 15-12 mo., 1875; m. Sommers.

VII. Esther P. Clifton, daughter of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married George Sparks, son of John Sparks and Emaline Jones Butcher, widow. Esther P. Clifton and George Sparks have two daughters:—

Marion E., b. 5-12 mo., 1872.

Annie E., b. 18-6 mo., 1879.

VII. John Clifton Jr., son of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married Melvina Kime. They had two children:—

Marion, b. 10-3 mo., 1876.

Enoch, b. 17-10 mo., 1878; m.

Melvina Kime died and John married Helen Smith, who is now deceased.

VII. Sarah Clifton, daughter of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married John Hutchison. Their children were:—

Olive E., b. 30-3 mo., 1870; m. Stiple.

Delbert E., b. 11-5 mo., 1866.

Lewis C., b. 12-1 mo., 1874.

Marion, b. 9-2 mo., 1868; died 6-5 mo., 1869.

Carrie E., b. 15-4 mo., 1882.

Florence, b. 26-2 mo., 1885; m. Geesey.

Sarah C., b. 6-1 mo., 1872; m. Hershisier.

Wilber J., b. 12-9 mo., 1880.

Francis S., b. 31-8 mo., 1877.

George Sparks, Marion E. Sparks, Esther P. Sparks, Annie E. Paisley

VIII. Marion and Anna E. Sparks are graduates of the State University, Urbana, Ill., and hold positions in the chemical laboratory of that institution. Marion E. Sparks is also a trained librarian and formerly had charge of the University library.

Rachel Clifton and Esther P. Clifton taught many terms of school in Williams and Fulton counties, Ohio, and were considered two of the most successful teachers of that day and time.

George Sparks is still a teacher in the public schools of the state of Illinois. He has followed this occupation all his life, having formerly taught in the public schools of Ohio.

VII. Mary Clifton, daughter of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married David Crumrine, son of Frederick Crumrine. They have one son:—
Frank, b. 29-12 mo., 1870.

VII. Samuel Clifton, son of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married Emma Pifer. Their children were:—

Georgia G., b. 20-4 mo., 1876.

Mable M., b. 28-8 mo., 1882.

Samuel Leon, b. 12-4 mo., 1885.

Alice Fay, b. 3-5 mo., 1887.

Luella, b. 3-6 mo., 1873.

Marcus Verne, b. 31-10 mo., 1889; died 20-1 mo., 1905

Ada B., b. 1-8 mo., 1892.

Charles Wallace, b. 1-12 mo., 1894.

VII. George Clifton, son of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married Alice Hibbard. They have three children:—

Nellie, b. 1-9 mo., 1897.

Cora, b. 24-11 mo., 1900.

Emerson G., b. 16-2 mo., 1905.

Two children died young.

VII. Abigail Clifton, daughter of John Clifton and Sarah Borton, married Samuel Crumrine, a son of Betsy and Frederisk Crumrine, and a brother to David Crumrine, who married Mary Clifton. Their children were:—

Marcus, b. 4-11 mo., 1883; died 7-11 mo., 1883.

Nellie, b. 10-8 mo., 1887.

Clara, b. 22-4 mo., 1886.

Sarah E. Borton, wife of John Clifton, was born 25-10 mo., 1812, and died 25-10 mo., 1896.

IV. Benjamin Borton, son of Obadiah Borton, Sr., and second wife, Mary Driver, married 1780, Charity Rogers, daughter of John Rogers, and a sister of Anna Rogers, who married Job Borton, youngest brother of Benjamin. Benjamin Borton and Charity Rogers' children were:—

Bethnel Borton, b. 2-1 mo., 1782; m. Rebecca Clifton 17-4 mo., 1805.

Phebe, b. ; m. Pedrick.

William, b.

Reuben, b. ; m. Elizabeth Pedrick.

Martha, b. ; m. William Dillon.

Ann, b. ; m. John Ables.

Mary, b.

Vashti, b. 1794; d. 1883; m. 1812, Samuel Dillon.

James, b. 21-4 mo., 1801; m. 14-3 mo., 1822, Mariah Wilson,

m. 20-5 mo., 1852, Ann Marsh.

Benjamin, Jr. b. ; m. Wilson.

IV. Benjamin Borton was born 5-4 mo., 1761, in Burlington county, N. J., was married to Charity Rogers, 16-3 mo., 1780. Obadiah Borton Sr. died before Benjamin, and Job Borton, his sons, had reached their majority, and a provision was made in his will, that they be taught a trade, or otherwise, as his executors might elect. Benjamin became a distiller of essential oils. It is not definitely known whether he was apprenticed to the trade or not. Tradition says that he distilled the first peppermint oil ever distilled in America, and Borton's brand of this oil stood at the head of the eastern market, in all of the early years of the drug trade. The business of distilling these oils has been followed by the descendants of Benjamin and Charity Borton, ever since his day, and this fact has helped in tracing out this branch of the Borton family.

Benjamin Borton immigrated from New Jersey to Oxford Tp., Gurnsey county, Ohio, in 1804, and entered a section of land, situated in that township, on the old Wheeling road, about two miles west and a little south of Fairview, and about one mile north of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Benjamin's removal to Ohio was, no doubt, due to the abundance of Sassafras timber and pennyroyal, from which the oil could be extracted, that brought ready cash on the Philadelphia market—a commodity which was much needed by the early settlers of the west. The homestead where Benjamin Borton wrought and toiled has passed into other hands. The present farm house and Fletcher M. E. Church built on this land are shown in cuts on opposite page. Also, the graves where Benjamin and Charity Borton, and some other members of the family lie buried. These graves are just west of the church and are marked by Appropriate hymns were sung by members of the M. P. choir. The floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful.

The Carpenters' Union attended in a body and the large attendance of neighbors and friends attested the high esteem in which Mr. Borton was held by all who knew him.

The pall bearers were old friends who had long known him and been associated with him in his church relationship, his business and political life, namely: Jas. G. Bair, Alfred Weedon, John N. McCartney, G. A. Doyle, John M. Amos and Joseph Randall.

Mrs. G. S. Hilliard and Miss Martha Borton of Delaware, sisters of deceased, J. G. Likes and wife of Columbus and a number of friends from Fairview and elsewhere, attended the services. Interment in Northwood cemetery.

James W. Borton Winfield Scott Borton John W. Borton

In all his relations in life Mr. Borton was universally recognized as the soul of personal honor. Industrious, faithful, pure minded, brave and courteous he won and held unusual confidence. Few men after a long and active life go to their graves so universally respected and honored.

He will be greatly missed by those with whom he associated, especially in his church and his family relations.

Rest in peace.

The other children left Gurnsey county, Ohio with their parents and nothing definite is known with regard to them. It is reported that there is only one son living, but do not know where he is or his descendants.

VI. William Dillon, Jr., son of Martha Borton and William Dillon, Sr., was a veteran in the late Civil War, being a member of Company K., 74 Regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry. He is said to have first invented the rapid fire gun which is used at the present day, in modern warfare. He was a gunsmith and made a model; went to Washington, D. C., and showed the same to General Winfield Scott. His opinion was that it would be too heavy for field use. This discouraged William Dillon, so he left the model there, and the supposition is that some one who had means and influence took it up and made a success and fortune therefrom. William Dillon departed from this life in 1878.

VI. Martha Dillon, daughter of Martha Borton and William Dillon Sr., and sister of William Dillon, Jr., married William Cole from Virginia. She died in 1888. No issue. William Cole then married a Mrs. Gibson of Illinois. This marriage was not congenial so he returned to his old home, in Virginia, where he has since died.

He taught school for a number of years, in Oxford Township, and was treasurer of Gurnsey county, Ohio, from 1858-1860. After the expiration of his term of office he moved back to his farm in Oxford Township. He was largely interested in farming and the manufacture of essential oils. In his later years he read law and became a leading lawyer, belonging to the Cambridge Bar. He always took an active part in school and church work and helped to found the "Pennyroyal Reunion." After the decease of his first wife he married Mary Catherine Herron. No issue. He died in 1891.

VI. Martha Borton, daughter of James Borton and Mariah Wilson, married John Henry Kennon, 8-1 mo., 1852. Both deceased,; date of death is not known. They went west in the fifties and settled at Pilot Knob, Kansas, and later located at Raderbury, Montana. They had two daughters:—

Mittie, b.

Katy, b.

The last named was the first child born at Raderbury, and the citizens showed their respect for parents and child by lifting John Henry to their shoulders and carried him about the town with much mirth and good humor, and the parents, to show their appreciation for the respect shown them, gave the privilege of naming the child, and their choice was Katy. John Henry Kennon died many years ago, and Martha (Borton) Kennon married Archer Maycomer. No children were born to this union. None of the family are living at present, except the daughter.

VI. Lewis Wetzel Borton, son of James Borton and Mariah Wilson, married Matilda C. Law, 20-4 mo., 1854. He died 14-3 mo., 1889. She is still living and resides at Clyde, Cloud County, Kansas. He was a lawyer, and well known all over the state as "Judge Borton," although he never filled the office of judge. He represented Cloud County in the Kansas legislature one term, defeating Charles W. Van Demark. He enjoyed the reputation of being the only man that ever made Jay Gould laugh. Lewis Wetzel Borton and Matilda C. Law had no children.

VI. James Wesley Borton, son of James Borton and Mariah Wilson, went to California in 1849, where he resided until 3-5 mo., 1864, when he was murdered by the Piute Indians. (See page opposite).

Isolena, b.

John, b.

Harry Cunningham, son of Maria Louisa Ables and William Cunningham, married Zella Shicks.

Bethuel Ables said that he felt as if the Good Being had been specially good to him. You want to hear of early life. It shows the goodness of God. I am amongst the first residents of the township. I was born in 1806, within a mile of this spot, amongst the wolves, Indians, and snakes. My father died when I was six years old, and left me the oldest of the family upon mother's hands. John, who has just spoken, was next oldest. One night he and I, as the wolves were troublesome, penned the sheep right up against the cabin. In the night the wolves came and howled and pushed about the house. The sheep were killed and wounded. It made our little hearts quake at the danger. Once I went for my uncle, Reuben Borton, through a wheat patch for water. I was terribly afraid of snakes. I stepped in my bare feet on two copper heads while I was going, and also on an old hoop which flew up and struck me. I jumped so high each time that I brought no water back. My uncle found and killed the snakes. This is the way the children were brought up. There were no near neighbors; for miles around there was nothing but paths. One day I was riding on an errand through the woods on "Kate," and suddenly a man's hand came from behind a tree on my thigh. I told of it and was informed it was a robber looking for land buyers, who had money. I escaped because I was a boy. In a few days we heard of a murder on the Maginnis farm. The hand of Providence was around us, or we could not have lived. We suffered. I was out after the cows one day, and in crossing a creek walked on a log into the stream and jumped to get over. I lit in the mud and went down and down, and could not get out—the more I stepped the more I was fastened. I would have been there to this day, if providentially some chips had not floated near me, and enabled me little by little to reach a slim branch above me. I learned the blacksmith business. I made the tools to clear this country. I made the hose, the axes and the mattocks for the settlers as they came. I was once when a boy about frozen, being taken from the horse insensible when coming from Gilliland's mill. I had to ride several miles after night, and it was only Providence that led Uz. Shores to save my life. I was here when there were not thirty people in the township, and had this meeting been thirty years ago I would have seen here many people I knew in earliere and subsequent days. I know all of Pennyroyal, and know how to make the oil too. In the early days we boiled it in kettles; now a four-horse load is needed to fill a "gum." It was hard work to gather Pennyroyal. It grows by "grasshopper springs." The springs near it are generally filled with grass-hoppers, and the field with weeds, etc.

The above is an extract from a talk given by Bethuel Ables, at the "Pennyroyal Reunion," which is held annually in Oxford Twp., Guernsey County, Ohio. Bethuel Ables, was the oldest son of John Ables and Ann Borton, daughter of Benjamin, whose early home was in Oxford Twp. He resided there before the township had a name.

V. William Borton, (always known as Uncle Bill), son of Benjamin Borton and Charity Rogers, married Matilda Wilson. Their children were:—

Wm. Borton, Esq., then delivered an address, the "History of Pennyroyaldom," as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:—By reference to the programme you will see that the duty assigned to me is to give a brief history of Pennyroyaldom. Many inquiries are made as to the meaning of Pennyroyaldom, its boundaries and how the name originated, etc. In answer I will state that my grandfather, Benjamin Borton, emigrated to this township from the State of New Jersey in 1804 and settled on the line of the Old Wheeling Road, leading from Wheeling to Zanesville, said road having been previously marked out by Colonel Zane under a contract with the government. Pennyroyal, being of a spontaneous growth, soon made its appearance upon the newly cleared lands; and he, having learned the art of distilling it in the State of New Jersey, soon commenced the process of distilling the well known oil of pennyroyal in this township; and his sons, grandsons, and great-grandsons have kept it up ever since. The pennyroyal plant is a native of North America and differs from the English pennyroyal and all other plants having the same name and possesses valuable medical qualities. But the name Pennyroyaldom, as applied to Oxford township, is comparatively of recent date and originated from a reply of our worthy citizen, Mr. Morris Morton, while Commissioner of the county, to some complaint in reference to high taxes, "that when every thing else failed we would go out and pull pennyroyal enough to pay them," and at the expiration of Mr. Jonathan Rose's term of office as County Commissioner, also of Oxford township, at a social meeting called by him, it was said to be "in honor of Pennyroyaldom." Its boundaries are not limited, but Oxford township is claimed to be the center. But a "history" of pennyroyaldom means something more than has been said and indeed more than time will permit to be said on this occasion. Hence we will content ourselves with a few facts and incidents connected with it, some of which are written and others traditional. Guernsey county was erected or organized in 1810 from territory formed by territory formerly included in the counties of Belmont and Muskingum and was so called because a large number of its inhabitants were from the Isle of Guernsey. James Killon of "Tinker Hill" in Oxford township was one of the first Commissioners. Oxford township was organized, of course, at the same time, but there is no record until the year 1813.

Wm. Borton: Last year I was restricted to a history of pennyroyal; today I am free to say what I will, but have no speech. I will refer only to three circumstances: In 1833, when I was only seven years old, in the days of horse mills, people got up early. My father rose early one morning to go to the horse mill. He found the heavens ablaze with meteors, seemingly falling like snow flakes, and as thick and fast. He wakened the family, and I saw the great sight, and it so impressed me that I remember it vividly to this day. My father went on to the mill, whilst everybody else, through alarm, stayed at home. He soon got his grinding. He ever prided himself upon the courage which made him go. The second incident was at school at Center, when Daniel Patterson announced to the astounded pupils that there would be a "Polemic." Yes, a "Polemic." What that horrible thing was I could not imagine, for the teacher was a terror. Samuel F. and Robert Armstrong and William Ferrell knew something of it. It was explained. We were to debate, "Which is the most useful animal, the cow or the horse?" I was put up barefooted for the horse. My speech was, "You can go to mill on a horse, and you can't on a cow." The horse won. The other incident is as to my procuring a school certificate, in 1848, from Charles Armour, before the school system of the state was reformed. I went with fear and trembling. J. O. Grimes was in the office, with his feet on the table. Grimes' sole was worn. I wished him out of my sight. "Bound Ohio," said Armour. I did, and told its capital. "What is the capital of Pennsylvania?" he asked. I had fortunately just heard and answered. I was proud of the beautifully printed and elegantly filled certificate he gave me. He was a pretty writer.

THE PENNYROYAL REUNION.

This annual gathering is held in the township of Oxford, Guernsey county, Ohio. It was in this township that Benjamin Borton and Charity Rogers, his wife, located a home of one section of land in the year 1804 and many of their descendants still reside in the locality of the early home, hence we have thought proper to insert some extracts from letters sent to, and speeches made at this re-union, by some of those connected with and descended from Benjamin Borton.

Col. J. D. Taylor and Hon. Wm. Borton were on the program to speak on the "Recollections of Old Center." The former was absent, but the latter responded as follows:

I do not consider myself a very old man, and to give me this subject is not a compliment to a man of my looks and age; but, after thinking the matter over, I find that I can go back pretty far in the past. And to do so we must leave these green fields, these present improvements—leave the mowing machine and the threshing machine—and we find ourselves in imagination in an unbroken forest, where the tinkle of the cowbells, the sharp crack of the hunter's rifle or the heavy stroke of the woodman's axe are the only sounds to break the solemn stillness. And to come to old Center: The original house was burned down, and one erected near the present site of hewed logs. My first teacher's name was Anguish, and I thought that the man's name and nature corresponded, for he did put more anguish into his administration than I thought to be proper. He taught a loud school, where every scholar studied out loud, and the noise produced was a perfect bedlam. Here he gave a specimen of reading, "A hungry bear in walking mood, came from a leafy neighboring wood," etc. Then a man named Patterson taught for a number of years. Oh, those long, dreary years, to me, at least. I went into the room a little late my first morning and began out loud to get my lesson, when both teacher and scholars commenced laughing. The custom had been changed. I remember of going to the old Pisgah church to hear Rev. Keil, who is still living, and it was before the floor was laid. Strangely enough, I can still remember the text to this day: "For as many as are led by the spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

Clyde, Cloud Co., Kansas,

August 10, 1881.

To My Friends of Pennyroyaldom:—

It is impossible to be with you in the flesh, but I am with you in spirit at your grand re-union today. There can be no passion, no emotion any purer than that which bears us back to the spot which was the cradle of our childhood, the playground of our boyhood, the theatre of our manhood. Has the Holy Book a passage more deeply touching than that which pictures to us the daughters of a captive race, in their desolation of soul, weeping by the waters of Babylon when they remember their lost homes and the vanished towers of Zion? Has profane verse a line more exquisitely eloquent than that which tells us of the brave young Greek—beautiful and radiant as his native land—bleeding and dying on the plains of Latium, with his darkening eyes fixed on Greece? Has political history a grander incident than that of Warren Hastings, the dictator of India, in the midst of all his ambitious schemes, all through his struggles, his triumphs, his crimes and splendors, ever and always cherishing in his purer heart the hope and purpose of once more returning to his ancestral home and spending there in calmness and goodness the evening of his stormy life? And so it is today with all the Pennyroyalists who are out of Pennyroyaldom. "In our minds," we are all there with you at the re-union. We all landed there this morning, in the exact spot where we were best acquainted, on the spot most endeared to us, and which the dust of our people for generations has sanctified.

Yes, we are all with you today. We are visiting around among the old patriarchs and their posterity. We are at the Dillons, Marlows, Fergusons, Morton, Heads, Wherrys, Moores, Cranstons, Taylors, Andersons, Kennons, Ableses, Likeses, Fairview, Middletown, Bunker Hill, on the "Pike," on the "old Wheeling road." We are in our visions and memories, riding down young hickory trees by the Center school house, carrying water from the "cool spring," going to spelling schools, playing "blackman" with the Taylors, Scurrs, Marlows, Merrymans, Mortons, Fergusons and Wherrys, all boys together, having a general good time. We are planting mint and tobacco, pulling pennyroyal, hoeing corn, climbing cherry trees, borrowing watermelons from neighbors on the sly, distilling wormseed, going to apple cuttings and debates, running off to "Putney," occasionally to a dance. The old chestnut trees, bee trees, coon trees, and the great oaks, which to us boys were held in as great esteem as were the sacred oaks of Dodona by the Grecians, in the rustling of whose leaves the voice of the supreme divinity was believed to be heard.

It is astonishing how we have scattered from our native Pennyroyaldom. From the field to the forum, to pulpits, to senates, to gold fields and to foreign lands. How many of our playmates have fallen in battle? How many have faced the mouths of belching cannon, and whose blood has crimsoned the limpid waters of our fair land from the rock-ribbed slopes of the Cumberland Mountains to the blood-stained fields of Chickamauga, who have been roused a thousand times from their midnight slumbers to the tented field by the long-roll and sprang to arms to meet to foe in defense of their own loved country, and today they wear crowns that, like the laurels of Tiberius, shall be forever green, defiant of time and imperishable.

How many young scholars in Pennyroyaldom today, fresh from their books, with the fire of sunny Attica in their brains, pant and burn to one day fling the glory of their intellect over all the country, and with their eloquence launch it into ecstasies and lead it captive. The public displays of these young chanters of the paeans of the nation swell the glowing current of each one's glorious career, and are so many waves that lift him from the strands of private life, carrying him with flying colors under a full press of shining sail, out upon the broad sea, where all the land beholds him with delight and cheers him on his venture.

Hoping that these re-unions may be kept alive until I can attend one in person, I am your o'd schoolmate and friend.

Lewis W. Borton.

From the Borton Family.

Clyde, Kan., Aug. 16, 1884.

To all Pennyroyalists to whom these presents shall come, greeting: Know ye that we, the undersigned, sons and daughters of Pennyroyaldom, hereby send greetings. We are with you in spirit at your re-union and regret we cannot be with you in the flesh. We shall ever remember our native land, our fathers and our mothers. The brightest diamond in the Kremlin of Russia is not good enough to deck their brows. We earnestly hope these re-unions may be kept alive, as we expect to send a car load of Pennyroyalists next year. With best wishes for your success, we remain your friends.

Lewis W. Borton, Winfield S. Borton, James W. Borton,
John W. Borton, Baker Borton and all their wives.

He said that he was there with very little to say. He had no politics to preach, no axe to grind. My old home was within four hundred yards of where I now stand, and about fifty years ago, if you had been here, you could have heard me crying. I used to sit under that tree with Col. Taylor, conning our lessons and thinking of being president. We may be president yet. I have the size and he the intellect. My name is Lewis Wetzel Borton. My father was a great admirer of the old Indian fighter and named me after him. I have traveled a great deal since I left Pennyroyaldom; but I don't come here to advise you to leave. If you have a good thing here, do not leave it. I am like the man who always took hash when away from home, because then he always knew what he got. There are many tender recollections in this place. You have forgotten all your trials and tribulations, your labors and your cares, and have come together for a day of joy and happiness. You have left your plows standing idle in the furrow, while you devote one day to old memories and old friends. Small incidents change the whole course of a man's life. My life was changed when I went west to the gold mines. I have no reason to regret that step, yet I do not come here to blow up the west.

While we have big crops this year, we may not have so big next year; and I advise you to stay right here, if you are fixed. Col. Taylor has told you about the railroads, those great iron arteries that span our continent from ocean to ocean, and from lakes to gulf. Of the white winged sails that dot the ocean, and of the telegraph wires that reach across the Atlantic, carrying the news down among sunken vessels and over dead men's skulls. But in a few years I expect to see ships sailing through the clouds, and to hear of collisions several miles in the air. Why, I expect to see the Capitol at Washington lifted up bodily and set out somewhere in Kansas. The people of this country can accomplish anything. That same fire and patriotism that met scarlet and steel in deadly combat still burns in the hearts of the American people. I have helped to build up that western country, and I have built several towns myself. Come out and see. You will find my latchstring hanging clear out in the street. I came here to see you through coal dust, and hot sun, traveling hundreds of miles, and I want you to come to see me—if not all at once, come one at a time. I love Ohio, my native state, even as a man loves his mother better than his wife; he could get another wife, but never another mother. Look at California, bright, affluent, with rivers of gold, the gem of the continent. Look at Nevada, her brow encircled with the pure tiara of silver stars. Look at all the intervening states, some rich, some beautiful, some magnificent. But here is Ohio, last but not least; my mother's state—the state where I went to school a poor boy, knowing nothing, seeing nothing; yes, and reading nothing except that old United States spelling book. And in that I read, "My son, do no ill." I didn't come here to tell you whether you ought to be Democrats or Republicans—only came here to shake hands with you, to meet you once again in God's country where red apples grow. (After describing several of the western states, he continued: I tell you as an old schoolmate and teacher that in every country you will find inconveniences. Wherever you can be happy, there is the place to be. I thank God that I was made out of good old Ohio soil. I think it eclipses the soil everywhere.

The above are remarks made by Lewis Wetzel Borton of Clyde, Cloud county, Kansas, which county he formerly represented in the Kansas legislature.

THE OLD MUSICIAN AND HIS HARP.

Many years have passed away,
 Golden locks have turned to gray;
 Golden ringlets once so fair,
 Time has changed to silvery hair.
 Yes, I'm near the river's side,
 Soon I'll launch upon the tide,
 Soon my boat with noiseless oar,
 Safe will pass to yon bright shore

Chorus.

Bring my harp to me again,
 Let me sing a gentle strain,
 Let me hear its chords once more,
 Ere I pass to yon bright shore.
 Oh, those chords, with magic power
 Take me back to childhood's hour;
 To that cot beside the sea,
 Where I knelt at mother's knee,
 But that mother, she is gone.
 Calm she sleeps beneath a stone,
 While I wander here alone.
 Sighing for a brighter home.

Chorus.

Soon I'll be among the blest,
 Where the weary are at rest;
 Soon I'll tread the golden shore.
 Singing praises evermore.
 Yes, my boat is on the stream,
 I can see the water's gleam;
 Soon I'll be where angels roam

Chorus.

The day's pleasure was enlivened by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," with words written specially for the occasion by John D. Talbot, Esq., of Barnesville, as follows:

AULD LANG SYNE.

Should old acquaintance be forgot
 Old memories never come?
 x Dear old harp, I'm going home.
 Should old acquaintance be forgot
 And Pennyroyaldom?

Early home of Betheuel Borton, Sr., Evesham, (Mount Laurel,) N. J.

Burial place of Benjamin Borton, Sr., on old Homestead, Gurnsey Co., O.

Chorus.

For Pennyroyaldom, my friends,
For Pennyroyaldom,
We'll take the cup of kindness yet,
For Pennyroyaldom.

Our feet have trod these hills and vales,
We've heard the forests hum;
The woodman's axe hath reared these homes
In Pennyroyaldom.

Chorus.

The honored name will soon be lost,
Old Oxford will be mum.
By name more glorious 'twill be known,
'Tis Pennyroyaldom.

Chorus.

The Mortons, Bortons, Taylors, Macks,
And many more to come,
The Bells and Wherries hold their name.
In Pennyroyaldom.

Chorus.

The days of old make memory wild,
Our hearts beat like a drum—
Should old acquaintance be forgot
And Pennyroyaldom?

Chorus.

IV. Benjamin Borton, son of Obadiah Borton and second wife, Mary Driver, married Charity Rogers. Their oldest son:—

Bethuel, b. 2-1 mo., 1782; m. Rebecca Clifton, b. 12-9 mo., 1786, daughter of John Clifton and Ann, and whose children were:—

Charity, b. 4-9 mo., 1806; m. John Mason, first wife.

Mary, b. 9-12 mo., 1807; m. Samuel Borton.

Benjamin, b. 16-3 mo., 1809; m. Abigail Borton,
m. Elizabeth Wright.

Nathan, b. 27-9 mo., 1810; m. Mary T. Ayers,
m. Mary Butcher Borton.

Rebecca, b. 9-11 mo., 1812; m. Joseph Borton,
m. Joseph Bates, 1846

Bethuel, b. 24-9 mo., 18y4; m. Mary Butcher.

Job, b. 29-11 mo., 1818; m. Mary Clifton.

John, b. 4-9 mo., 1820; m. Elizabeth Taylor,
m. Rebecca Wise.

Martha, b. 29-1 mo., 1822; m. Asher Ely, first wife.

Samuel, b. 2-1 mo., 1824; m. Jane Brown,
m. Sarah Taylor,
m. Betsy Sipes.

Reuben, b. 6-1 mo., 1817; died in infancy.

These Bortons descended from Bethuel and Rebecca and immigrated to Fulton county, Ohio, in 1836. Formerly they worked rented land in Evesham township, Burlington county, New Jersey. They entered land in the county named above and endured many hardships such as are common to a new timbered country. Most of them lived to old age, seeing the forest land develop into most beautiful homesteads.

Bethuel Borton died in New Jersey, age fifty years. Rebecca, his widow, came to Ohio in 1836 and spent her remaining years with her children and other relatives, among which were Samuel and Ann Clifton, also her nephew, John Clifton and Sarah, his wife. She died 8-4 mo., 1861, age 74 years, 5 months and four days.

Abigail Borton, wife of Benjamin Borton, son of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton, was a daughter of Isaac Borton, who came from New Jersey to Ohio, and died 11-10 mo., 1844, age 68 years. Abigail was a sister of Sarah Clifton.

Rebecca Clifton Borton, wife of Bethuel Borton, was born in New Jersey, 21-10 mo., 1786. She was the daughter of Nathan Clifton and Mary. Nathan Clifton was a son of John Jr., and Ann Clifton and was born in New Jersey, 30-10 mo., 1761. John Clifton, Jr., was the son of John Clifton and Sarah. He was born 17-9 mo., 1727.

Rebecca Clifton Borton's brothers and sisters, children of Nathan and Mary Clifton, were:—

Ann, b. 5-2 mo., 1782.

Sarah, b. 5-4 mo., 1784; m. Reuben Sparks.

Rebecca, b. 21-10 mo., 1786; m. Bethuel Borton.

John, b. 27-7 mo., 1789.

 Elnathan Bates, b. ; m. Miller.
 Rhoda Bates, b. ; m. Gilbert Barber.

We copy the following facts from "History of the Early Settlers of Franklin Township, Fulton County, Ohio." Compiled by A. W. Fisher. Joseph Bates married Rebecca Borton, widow of Joseph Borton. They had three children, Steven, Elnathan and Rhoda. He was also a grandparent to Elizabeth Bates, wife of Roland Borton and daughter of Joseph Bates, Jr.

I find that the first settlers within the present limits of Franklin and the old limits of Brady, were Joseph Bates and family, who in 1832 settled on the southeast quarter of section 2, town 7, north range 4 east, and all this country for years was known as the Bates settlement. From a letter from his daughter, combined with the statement of several of the first settlers, I have obtained the following sketch of Mr. Bates' life, which had become almost legendary, but I have been very careful to give only the facts on which the majority agree. Joseph Bates was born in Vermont in the year 1787. From Vermont he went to Canada, where he married Harried Dodge, by whom he had eight children, four sons and four daughters, who came with him to Williams county. Truman, who moved with the Packards to Missouri in 1840; Thomas, who died on the Isthmus of Panama, while on his way to California about 1849; Joseph, who died in Iowa in 1867 or 1868; James, who now resides in Boon county, Iowa; Harriet, Mrs. Theron Landon; Belinda, Mrs. Warren Hancock; Mary, Mrs. Cyrus Barrett, and Elizabeth, Mrs. Hiram Alvord, now of Reading, Michigan. Mr. Bates moved from Canada to New York, and from there he moved to Richland county, Ohio, where he settled in a very early day. In the summer and winter of 1830 and 1831; Ezekiel Masters says: "He took his gun, dogs, bear and wolf traps and 150 muskrat traps and came to Harden county, where he hunted and trapped till spring and lived on muskrats and other game which he caught or shot. He bought his land in Williams county with the money that he got for the bear's oil and skins, wolf scalps, coon, muskrat and beaver skins, and had $130 in money left." In February, 1832, in the dead of winter, he started with his family for his new home, and cut his road through an unbroken wilderness from Ottawa to Defiance, and stopped a short time with John Perkins at Brunersburg. From there he went to where Pulaski now stands, and cut the road through to what is now the Shilling's farm where he lived for three days in his wagon until he built a cabin. The cabin stood near the confluence of Bates and Ayres runs, on the farm now owned by John Shillings, and his nearest neighbor was Mr. Opdyke, 12 miles away. Here he cleared some land and raised the first grain within the present limits of Fulton county, but spent the greater portion of his time hunting and trapping. In the spring of 1835 he was elected the first supervisor, and the first fence viewer in Springfield township. On June 7, 1836, his daughter, Harriet, married Theron Landon, who was the first person married in what afterwards became Millcreek township, and Miss Bates the first in the old limits of Brady, and no doubt the first within the limits of Fulton county. In 1840 he sold his farm to Wm. Ayres and bought of Asher Ely, the farm now owned by Jacob Schenk in sections 10 and 11. He first lived in a log house which stood in the field southwest of the present graveyard. Here on the 20th of March, 1845, his first wife died, and the following year he married Mrs. Joseph Borton, a sister of Benjamin, Nathan, John and Job Borton, who are so well known throughout this country. In the year 1852 he erected a large frame tavern, which was the first within the present limits of Franklin township, which he ran for a number of years, and the building remained as an old landmark till December 30, 1885, when it was destroyed by fire. He called it "J. Bates' Inn," and it was largely patronized, as the Angola road was then the great thoroughfare for travelers and the movers to their western homes. He and Theron Landon cut and logged out the Angola road from Joseph Ely's to his place, and Mr. Cogswell cut the road from there to Cogswell's corners, west of the St. Joe. Mr. Bates lived on this farm till 1861, when he moved to Iowa and died in Storey county of that state, August 1, 1866, at an advanced age of 79 years.

VI. Benjamin Borton, son of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton, married Abigail Borton. Abigail was a daughter of Isaac Borton and Sarah Peacock and a sister of Sarah Clifton. Their children were:—

Sarah, b. 6-12 mo., 1836; m. Thomas Heaton, b. 27-6 mo., 1828.

Lydia G., b. 18-5 mo., 1839; m. Daniel Prickitt.

Abigail died 23-11 mo., 1861 and Benjamin married Elizabeth Wright. No issue by the last marriage.

Daniel Prickitt, son of Japeth Prickitt and Phebe Sharp Borton, daughter of Josiah Borton and Margaret Sharp, married Lydia G. Borton. Josiah Borton came to Lumberton, Ohio, from New Jersey, in 1812. Japheth Prickitt was the son of Isaac Prickitt and Dorothy Joyce.

VIII. Jesse Ellen Prickitt, daughter of Lydia G. Borton and Daniel Prickitt, married Daniel Myers. Their children were:—

Marjorie G., b. 12-2 mo., 1904.

Donald C., b. 26-3 mo., 1902.

Benjamin Borton, son of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton, was born in Burlington county, New Jersey, 16-3 mo., 1809. When twenty years of age he hired to Levi Lippincott for $100.00 a year, to work on a farm. Later he and his brother, Nathan, rented what is known as the Rhoda Hampton farm, near Hartford, New Jersey, for four years. This farm was formerly owned by Bethuel Borton. They tilled the farm in the summer and distilled oil of sassafrass in the fall and winter. In the year 1835 he married Abigail Borton, daughter of Isaac Borton and Sarah Peacock of New Jersey, by whom he had two daughters, Lydia G. and Sarah C. In 1838, he came to Ohio, in company with his wife's brother, Aaron Borton and Japheth Prickitt. They walked the entire distance from Burlington county, New Jersey, to Clinton county, Ohio, where they visited at the home of Josiah Borton. Later Benjamin and Aaron Borton came to Fulton county, Ohio, and Benjamin bought the Packard farm of 160 acres, slightly improved, for which he paid $1,800, which he occupied the remainder of his life. He went back to New Jersey and moved his family to Ohio, in 1839, in company with the families of John Mason and John Clifton. He started the first store in his log house and also the first nursery in this part of the country. The latter business he conducted for several years. He filled many township offices and although he was bountifully blest he was plain and unassuming. He was a life long member of Friends church, the meetings of which he attended faithfully and through life lived his religion. His wife's father, Isaac Borton, came to Ohio in 1840 and lived with him, where he died 10-11 mo., 1844, age nearly 69 years and was the first person buried in Friends cemetery, Franklin township, Fulton county, Ohio. Abigail Borton died 23-11 mo., 1861, and in 1863 Benjamin married Elizabeth Wright of New Jersey, who survived him. She died at Moorestown, New Jersey and was buried 5-12 mo., 1892. She was loved and highly esteemed by all who knew her.

Benjamin Borton died 10-2 mo., 1888, age nearly 79 years. He started out in life poor and empty handed but through integrity and honest dealing amassed a fortune without becoming grasping or

Nathan Borton, son of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton, was born in Burlington county, New Jersey, 27-10 mo., 1810. He moved from New Jersey to Fulton county, Ohio, and was one of the pioneers of that county. He tells his story as follows:

"My brother Bethuel Borton and myself came from the state of New Jersey in the fall of 1835, to enter land. We had to walk several hundred miles of the way. We went to the Bates settlement and he showed us the north half of section 8, town 10, north of range 5 east. We went to Lima, Ohio, and entered the same. This land is in what is now known as German township. In the fall of 1836, we moved out and began to improve the land. My brother, Bethuel and family, and Joseph Borton and family came in one wagon and mother, myself, Job, John, Martha Ann and Samuel in the other wagon. We were six weeks and two days on the road and reached our destination on the 22-10 mo., 1836. We had to cut our road the last mile and a half of the way. We lived in the wagons until we built a house, which was of logs on three sides; the roof slanted one way and was of bark, as used by the Indians. For the front, quilts were hung up and in front of these we kept a large log heap burning to keep out wolves and bears. The same winter John and myself walked to Lima and entered 80 acres apiece for John and Job Borton, near the Oak Openings.

I was elected the first Justice of the Peace of German township, and married the first couple after the township was organized. Their names were Abram West and Julia Roley, 10-10 mo., 1844. I bought the northeast quarter, section one, in township 10, north of range one west, 160 acres, and Bethuel moved on to it the same fall and myself the next summer."

Nathan Borton married Mary J. Ayers, 23-10 mo., 1839. She died the 17-4 mo., 1850 and left two small children. He then married his brother's widow, Mary G. Borton, 21-12 mo., 1850. She was left a widow with five small children, who grew up to man and womanhood, loving him as much as they could have loved their own father. He was for many years a minister of the Society of Friends, and died the 16-6 mo., 1889, in his seventy-ninth year, in Toledo, Ohio, at the home of Alice Ross, his niece, and he is buried in Friends cemetery, Franklin township, Fulton county, Ohio. A good man gone to his rest and reward.

In contrast with the hardships endured by the Borton pioneers, who settled in the wilds of Ohio in the early days, we append a short history given by Emily A. Town, the youngest daughter of Nathan Borton and Mary T. Ayers. My father and I went to Lincoln Nebraska, where we met James Town, to whom I was married by the Judge of Probate of Lancaster county, 3-5 mo., 1872. From Lincoln we rode in a lumber wagon to Rulon Borton's, thirty-five miles, and from there to Hamilton county, where my husband had formerly located a quarter section of land, on which a sod house had been built, "a dugout," size 12x14 feet, walls and roof of sods, floor of earth and bedstead made of poles. My father accompanied us to this our future home and when he took leave of us, my husband provided him with a compass, to guide him on his way back over the plains. Our neighbors were bachelors, no woman living within five miles of us. Later we built a new sod dwelling, using the sod as brick, first laying two lengthwise and then two crosswise to bind the wall together. The roof was supported by poles on which willow branches was laid, then sods lapped like shingles. Our well was one hundred feet deep and curbed with pine boards at the top and bottom and the water was drawn with two wooden buckets, with pulley and a rope. Here our first child was born on the 7-4 mo., 1873. Five days later a storm, called a "blizzard," came on and lasted for three days. It was so dark and the air so filled with snow that you could not see a building at any distance and the settlers tied ropes to guide them from the house to the barn and back, that they might care for the stock. These times I shall never forget. Cattle, driven by the storm into the Platte river, soon chilled and died and all stock that was not well housed died of cold. We also saw the great swarms of grasshoppers like bees, looking at a distance like a cloud or sand storm, for which that country is noted, and when the wind ceased blowing, down they came striping every green thing; in three days time not a thing was left except prairie grass, which indeed gave poor encouragement as to our future living. Pawnee Indians were going up and down the Platt river and called on us quite often. Prairie fires often swept away a settler's whole crop. The fire was a scene never to be forgotten as it advanced for miles in one unbroken line.

Bethuel Borton, Jr., son of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton, was born in Burlington county, N. J., 9 mo., 1814, and came with his brother, Nathan Borton, to Fulton county, Ohio, in 1835, to enter land. He located a part of the north-east quarter of section 8, German township. The brothers returned to New Jersey as they came, on foot, walking several hundred miles of the way. In the fall of 1836, he and his family, in company with Joseph Borton, his brother-in-law, moved on to the land and improved the same until 1844, when he located and moved on to the north-east quarter of section one, township 10, now known as Franklin township, Fulton county, Ohio. He resided here until 1847, in which year he went to Philadelphia on a visit. On his return he had reached Toledo, Ohio, where he was taken sick and died. His brother brought his remains home, in a wagon, and he lies buried in Friends cemetery, Fulton county, Ohio. He was one who helped to organize and build the church, and many times was called to deliver a message as he believed it was given to him for utterance. He died 11 mo., 1847, aged 33 years and 2 months.

VII. Charity Borton, daughter of Bethuel Borton, Jr., and Mary G. Butcher, married Eli Stoner. Their children were:—

Alice, b.	; m. E. Ross.
Armintha, b.	; m. Jesse Borton.
Byron, b.	; m. Mary Borton.
Priscilla, b.	; m. John Cox.

Eli Stoner was a member of Company C., 111th Reg. O. V. I. and died 9-2 mo., 1900.

VIII. Alice Stoner, daughter of Charity Borton and Eli Stoner, married E. Ross. Their children were:—

VII. Samuel Butcher Borton, son of Bethuel Borton and Mary G. Butcher, was born 17-5 mo., 1840 and died 17-3 mo., 1907. He married Sarah Jane McLaughlin, at Medina, Mich., 21-10 mo., 1860, in the presence of Warren Poaler and I. W. Snow, by Amos Kendall, Justice of the Peace of Medina, Mich. They went to housekeeping at the old homestead of his father in a log house, situated in the middle of an apple orchard, Franklin township, Fulton county, Ohio. He followed farming and raising peppermint; lived here four years. One son and one daughter was born to them here. 25-9 mo., 1861, William Butcher Borton was born; 2-9 mo., 1864, Mary Borton was born. They then moved to his place east of Bean Creek or Tiffin River, on the old Angola road. He had bought this 80 acres of land from Charles H. Carrol, 26-10 mo., 1860, for $560.00, about the time he was married. He cleared up quite a tract of it and built a house and barn. They lived there one year and then moved to his father-in-law's, John McLaughlin; lived in his log house and farmed part of his place. Here their son George Orland Borton was born. John McLaughlin built them a new house and they lived there a number of years, then, 24-10 mo., 1870, he bought the "Old Boulinger Farm," 3 miles east of West Unity, Williams county, Ohio, on Plank road, of 70 acres, 20 acres cleared. He cleared about 20 acres more. There was a log house and log barn on this place and he built a large frame barn, put an addition to the log house and had lumber to build a frame house. He planted a large peach orchard and enlarged his apple orchard; he also distilled oil of peppermint, sassafrass and wintergreen and followed general farming. He, 8 mo., 1878, exchanged farms with Armstrong Irving and got 100 acres of land for his 70 acres and gave $2,200.00 to boot, here he farmed and made sugar, had about 500 maple trees on this place. (Went to Methodist church in Ohio.) He sold this place to John Richlie, 9-4 mo., 1880, for $6,000.00 and went to Hillsdale county, Michigan, bought the "Joseph B. Bagley" farm, 2 1-2 miles south of North Adams, near Mud Lake or Lake Adams. He paid $4,060.00 for 58 acres of fine land; here he raised fancy thoroughbred stock and did general farming. He sent his son William B. Borton to Hillsdale College, and his daughter Mary and youngest son George to the Academy at North Adams. (They attended the Methodist church at North Adams.) His wife's health failed and the doctor advised him to take her South. The fall of 1883 he took his oldest son, William B., and went to Richmond, Va., and bought, from Nathan Shipman, 325 acres of land, 3 miles east of Richmond, between York River R. R., at Jennings Crossing, and Williamsburg Turnpike. He left William in charge of the farm and came back North and brought his wife and two children with him to Virginia, where he lived 13 years and followed general farming. He sold to George Rich, 15-1 mo., 1887, 160 acres, or south portion, near Williamsburg Turnpike. He then built a new house and barn near Jennings Crossing, and bought a right of way road, out to the 9 mile road. They lived in the barn one month until the house was finished, and kept the stock in sheds, so as to be near for their meals as it was nearly a mile to the old house. (They attended the Baptist church in Virginia.)

17-3 mo., 1896, he rented his Virginia farm and brought his wife, daughter and grandson to Brooklyn, N. Y., via Federalsburg, Md., and stopped to see his son William on his way. They lived for a time with his youngest son, George, at 447 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. He then moved to Clarenceville, with his oldest son William, who had just sold his Maryland farm. He followed the cooper business for a time, then obtained a position as carpenter and handy man in a large dry goods store in New York, Lee Tweedy Co., Worth St., near Broadway. He worked there until they went out of business and then came to live with his youngest son, George, who had bought a lot and built a house in Rutherford, New Jersey, 1-2 hours ride from New York. He engaged in the manufacturing of extracts and perfumes, stayed in Rutherford several years, then moved back to Brooklyn, N. Y., and finally located at Glenmore Ave., and Enfield Street, the Wm. Steethoof house, where he died about 13 minutes of 8 p. m., 17-3 mo., 1907, of cerebral apoplexy. He was a good Christian and died in the Euclid Avenue Baptist church; was taken while addressing the Young People's Christian Endeavor meeting, was talking about always being prepared to die; these were almost his last words. The funeral services were conducted at the late residence, Glenmore Ave., and Enfield St., at 8 p. m., Wednesday, 20-3 mo., 1907. Rev. A. D. Bennett, 60 Sheppard Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., preached the sermon, also went to the grave with the family, Thursday morning, Cedar Grove cemetery, L. I., undertaker, Oscar Boch, 781 Manhattan Ave., Brooklyn. He left a wife, two sons and one daughter; William B. Borton of Freeport, L. I., Mrs. A. M. Morrison, Arlington, R. I., George O. Borton, Bridgeport, Conn.

William B. Borton, oldest son of Samuel Butcher Borton and Sarah Jane, his wife, was born 25-9 mo., 1861, at the old homestead of Bethuel Borton, his grandfather, Franklin Township, Fulton county, Ohio. He lived with his father until they moved to Virginia; he stayed there with them for a while and made several trips to sea on the S. S. Pioneer, of the Clyde line, running from Richmond, Va., to Philadelphia, Pa., worked in the engineer department, as fireman, also made a few trips on S. S. Roanoke, O. D. S. S. Co., running between Richmond and New York. He was engaged for a time as handy man with the firm of Acker, Merrall & Condit, fancy grocers, 132 Chamber St., New York, then he made a trip west, through Nebraska and Iowa, engaged in railroad building and various other occupations. Sold out his outfit and returned to his old neighborhood, in Ohio, 12 mo., 1889. The 25-12 month of the same year he was married to Cora B. Kennedy, of Bryan, Ohio, (formerly of Pulaski, Ohio). She was born 26-10 mo., 1863, on a farm near Pulaski by Rev. G. H. Pridsly, witnesses, W. F. Kennedy and Jennie Kennedy. They went to Richmond, Va., to see his father and mother and stayed there and farmed the place with his father till 1890, then they went to Federalsburg, Mr., and bought a farm of S. L. Richardson, known as the "Shipyard Farm," in Dorchester county, Md., on the Nanticoke River. They sold out there and came to Brooklyn, N. Y., 7 mo., 1896, and went to work in the ice plant as fireman for the Wm. Ottamian & Co., Fulton Market, New York, corner of Front and Fulton Sts., 21-12 mo., 1897, he was appointed fireman in the department of Water, Gas and Electricity, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was stationed at the Ridgewood pumping station. 11 mo., 1901, he was appointed oiler and was laid off 31-1 mo., 1902, for lack of work. He made two trips in S. S. Chaster W. Chappin to Providence, R. I., then went with the Edison Electric Light & Power House, First Ave., 73 9th St., N. Y., till 31-1 mo., 1903, and was then reinstated as oiler at Ridgewood pumping station. 26-6 mo., 1905, he was appointed engineer and transferred to the Mattawan pumping station, near Freeport, L. I., 14-3 mo., 1907, was again transferred to Morris Park pumping station, where he is at present employed. Four boys have been born to them; Perry Burns Borton, born 29-7 mo., 1900; Loyal B. Borton, born 24-8 mo., 1902, died 29-9 mo., 1902; William Earl Borton, born 29-11 mo., 1903; Theodore Borton, born 26-11 mo., 1905. All four boys were born at 68 Glen St., Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly owned by W. B. Borton.

Mary Borton, daughter of Samuel Butcher Borton and Sarah Jane, his wife, was born in the old log house of Bethuel Borton, her grandfather, 2-9 mo., 1864, Franklin township, Fulton county, Ohio. She lived at home until married to Albion Morrison, 29-10 mo., 1893, by Rev. C. C. Meafier, at Washington, D. C. Three children have been born to them, Charles Albion Morrison, born 2-11 mo., 1894, at Richmond, Va.; George Everitt Morrison, born 3-10 mo., 1898, at Litchfield Conn.; Hazel Inez Morrison, born 16-1 mo., 1900, Norwich township, Kent county, R. I. Albion M. Morrison was born 17-6 mo., 1867, Surry Hancock county, Maine. He learned the carpenter trade but after he married engaged in the manufacture of perfumes and extracts, which he follows at the present time.

George Orland Borton, second son of Samuel Butcher Borton and Sarah Jane, his wife, was born 21-7 mo., 1866, in John McLaughlin's old log house, Franklin township, Fulton county, Ohio. He stayed with his father till he went to Virginia and was with him about one year there, then went to work on the S. S. Roanoke of O. D. S. S. Co., running from Richmond to New York, worked up from coal passer to oiler, then went with Acker Merrill & Condit, fancy grocers, 132 Chamber Street, New York, worked in their liquor department 3 years, then went with H. B. Kirk & Co., 69 Fulton Street, New York, wholesale and retail liquor dealers; was there 13 years. He had a fine chance to go west with Clarke Bros. & Co., distillers and rectifiers, Peoria, Ill. He took charge of their rectifying plant, was there nearly three years and was taken with malaria and jaundice and had to give up and go back east to his home in Rutherford, N. J. Then went into business in New York and failed; lost all he had. He then secured a position with the Wm. Bergenthal Co., Milwaukee, Wis., and was there over two years. His family not liking the west, he obtained a position as compounder with Ritterman & Kraemer, New York rectifiers. He then had a Job Borton, Sr., son of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton, was born in Burlington county, New Jersey, 29-11 mo., 1818. He came with his mother, brothers and sisters and settled in what is now German township, Fulton county, Ohio, near Bean Creek, in the then unbroken forest. They were six weeks on the journey and arrived the 22-11 mo., 1836. They lived in the wagons until a house was built. The next winter he and his brother John entered land in the Oak openings, then called fine lands. This they sold about 1840 and bought their old homesteads in Brady township, William county, Ohio, and settled there the next year. Job lived with his brother John, until after his marriage with Mary Clifton, in 1845, and soon afterwards moved on to the farm where he lived until 1885, when he sold his farm and moved to Abilena, Kansas. He and his brother Nathan built the first distillery for essential oils, in German township, and which was the first, no doubt, in Fulton county. He distilled peppermint and other oils, and in 1850 built a cane mill and helped to manufacture the first sorghum molasses. In later years he dealt in blooded stock and he and his son Job Borton, Jr., owned the finest herds of Holstein cattle in the county. He accumulated many acres of fine land and gave each of his children a good farm. He was a life long member of Friends church, and gave the ground for church and cemetery, and with his four brothers built the church in 1850. He was the father of three sons and one daughter and also took three different children and reared them to woman and man's estate. After making his home for some time at Abilene, Kansas, he came back to visit old time friends and died at the home of Ezra Borton, West Unity, Ohio, 19-3 mo., 1888, being in his seventieth year of age. He lies buried among those with whom he toiled and loved, in the quiet cemetery of Friends, in Franklin township, Fulton county, Ohio.

John Borton (VI)

laughed at the discouraging features which ordinarily accompany new opportunities. He made them his own door into larger possibilities.

Noticing the dwarfed condition of the live stock of this section of the state, he brought Cotswold sheep from Canada, Moreno sheep from Vermont and Pennsylvania, short horned Durham cattle from Kentucky, and Poland China hogs from eastern Ohio. His neighbors were many times amazed at the enormous prices he paid; which on one occasion reached the large sum of one thousand dollars for two cows. In all these ventures he succeeded, and his name became throughout this section of the country, and at the fairs for many miles in all directions, a synonym for high grade stock.

Not only was he first in stock raising but in raising of all kinds of fruits and grains. His name associated with stock, fruit or grain was a guarantee of its being first-class in quality.

He succeeded financially to the extent that the land distributed among his children and others was ten hundred and twenty-seven acres, while his gifts in money and chattels reached well into thousands.

He was a living example of what a young man can do, almost without money or education, if they have the one gift he possessed—a determination to keep expenses inside the income.

Nor was this his only ambition. Whether acting as fruit grower, farmer, stock-raised or shipper his must not only be as good, but he was not satisfied if his were not the best.

He believed in the excellency of the Republican party, the society of Friends, honesty, sobriety, loyalty.

He was distinctively gifted in making home enjoyable. He retained his farm hands for years in succession. Almost a score of men, who had toiled in his service, came to shed tears and take leave of one for whom they had worked day in and day out without jar or jangle.

Mr. Borton bought and sold a great many farms. He dealt only in good land. His motto was "Good land is cheap at any price, while poor land is dear at any price."

He was a lover of music, while great portions of the scriptures were vividly planted in his memory.

He was twice married. First in 1839 to Elizabeth Ann Taylor. To them were born ten children, eight of whom survive him. His wife died in 1887 and that same year he was united in marriage to Rebecca Wise, the widow of Solomon Wise, of Fayette, Ohio. To them was born the comfort of their old age, Grace, who is closing her eleventh year.

It is a remarkable fact that Mr. Borton and two of his brothers died in the same year of their age. The age at death was as follows: Nathan Borton, 78 years, 8 months and 19 days; Benjamin Borton, 78 years, 10 months and 19 days, and John Borton, 78 years, 10 months and 8 days.

John Borton leaves in direct line to mourn his loss, nine children, thirty-three grandchildren, and thirty great-grandchildren.

He was laid to rest in the Friends cemetery. A large concourse of people followed him to his grave. He will live longest in the hearts of those who know him best.

He married Henrietta Haines, daughter of Joseph Haines and Deborah Troth, and located at Atlantic City, New Jersey, 1866, and purchased the Dennis Cottage of twenty-four rooms, to which he built additions from time to time until 1892, when he built the New Dennis Hotel, which contains two hundred and thirty-six bed chambers, single and in suite, and the hotel can accomodate four hundred and eighty-six guests. It is equipped with forty-eight private baths and four salt water baths. The ground occupied is 85 by 200 feet, and the building is five stories high, and the largest in the state of New Jersey. Joseph H. Borton sold the property in 1900 to his nephew, by marriage, Walter J. Bushy, who has again remodelled the same as shown in the cut. Joseph owned and conducted this hotel for thirty-four years. He has been identified with all of the improvements of Atlantic City, was a member of the city council for many years, and for twenty-one years was president of the city board of health; helped to secure the present garbage crematory and hospital, and also fathered the sinking of the first artesian well, for which the city is famous, also the deep well of free dispensing water. He also helped both by his money and influence to further all business and municipal improvements. The first lumber company, water works, sewerage company, and all of the railroads which enter the city. None of these early projects could be considered profitable. He is still interested in the city gas works, and the Atlantic City National Bank, which are remunerative. Joseph H. Borton and Henrietta Haines had but one child, Josephine H. She married Joseph H. Marvil, and resides at Atlantic City, New Jersey. Henrietta Haines, wife of Joseph H. Borton, died 17-4 mo., 1907.

Joseph H. Borton represents one of that number who through thrift and business sagacity has risen from poverty to opulence, and has become a leading factor in the city where he resides.

The portrait of John Borton, which adorns another page of this book, was secured by Caroline Borton, his daughter, and the original is now in the possession of Mary Davis Zelley. She also has an elaborate, "Rising Sun" quilt made by Caroline Borton Davis, when a little girl, she being thus engaged while her parents were visiting their Borton friends in, what was then, "The Wilderness of Ohio." The material of which the quilt is made, was fashioned for Caroline by her school teacher, thus we see kindergarten work was begun even in that early day. The quilt is well preserved and still brilliant in its colors.

Quilt pieced by Caroline Borton Davis

THE "RISING SUN" QUILT

This quilt was pieced by Caroline Borton when a little girl while her father (the preacher) and mother were on a long driving visit to Ohio.

The quilt is a "Rising Sun," pieced of sprigged calico in beautiful reds, shading off to soft pinks; charming greens shading down to buff; and quaint browns.

The stars in the corners are against a background of sprigged blue. The graduation of colors produces a most pleasing effect, which with the harmony of the whole color scheme makes the quilt a work of art.

VI. Samuel Borton, son of Samuel Borton and Mercy Owen, was born in Burlington county, N. J., 1802, and came with his parents to Lexington, Stark county, Ohio, in 1810. His parents were "Hixite Friends," and his father followed the occupation of farming and the making of brick, which he taught to his sons. When he reached his majority, he united in marriage with Mahala Nash, by whom he had eight children, four sons and four daughters; of these only one son and two daughters survive him, this 1907, T. Artemas Borton, M. D., of Plymouth, Indiana, Miss Louisa A. Borton and Mrs. Rhoda A. Johnson of Bourbon, Indiana. Samuel Borton was a friend to progress and improvement. He carved out for himself a home from the primeval forests of Ohio, and helped to improve the commercial and educational advantages of the county in which he lived. He continued to beautify and enjoy his home at Marlborough, Ohio, until the time of his death, which occurred at the age of 55 years. He was a student of the Bible, well versed in history and kept fully posted as to all living issues of his day and time. After his death the family removed to near Plymouth, Indiana, where the mother resided until the time of her death.

In a letter written by Samuel Borton, dated Marlborough, Ohio, 30-12 mo., 1852, some five years before his decease, he portrays his belief as to the Great Ruler of the Universe in the following stanzas.

That there must be a Great Supreme,
Who rules both land and sea,
And the planets in their orbits roll,
With such velocity.

He hears the young ravens when they cry,
He formed the lions' den,
And to the Pelican in the wilderness,
He sustenance doth send.

Why should we not such a being love?
And attend each secret call,
For if he protection should withdraw,
We must into annihilation fall.

His letter closes with the following:

And now I bid you all adieu,
I have nothing more to say,
But hope our love and friendship to renew
Upon some future day.

SAMUEL BORTON.

VI. The passing of Ezra Borton, as noted in last week's Reporter, from out of this life to the great eternity beyond was the rounding up of a life full of good deeds, rich in testimony for his Master. Rev. J. P.

Stockton, who had known and loved him for thirty years, stated that he admired his even temper, his broad minded toleration of all branches of the Christian church and his sterling integrity. This would be the verdict of all who knew him.

Blessed beyond most men in the retaining of all his mental faculties up to the time of his death so near the century mark, he used his powers always on the side of right and justice. The xample of such a life cannot be too highly commended to the young and rising generation.

The funeral services were held from the M. E. church on Thursday at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. L. Hill, assisted by Rev. J. P. Stockton, and the remains laid to rest in the Friends cemetery in Franklin.

The following account of his life is taken from the Report of March 7, 1906, which was written after various talks with him and had his approval.

Ezra Borton, the son of Samuel and Mercy (Owen) Borton, was born March 3, 1811, near the village of Lexington, two miles north of what is now the city of Alliance, Stark County, Ohio. His father had emigrated from New Jersey the fall before his birth.

The eyes of young Ezra first looked out upon the wilderness. He was the youngest of eight children—three daughters and five sons. With one exception theirs was a family of Bible names in the order of their birth, Rhoda, Ruth, Deborah, Samuel, Isaiah, Asa, Ira and Ezra. All the rest have long since passed away. With the exception of Samuel, who died at 55 years of age, all the sons lived to a good old age.

The sons all learned to farm and in connection became expert brick-makers in their father's brick yard.

In speaking of his early remembrances, Mr. Borton said that among the first things was that of his mother leading him to the log Friends church in the village of Lexington, which was among the first churches of that denomination in Ohio.

The memory of his mother was very dear to him. Her deep piety, her even temper and good teaching have gone a long ways towards making him the faithful man he has always been.

His education was received at the old log school house common to those days. They were built by the settlers and the teacher hired by subscription—a se'ect school. In the summer a school was held for the smaller children, for as the boys and girls got to the age when they were helpful at home they had to take their part in making a living.

Thus his childhood passed going to school winters and working on the farm and in the brick yard summers.

At the age of 20 he joined the Hixite or liberal branch of the Friends' church. To that church he has proved faithful all these years, striving to do his duty to God and man.

His father and mother were raised Friends, but the former did not join the church till after the division occurred, when he joined the Hixite branch. This was about the time his son joined.

March, 1832, when 21 years of age, he was united in marriage to Jane Heacock. To this union were born three daughters: Emaline, now Mrs. Benj. Gaskill, of Nebraska; Angeline, Mrs. Webster Richards, of Nebraska; Jane, Mrs. Joshua Pollock, a widow, who lives in Missouri.

His wife died in February, 1837, soon after the birth of her youngest daughter, with scarlet fever contracted from the doctor who attended her.

One year after her death he was married to Ann Brown, of Stark county. It was shortly after this he moved to Portage county near Randolph, where they lived for about 16 years.

In 1854 they moved to Fulton county, where he purchased 160 acres of land nearly all heavily timbered. This he went to work to clear up and soon had a comfortable home.

To this union were born four daughters and one son:—the twins, Almira and Alvira, who live at Alvordton; Sabina, deceased; Lucina, Mrs. Levi Haas, of Ithaca, Mich.; Joseph, his only son, who lives in Morenci, Mich.

His second wife died in September, 1861, and he remained a widower until March, 1863, when he was married to Mrs. Sarah Barber Heacock, of Mahoning county, who had four children to whom he became a true father, and all of whom came to love him as their own father.

Mrs. Borton, liking a country better improved than the part of Fulton county they lived in, the family moved back to her farm of 20 acres in Mahoning county in 1865, where they resided for eight years.

It was at that time, 1873, that West Unity had taken on new life by the promised Mansfield, Coldwater and Lake Michigan railroad.

Mr. Borton having exchanged his 160 for the farm now occupied by his grandson, Wendell Borton, and West Unity being near the farm and on the boom, they moved there, and Mr. Borton's was among the first houses built during that time.

While living in Fulton county, Alice, now Mrs. W. T. Orton, the only child by this union, was born.

For more than 30 years, Mr. and Mrs. Borton made this their home. Simple, uneventful life, but always on the right side—respected and beloved by all.

He was keenly alive to all that was going on in the world, and, with an intellect unclouded by age, a delightful companion. He attributed his long life to simple living, and for years past, which had not been years of active work on account of his being crippled by rheumatism, his diet was largely bread and milk. He was an inveterate enemy of alcohol drinks and tobacco. Perfect control of one's temper and appetite, temperance in all things, he believed to be the key to longevity.

For 30 years he fought slavery—being one of the original Garrison Abolitionists, and for more than 75 years had been a teetotaler.

The victories that impressed him most during his long life were along moral and religious lines, rather than inventive—the abolition of slavery and the religious toleration and fellowship that is taking the place of the old sectarianism.

VI. Ezra Borton, son of Samuel Borton, Jr., and Mercy Owen, married Jane Heacock. Their children were:—

Emaline, b. ; m. Benjamin Gaskill.

Angeline, b. ; m. Webster Richards.

Jane, b. ; m. Joshua Pollock.

In 1837, Jane died and Ezra married Ann Brown. They had five children:—

We transcribe the following letter from Leonidas Hubbard, son of Eliza Borton and Alexander Hubbard. He was the father of Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., the explorer who died in Labrador.

Rapid City, Mich., 5-2 mo., 1907.

My old and esteemed friend:—

Your letter of the 30-1 mo., 1907, after a run to Kalkaska, Traverse City, and Rapid City, was this morning dropped into our mail box.

I think my grandmother's name was Tabitha Rodman, when a boy I had my head well filled with family traditions, by my mother and grandmother. For a year or more I made my home with Uncle Darling

Borton, in Wood county, Ohio, and they named their first baby Tabitha, after her grandmother.

Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., after graduating, I think, reported for a time for the Detroit Evening News, then he struck out for New York and did whatever came to hand until he got a berth in the Outing Magazine. This was his delight. He was first sent through the Southern states, with camera and pen, to obtain copy for the magazine. He supplied lots of graphic pen pictures and photos of the Moonshiners and their dogs. Again he was sent, for the same paper, into the wilds of Canada, with Indian trappers and dog sleds. For a year or more he had work on the editorial staff of the paper.

The maiden name of his wife was Mina Benson, a Canadian girl of slight figure but as elastic and tenacious as steel. She could tramp through the woods, with "Lon," from morning until night, carry a rifle, and shoot game or catch trout with the best of them. Since his death she has followed his trail through Labrador, saw the place where he died, and is now lecturing to crowded houses about the trip.

I will note a few incidents of my father's life and may be of my own. More than one hundred years ago, my grandfather, Ephraim Beech Hubbard and family, migrated from the state of New York to the "Western Reserve," and stopped in what became Deerfield township, Portage county, Ohio. Besides the parents, there were three boys and one girl, Sophia. Of the boys, Alexander, the oldest, had been adopted by Captain Kidd, of sea-faring fame, (not the pirate hung at the yard arm). The connection with Kidd did not bring him a "bag of gold," but led him to return to his old haunts, where he received a fairly good education. Among other acquirements, he became a good practical surveyor, just what was needed in a country that was filling up with settlers, and where the government had only established township lines.

This gave my father a monopoly of the surveying business for many miles around. The last time I saw Uncle Daniel Borton, as we were looking over his well improved farm, he said, "Your father came from Deerfield, 12 miles, and surveyed this land for me, and I went to Deerfield and mauled rails to pay him for it." My father was a good woodsman, a great deer and bear killer. An old German that I was working for, said to me, "Hubbard, I tells you what your daddy did, he gilled dwenty-five durkeys in one day." When Daniel Direr had his eyes shot out, in Deerfield, one night by Indians, Alexander Hubbard was one of the hunters who followed and captured them.

The Bortons were hunters, too, in the early days of uncivilization of the Western Reserve. I doubt not that the desire to prospect Labrador, rather than to become altogether absorbed in literature and city life, was planted in Lon's make-up by his ancestors.

As for myself, I think I have never committed any acts worth recording in a book. I have always had a hankering for the wilds of nature, with Darling H. Borton for a comrade, we encamped on the St. Jo river for a week, in 1842, where the Territorial road crosses it. The wolves howled around our camp every night, and it was music to our ears.

I moved into Wright township, Hillsdale county, Michigan, in the year of 1851. In 1852, I found a beech log where a mother wolf had raised her pups. I set a couple of traps and caught five of them. They were the last ever caught in Wright township, and I received a bounty of seventy-five dollars. In the year 1856, I went to California; I killed hundreds of deer there and sold the meat to the miners. One day, I shot a big bear, knocking it down, but it got away from me. Another day, I killed three California lions—it took only three shots to do it. I have tread on and over rattlers, but was never bitten. This is enough of this stuff.

I am keeping over one hundred swarms of bees, and guess it will pay. I never saw a place where bees would collect as much nectar in a day.

VII. Leonidas Hubbard, son of Alexander Hubbard and Eliza Borton, married Louisa Williams. Their children were:—

William, b. ; m. Melissa Baker.

Mary, b. ; m. Cory Durbin.

Della, b. ; m. Joseph Andrews.

Louisa died and Leonidas married Ella Vandervort. Their children were:—

Leonidas, Jr., b. ; m. Mina Benson.

Daisy, b. ; m. Arthur Williams.

VII. Leonidas Hubbard, Sr., was formerly a member of the Michigan Legislature, and an expert apiarist. He was one of the early settlers of the township of Wright, Hillsdale county, Michigan, but later removed to Rapid City, Michigan.

VIII. William Hubbard, son of Leonidas Hubbard and Louisa Williams, married Melissa Baker. Their children were:—

Jesse, b.

Nina, b.

Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., son of Leonidas Hubbard and Ella Vandervort, married Mina Benson. Leonidas was the son of Eliza Borton and Alexander Hubbard. Eliza was the daughter of Daniel Borton, the son of Samuel Borton and Rhoda Packer. Samuel was the son of Obadiah Borton and Susannah Butcher. He was the son of John Borton, Jr., the oldest son of John Borton and Ann, his wife, who came from the Parish of Aynho, Northamptonshire, England, in 1682.

Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., was for some time engaged as a reported on the "Outing Magazine," a sporting paper, after which he engaged to explore the interior of Labrador, a feat which he would have accomplished had he not been diverted from "the trail," and perished from hunger. The death of Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., occurred in 1903. Later the work was taken up by Mrs. Hubbard, his widow, and we think fully accomplished. Mr. Dillon Wallace, a New York attorney who was in the former exploring party with Hubbard, also, later successfully explored that country.

(See "Lure of the Labrador Wild," by Dillon Wallace.)

Alexander K. Hubbard was about fifteen years of age when his parents removed to Ohio. He remained there only a short time, however, and then, returning to New York state, lived with Captain Kidd, and attended school. He paid particular attention to the study of surveying and after becoming skillful in that branch of science, he returned to Ohio and secured employment as a surveyor of land. He surveyed a great part of that section of country lying around Deerfield, but after his father's death he bought the interest of the other heirs, and took up his residence on the homestead. He was industrious and energetic and attended closely to his own business, in which he exercised good judgment. His usual recreation was found in the hunt and many a wild animal fell before his unerring aim. He filled many offices of trust in the township and county, discharging his duties with that fearlessness and ability for which he was noted. He was at one time a candidate for the legislature and was defeated by only one vote. At the time of his decease he held the office of justice of the peace.

VI. Sarah Borton, daughter of Daniel Borton and wife, Tabitha Rodman, married John Best. They moved to Wisconsin and from there to Chicago, Illinois. Sarah's girlhood was spent in Wood county, Ohio. Their children were:—

Horace Potter Borton, son of Daniel Borton, Jr., and Mary Foughty, was born 19-1 mo., 1832, and was named after Dr. Horace Potter. He attended the common schools, Damascus Academy and Mt. Union College, taught country schools and worked at the stone and brick mason trade. He was superintendent of the school at East Liverpool, Ohio, 1862-'63, about that time he began to preach for the Disciple church, which he joined when he was about 17 years old, from that time until 1884. He taught school and preached almost continuously, besides working a large farm on the Mahoning River, after this he continued to preach for several years, at length his health became so poor that he had to discontinue the work, except to speak at an occasional funeral service. He was a natural orator and a fine scholar, and one of the best debaters in that part of the country. He held two public debates with VIII. Jesse Packer Borton, son of Darling Haines Borton and Amy Cornelius Ingling, was born in Smith township, Columbiana county, Ohio, 26-4 mo., 1840. He was taken by his parents to Wood county, Ohio, when two years of age, where he lost his mother, 13-5 mo., 1845. Next he was taken to Logan county, Ohio, and became one of the family of Willard Hill, who took him to Cassopolis, Cass county, Mich., 2 mo., 1846, after one year he moved to Geneva, Cass county, Mich., where he resided until the spring of 1847, when he went to live with Col. Henry Walton of Jefferson township, Cass county, Mich. Here he learned to read and make the rudimentary calculations in arithmetic. On the last of the 8th month, 1849, he ran away from Col. Walton's for fear that they would send him down a well to recover some rings which he had lost from the well bucket, and went back to Willard Hill's, who had in the meantime moved to Brownsville, Cass county, Mich. He remained until 2nd month, 1850, when he went back to his father's home in Bryan, Ohio. From 1850 to the year 1860, his home was changed several times, living in Steuben county, Indiana, New Berlin, Ohio, Metz Corners and Hamilton, Indiana, during this time he had an inflammation of the bones which rendered him a cripple for life. In March, 1860, in company with his brother, he went to Brownsville, Cass county, Mich. He now commenced teaching school, which he followed until the winter of 1862-3, when he became a student in the graded school of Dowagiac, Mich., at which he graduated the 29-3 mo., 1866. He was now employed to teach the 2nd intermediate department of the Dowagiac school for three months, during the summer of 1866, after which he taught the White school for two years, taught the Vandalia Cass county, graded school for five years, also the Bronson graded school for four years, 1877-'80.

He experienced religion while at Bronson, in 2nd mo., 1881, and commenced to preach on the 10th of the 7th mo., 1881, preaching his first sermon in the Congregational church of Ceresco, Calhoun county, Mich. The 1-9 mo., 1881, he took charge of the Congregational churches of Prattsville and Ransom, Hillsdale county, Mich., for one year, being ordained by a council held at Ransom, Hillsdale county, Mich., 20-10 mo., 1881. After the expiration of the year he continued to preach for the Ransom church until he resigned, 1-5 mo., 1886, to accept a call to the Congregational churches of North Adams and Jerome, Mich. While pastor of the Ransom church he taught the Ransom school for about two years, also, a select term of two months. He also taught the Doty school during the summer of 1885. He continued as pastor of the North Adams and Jerome churches until 1-5 mo., 1889, when he resigned to accept a call to the Rockford church, in Kent county, Mich.; where he remained till death called him to his long home on the 26-3 mo., 1890, at four-thirty, a. m. The Death Angel knocked at his chamber and took him home to Glory.

Anna L. Thompson, second wife of Darling H. Borton and step-mother to Jesse Packer Borton, moved from Pioneer, Ohio, to Malta, Montana, where she spent her last days with her daughter, Viola Cox Ebaugh, wife of John Ebaugh. Viola was a daughter of Ann L. Thompson and John Cox, Anna's second husband. Anna died at the age of seventy-five years.

VII. Rebecca Jane Borton, daughter of Darling Haines Borton, and Amy Cornelius Ingling, married George Wilkerson, in Illinois, 1865. She was born in Columbiana county, Ohio, 31-8 mo., 1843. After the death of her mother at Freeport, Ohio, in 1845, she lived with her grandparents, William Fenimore and Rebecca Ingling, who took her to Cass county, Michigan, in the spring of 1847. She was taken by her father, 2 mo., 1850, to Bryan, Williams county, Ohio. In the 5 mo., 1860, she returned to Cass county, where she resided until the spring of 1864. She then went to live with her sister, Tabitha, in Whiteside county, Illinois, where she was married. In a few years the family moved to Beatrice, Nebraska, where they are living at the date of this history, December 10, 1885.

VII. John Fletcher Borton, son of Darling Haines Borton and Anna L. Thompson, was born in Richland township, Steuben county, Indiana, 5-8 mo., 1850. He married Emma Garfield, of Independence, Iowa. Their children were:—

Lizzie, b.
Royden, b.
Elsray, b.
Clyde, b.

VII. Margaret Ann Borton, daughter of Darling Haines Borton and Anna L. Thompson, married Henry Cox, son of John and Eliza Cox. Their children were:—

Jesse Leroy, b. ; m. Blanch Sloan.
William Worthy, b. ; died.
Henry Berton, b. ; single.
Mortimer V., b. ; m. Alma Robison.

Margaret Ann Borton was born at Metz Corners, Steuben county, Indiana, 7-12 mo., 1855, and died at Pioneer, Ohio, of cancer, 3 mo., 1885, and lies buried beside her father in Oak Grove cemetery, Bridgewater township, Williams county, Ohio. She lived with her parents until the death of her father in 1866, later her mother married John Cox and she resided with them until her marriage with Henry Cox, about 1874. The last days of her life were spent under much affliction and though dreading death so young, she died with a hope centered in her Redeemer.

John Flitcher Borton located at Tacoma, Washington. He became yard master in the Northern Pacific freight yards and was killed while making a coupling on a "flying switch." He was conscious, but died 48 hours after the accident.

V. Joseph Borton, son of Samuel Borton and Rhoda Packer, born 28-8 mo., 1781, married Nancy Clifton, a sister to Rebecca Clifton. Sally Clifton and Samuel Clifton. Their children were:—

Washington, Dec., 29, 1906—President Roosevelt has appointed J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, Chief of the Bureau of Manufactures of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Mr. Moore is president of the National League of Republican clubs, and was formerly city treasurer of Philadelphia. He has accepted the appointment and will enter upon the discharge of his duties about the first of the year.

Moore's Meteoric Career.

J. Hampton Moore's political rise has been meteoric in its speed from his entrance into the city hall family as the private secretary of ex-Mayor Ashbridge, on the first Monday in April, 1899. Shrewd, painstaking, tireless, and possessed of executive ability of a high order, he drew to him the attention of President Roosevelt at the very threshold of the national campaign, and that his services to the Republican cause are now rewarded in substantial form will be no surprise to the party or to his friends in this city.

Mr. Moore is a young man yet, only 40 years of age. He was born at Woodbury, N. J., March 8th, 1864, but has been a Philadelphian since boyhood. He began earning his living when 13 years old, and after attending public school commenced to study law. He continued as office boy and student until February, 1881, and then became court reporter for the newspapers. A couple of years later he entered the service of the Public Ledger, and remained in newspaper work until requested in 1896 to accept the position of chief clerk to City Treasurer Oellers. At the close of Mr. Oellers' term, Mr. Moore entered into the real estate business, which he subsequently abandoned to go into the mayor's office, where he remained until his nomination and election to the office of city treasurer, upon which duties he entered January, 1902.

Mr. Moore's connection with the Young Men's Republican club as its president, brought him into local prominence during various political campaigns, which resulted in his official advancement in the National and State Leagues of Republican clubs. Ten years ago he was chosen president of the State League, and served two terms. He is now in the second term as president of the National League.

VIII. J. Hampton Moore, son of Joseph B. Moore and Mary Dorff, married Adelaid Stone. Their children were:—

Clayton Fife, b.
Dorff, b.
Edward Morrell, b.
Harvey Cedars, b.
Mark Muckle, b.
Serena Cedaria, b.
Julia Dorff, b.
Richard Oellers, b.

VIII. Clarence Moore, son of Joseph B. Moore and Mary Dorff, married Marion Huttonway. Their children were:—

Joseph Edwin, b.
Albert Loeling, b.

Joseph B. Moore, father of Congressman J. Hampton Moore of this city (Philadelphia) died yesterday afternoon, 29, 11 mo., 1907, at Merchantsville, New Jersey, aged 71 years. Mr. Moore was born at Chew's Landing, New Jersey, and was successively a country school teacher, farmer and common merchant. He was a fine type of an old fashioned gentleman who was kind to all, and one whose thoughtful ministrations for many years made the pathway of life better for his fellow kind. He has been failing for some time, but was not obliged to take to his bed until a few days ago. His death was due to an attack of pneumonia. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and three children, the Congressman, Mrs. W. C. K. Wall and Clarence E. Moore. The burial was at Woodbury, his boyhood home.

VI. Charles Borton, son of Joseph Borton and Nancy Clifton, married Permalia Sitly. Their children were:—

Mary, b. ; died a young woman.
 Eleanor, b. ; died a young woman.
 Sarah Ann, b. ; m. Samuel Davidson.

V. Ralph Hunt, born 14-8 mo., 1790, married Mary Borton, daughter of Samuel Borton and Rhoda Packer. Their children were:—

Deborah, b. 15-6 mo., 1811; m. Samuel C. Fox.

Esaias, b. 15-9 mo., 1814; m. Mary Mason.

Elizabeth, b. 11 mo., 1816; m. William Wilson.

Samuel P. b., 25-1 mo., 1819; m. Susan Wheaton.

Joseph B., b. 26-9 mo., 1823.

Ralph, b. 28-11 mo., 1825; m. Rhoda Huntsinger.

Edward, b. 31-7 mo., 1828; m. Elizabeth Clark.

Rhoda Ann, b. 29-6 mo., 1821; m. Manly Peacock.

Ralph Hunt died 17-6 mo., 1899.

VI. Deborah Hunt, daughter of Ralph Hunt and Mary Borton, married Samuel C. Fox, 10-5 mo., 1852. Their children were:—

Mary A. E. Fox, b. 20-3 mo., 1833; m. James W. Matlack.

Thomas C., b. 3-10 mo., 1836.

VII. Mary A. E. Fox, daughter of Deborah Hunt and Samuel C. Fox, married James W. Matlack, 31-3 mo., 1852. Their children were:—

Deborah Elizabeth, b. 19-8 mo., 1858; m. David Munn.

Samuel Edward, b. 3-3 mo., 1863; m. Rose Hilburn.

Thomas Allison, b. 25-4 mo., 1866; m. Dora Jacobs.

VIII. Deborah Elizabeth Matlack, daughter of Mary A. E. Fox and James W. Matlack, married David Munn, 4 mo., 1876. Their children were:—

Olla Arabella, b. 22-12 mo., 1878; m. Frank F. Strasser.

James Keplorah, b. 13-6 mo., 1887; died 20-3 mo., 1891.

IX. Olla Arabella Munn, daughter of Deborah Elizabeth Matlack and David Munn, married Frank F. Strasser, 3-12 mo., 1902. They have one son:—

X. Carl Kenneth, b. 25-9 mo., 1903.

Since the article was published in the LaFayette Evening Call, of 18-2 mo., 1902, some changes have come to this home. On the 25-1 mo., 1905, James W. Matlack was summoned to his final rest. He was born in Haddonfield, N. J., 25-2 mo., 1830. He married Mary E. Fox, 31-3 mo., 1852, in the city of Camden, N. J., locating the farm where he died at LaFayette, Indiana, in 1856. He united with the Sickler Methodist church, in 1858, and retained his membership until his death; and as shown above, Olla Arabella Munn married Frank F. Strasser, and on 3-12 mo., 1903, Carl Kenneth Strasser was born, making the five generations living as shown in the cut, picture taken 1 month, 1907.

Review of Lives and Ancestry.

One could travel far and not find many houses wherein exists a family such as exists in a Tippecanoe county household. On a beautiful Wea farm, three miles south of the city, four women reside who represent four generations of a single family, the youngest member of which unique quartette is twenty-four years old and the eldest is nearing her ninety-second year. The "Call" takes pride in today presenting a group picture of these women. Their lives encompass the major portion of the country's history, for that reason being doubly interesting. Their home is the James W. Matlack farm. These four women are aged respectively: Mrs. Deborah Fox, 91; Mrs. James W. Matlack, 68; Mrs. Deborah Munn, 44; Miss Belle Munn, 24.

By far the most interesting member of this unusual family group is the great-grandmother. She is in the fullest possession of all her faculties and is very good natured. She is an entertaining talker and loves to tell of her Quaker ancestry, of her girlhood days spent on her native New Jersey heath and of her early experiences in the land of her adoption, Indiana, the dearest state of them all to her. She fell on the ice about a year ago and since has been unable to walk.

Mrs. Fox was born June 15, 1811, in New Jersey, in what is now Camden county. The first member of the family to come to the United States was her grandfather, Samuel Borton, who emigrated from England, landing in New York and going to New Jersey, where he settled in Eavesham township. The grandmother of Mrs. Fox picked huckleberries where Market street, Philadelphia, now runs. Samuel Borton was a speaker in the Primitive Society of Friends, being a prominent worker in that faith. One of Mrs. Fox's most cherished possessions is the old book of Quaker articles of faith, possessed by her grandfather.

This book is bound in leather and is entitled "A Treatise Concerning Christian Discipline." It was printed in the year 1752 and as it bears no publisher's name was probably printed secretly as the Quakers were then among the persecuted of the earth. Its title page gives the information that it was "Compiled with the Advice of a National Meeting of the People Called Quakers in the Year 1746, Held in Dublin," by John Rutty, M.D. It is divided into seven chapters, which comprise all the early beliefs of this peculiar sect. In the preface the author sets forth his object as two-fold, to do justice to a people represented as enthusiasts and madmen and to gain converts by their teachings. He says also that his faith is anomalous to the Church of England in as far as wishing for a restoration of the godly discipline of the primitive church. The book bears all the characteristics of the printing facilities of that early day. It bears on the fly leaf this signature, "Samuel Borton, His Book," 1780. Mrs. Fox has been offered a large sum of money for this rare old volume, but has steadfastly refused to part with it.

Mrs. Fox tells an interesting anecdote of this vigorous ancestor of hers. Being a member of the Society of Friends when the war of the Revolution broke out, he did not participate directly in the struggle of the colonies. It so happened one day he was a passenger on a boat which was attacked by a party of Britishers. In the hostilities which followed, the redcoats were successful in getting to the side of the American boat. A rope was dangling enticingly over the edge of the deck and up this rope the British soldiers started hand over hand. Samuel Borton, leaning over the edge of the deck, whipped out his knife, shouting as he cut the rope in twain, "Take the rope if thee desire it, but I guess we still need the boat." That was a typical Quaker method of avoiding the shedding of blood and yet coming off triumphant. It was the total extent of his participation in that eventful war.

Among her other relics which have come down to her as heirlooms, are two pewter platters, rare old daguerreotypes, shadow pictures, ancient china and pottery, and a handsomely engraved silver cream pitcher. The pewter platters are twenty-four and twenty inches in diameter respectively. Mrs. Fox says they are identical with those which were melted down into bullets by the colonists. They are extremely plain, having no markings other than those incidental to long usage. They were not to eat from but were used to contain meats and table dishes. The collection of daguerreotypes and shadow pictures is quite large and embodies valuable portraits of many of her ancestors. This collection is treasured by her for the old associations it keeps fresh in her mind and which this dear old lady never tires of telling about. The cream pitcher is hand engraved and is decidedly handsome from an artistic point of view as well as valuable intrinsically. The china and pottery are largely of the eighteenth century and comprises many beautiful pieces. There are plates, saucers, dessert dishes, cups and bowls. Besides these valuable possessions there is the baby rocker in which Mr. Fox herself used as a child and which has performed the same duty for the other three members of the quartette. It is of wood and was carved by hand. It has been laid away to await the coming of succeeding generations.

Mrs. Fox as Miss Deborah Borton, was wooed and won by Samuel C. Fox, in her native New Jersey in 1831. They continued to reside in that state until the year 1856, when they removed to Indiana. Mr. Fox was a lifelong Democrat and voted the ticket until the famous campaign of 1860. He cast his vote that year for the great emancipator. It was his last vote, for the day that Lincoln was inaugurated, March 4, 1861, his final summons came. His last words were, "Thank God I didn't vote for Douglass!"

Mr. and Mrs. Fox were the parents of two children, both of whom are living. They are Mrs. James Matlack, born as Mrs. Fox quaintly says, "in first grass," in 1833, and Thom Fox, born in "tater diggin'" 1836. With the former, Mrs. Fox now resides, while the latter is a prosperous merchant in Knoxville, Tenn. Mr. Fox was the first person buried in the Sickler cemetery, where now sleep many respected old pioneers of the county. There are six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren of this estimable old couple living. Three of the former reside in Tennessee and three in this county. Of the latter three live in Tennessee and two in old Tippecanoe. As proud as Mrs. Fox is of her ancestry and their honorable careers, she feels a deeper interest in those who have come after her.

The next oldest of this quartette is Mrs. James Matlack, whose birth date was noted above. She was married March 17, 1851, in New Jersey, her husband being of English descent and a native of that state. Mr. Matlack is well and favorably known throughout the county. They are the parents of Deborah Munn, the next oldest, who was born in 1868 in Indiana. Miss Belle Munn, the youngest of the four women, was born December 22, 1878, and is still unmarried. She also is a native of Indiana.

This is in brief, a history of the representatives of the four generations. They enjoy a large acquaintance in Tippecanoe county and LaFayette and are widely esteemed and respected.

VI. Esaias Hunt, son of Ralph Hunt and Mary Borton, married Mary Mason, daughter of Eleanor Borton and Abraham Mason. See Mason family, as to their descendants.

VI. Deborah Hnut, daughter of Ralph Hunt and Mary Borton, married Samuel Fox. Their children were:—

VI. Jesse Packer Borton, Jr., son of Jesse Packer Borton and Elizabeth Hunt, was born on 22-5 mo., 1816 and died 21-1 mo., 1893. He followed for some years the occupation of his father, the distillation of Essential Oils. Later he was employed in securing gas lines, acting in the capacity of an agent for a gas company. Later he was steward on two of the river steamboats; first the Camden Tow Boat, running from Borden town, N. J., to Philadelphia, Pa. Then the William Woodward, a propeller, running from Philadelphia to Baltimore, Md. The family removed from Burlington county, N. J., to LaFayette, Ind., 23-3 mo., 1878.

VI. Susan H. Borton, daughter of Jesse Packer Borton, son of Samuel Borton and Rhoda Packer, married Frederick W. Tarr. Their children were:—

Amelia Eliza, b. ; single.
 Eleanor Searlis, b. ; m. Edgar Miller.
 Martha, b. ; m. Charles J. O. Conwell.
 Jessie Elizabeth, b. ; died single, 1904.

VII. Eleanor S. Tarr, daughter of Frederick W. Tarr and Susan H. Borton, married Edgar Miller. Their children were:—

Eleanor M., b. ; m. William Hall.
 Susan, b. ; m. George Parkham.
 Josephine, b. ; single.

Edgar Miller, at the time of his death, was a coal dealer in Camden, N. J., The business is still, this 1907, carried on by his widow, Eleanor Searlis Miller. Martha Tarr Conwell and family reside in Gardansville, Virginia.

VII. Martha Tarr, daughter of Frederick W. Tarr and Susan H. Borton, married Charles J. O. Conwell. They have two children:—

Mary, b.
 Russell, b.

VI. Ralph H. Borton, son of Jesse Packer Borton and Elizabeth Hunt, married Emaline Gill Clair. Their children were:—

Sarah Elizabeth, b. 6-9 mo., 1843; m. Isaac Hoey.
 Rebecca Jane, b. 21-1 mo., 1845; m. Alfred Bowker.
 Benjamin Franklin, b. 25-8 mo., 1848; died 27-1 mo., 1872.
 Amy Anna, b. 28-5 mo., 1851; m. Isaac W. Hendrickson.
 Jesse Packer, b. 19-2 mo., 1854; died 14-7 mo., 1855.
 Susan Joanna, b. 21-11 mo., 1856; died 17-2 mo., 1870.

VII. Sarah Elizabeth Borton, daughter of Ralph H. Borton, and Emaline Gill Clair, married Isaac Hoey. Their children were:—

Ella, b.
 Walter, b.
 Emma, b.
 Ada, b.

VII. Rebecca Jane Borton, daughter of Ralph H. Borton and Emaline Gill Clair, married Alfred Bowker. They had two children:—

Beulah, b.
 Ethel, b.

VII. Amy Anna Borton, daughter of Ralph H. Borton and Emaline Gill Clair, married Isaac W. Hendrickson. They had three children:—

Joseph, b.

Ralph, b.

Herbert, b.

Ralph Hunt Borton, son of Jesse Packer Borton and Elizabeth Hunt, was born in Burlington county, N. J., 14-5 mo., 1820. He was a shoemaker by trade, and was noted for good workmanship. He was a true Christian man and what he promised was always punctually fulfilled. He was a member of the Baptist church of Haddonfield, N. J., for most of his life, and was sexton for many years. He was married to Emaline Gill Clair, who was a Quaker, but after her marriage, united with the Baptist church of Haddonfield. She was truly his helpmeet, and they spent more than fifty years of married life together, living most of this time in Haddonfield. Emaline Gill Clair was born 12-8 mo., 1817, and died 19-4 mo., 1896, surviving her husband slightly more than four years. Ralph Hunt Borton died 24-5 mo., 1892, in the 73rd year of his age.

None of Jesse Packer Borton and Elizabeth Hunt's children are living at the present time, 1905; Edward, the last, having died in the 1st mo., 1904.

Jesse Packer Borton, Sr., came west to Lexington, Stark county, Ohio, and obtained eighty acres of land, later he returned to New Jersey, came the second time to Ohio, but finally returned to New Jersey and died there. His son, Jesse Borton, Jr., married Mary Jane Vansciver. They moved to the state of Indiana. Mary Jane was a sister to Rebecca Vansciver, who married John Mason, second wife. Rhoda Packer Borton, mother of Jesse Packer Borton lived to be nearly one hundred years old, and became blind before her death.

The Mason Family, by Eleanor Lexington.

The first who assumed the name Mason doubtless derived it from his occupation. It is supposed that the word comes from the old Latin, macio, or it may be a modification of marcio, from marcus, a hammer. Maceria, the Latin word, meaning a stone wall, has for its root mac. In Italian we find the macigno means a stone lap-mill.

Le Mason, le Masson, le Masun are old forms of the name. In French it is Macon.

Mason is a favorite name in this country for counties, that is, many in eastern and western states are thus named. A township in Northumberland, England, is called Mason. Shall we say, without more ado, that it was the cradle of the Masons? Perhaps it was. One of the pleasures of genealogical research is that much must be left to the imagination.

One of the first of the name, of whom records are preserved, is Charles Mason, born 1616. He was a minister and a writer. Some of his letters are preserved in the British Museum. There are also MSS. of his in the Bodician Library. Archdeacon Francis Mason was born in Norfolk, of poor parents. He rose to power, through his own efforts, "after making a hard shift to rub on," as he expresses it.

Martin Mason, son of John Mason, "gent." of Lincoln, was a Friend, who was continually being imprisoned for his opinions. He was concerned in the controversy about wearing the hat during prayer. He took a broad-minded view of this question, and said: "What matter whether the hat be on or off, so long as the heart be right?" He wrote an address to Charles II, which was considered so forcible and able a document that it was printed broadside.

John Monch Mason was a Shakespearean commentator, and Sir Joseph Mason won lasting fame by not dying rich. He was one of the rich men of his day, and worth half a million. He founded the Scientific College at Birmingham.

The poet of the family, and regarded as one of the most eminent of his day, was William, of Yorkshire, born in 1725. A medallion of him may be seen in Westminster Abbey. He is now remembered as the biographer of the poet Gray.

George, the artist, was the grandson of the potter, who invented the celebrated ware called Mason's ironstone china. Its manufacturer and inventor in the new world was Melancthon Wells Mason, who designed parts of the first railroad engine. He is best known as the inventor of the locomotive headlight.

The name of one of the family is perpetuated in "Mason and Dixon's Line." It was Charles Mason, associated with Jeremiah Dixon, both English astronomers, who in 1763-67 surveyed the line ever since known by their names. Another surveyor was Porter Mason, of Connecticut. During the early part of the nineteenth century he was a member of the commission for defining the boundary between Maine and Canada.

In colonial history, the Masons play an important part. One state—New Hampshire—was founded by John Mason. Before the Mayflower load arrived, John was exploring the New England coast. This was in 1617, when he was governor of Newfoundland. Five years later he obtained a grant of land on the Merrimac river, and the following year sent over a shipload of settlers, who founded Dover and Portsmouth. The name Hampshire was given to the state from Hampshire, England, John's birthplace. The rights in the state of the Mason heirs were sold out; in 1691 Governor Samuel Allen acquired some of the property, and in 1746 a part was disposed of for £1,500 to twelve men of Portsmouth, known as the Masonian proprietors. Efforts to assert rights to part or all of New Hampshire, by Mason's descendants, proved a source of litigation for over a century.

Another pilgrim ancestor was Robert, who was one of Winthrop's company that settled in Roxbury, 1630. His son Thomas, one of the founders of Medfield, Mass., was a subscriber to the building fund of Harvard college. Thomas's wife was Mary Partridge, descendant of Richard De Pertriche.

Major John, born in England in 1600, after serving in the Netherlands under Fairfax, came over to take a hand in subduing the Indians. He made short work of the Pequots. By his prompt measures a handful of men within a few weeks annihilated the powerful tribe and secured a general peace that lasted unbroken forty years. He then sat down, pen in hand, and wrote a history of the Pequot war. He was one of the founders of Windsor, Conn., and for thirty years held successively every office in the gift of the town. Truly a right worthy and noble ancestor! His son, Captain John, inherited the splendid traits of his illustrious father. Tracing the line from "Pequot John," we come to Daniel of Lebanon, Conn., and his wife, Dorothy Hobart.

Here we must pause a moment, for she was the daughter, several times removed, as might be said, of a hundred earls, not to mention a few kings. Charlemagne and Alfred the Great being of the number. Dorothy, the Puritan maid, born in New England, was great-grandmother of Oliver S. John, Baron of Beauchamp, third cousin of Queen Elizabeth, who made him Lord St. John of Bletshoe when she came to the throne. The grandmother of Henry VII, Margaret Beauchamp, comes into the story, and, as the reader recalls, was a descendant of Gundred, fourth daughter of William the Conqueror. Other little branches of this illustrious genealogical tree were Margaret of Scotland Edgar Atheling, Lewis the Fair, Charles the Bald and Hildegard of Swabia. Daniel left one son, Joseph.

It was of another Jeremiah Mason, lawyer, that Daniel Webster said he was great through sound sense and sound judgment. His (Webster's) own professional ability, he declared, was due to daily association with him for nine years.

The founder of the Virginia branch of the family was George Mason, English royalist, who took refuge here in 1652. He was prominent in colonial wars. It was George Mason, born in 1725, who was a member of the Committee of Safety, in 1775. In the following year he prepared the declaration of rights and the constitution of Virginia. He was a member of the convention that framed the Constitution of the United States, which he refused to sign, and with Patrick Henry, led the opposition to its ratification, partly on account of what he considered its monarchical features. A distinguished member of this branch of the family was John Young Mason, member of the cabinet during Tyler's and Polk's terms, and afterward minister to France. To know anything about the history of Virginia is to know of the "Masons of Gunstown," and of their military and adventurous spirit. The Masons intermarried with the other well known and illustrious southern families—the Fitzhughs and Lees.

The Revolutionary records as well as colonial ones, reveal the names of Masons, and judging from the number of officers, they were always foremost in action. Stevens Thomson Mason entered the army as colonel; he was a general at its close. Abner, of Medfield, was in the ranks; so was Phineas, who was present at the execution of Andre. The late war with Great Britain also had its representatives from the family—Brigadier General Thomas Mason among the number.

The arms reproduced is argent, a bend wavy, azure between two spur rowels in chief, and a fleur-de-lis in base gules. Crest, a tower proper, masoned sable. Motto: Demeure Far La Verite—Keep fast by the truth.

Regarding the symbolism: the bend, representing the scarf, or shield suspender of a knight or military commander, signifies protection and defense. It is a bearing of high honor. Shakespeare's arms show the bend, with the addition of a lance. Alertness is betokened by the spur rowels, and purity or whiteness of soul by the fleur-de-lis; like all flowers, it also signifies hope and joy. The tower, emblem of solidity and grandeur, was usually granted to him who had faithfully held one for his king. As to the colors, argent means sincerity; azure, loyalty and truth; gules, military fortitude and magnanimity; sable, constancy.

I am informed by Miss Kate Mason Rowland, of Washington, D. C., a descendant of Colonel George Mason and also his biographer, that the arms he bore were not the same as those represented by the cut, while Binkes' General Armory gives arms for some eighteen families by the name of Mason. Arms were no doubt worn by the ancestors of the quaker Masons, but by these people themselves no attention was paid to chivalry.

To the summary given by Miss Eleanor Lexington of the Mason family at large; we might add those of Caroline Atherton Mason Briggs, an American verse writer, born in Marblehead, Massachusetts, 27-7 mo., 1823. She wrote "Do They Miss Me at Home?" She died in 1893.

Sir Josiah Mason, an English philanthropist, born in Kidderminster, England, 23-2 mo., 1795, began life by selling cakes on the street. He began to make pens in 1829 and his business increased till he became the largest penmaker in the world. He died in Erdington, England, 16-6 mo., 1881.

James Murray Mason, an American legislator; born on Mason's Island, Fairfax county, Va., 3-11 mo., 1798. He was United States senator from Virginia, from 1847 till expelled, 7 mo., 1861; drafted the fugitive slave law in 1850, was sent by Jefferson Davis, as Confederate Commissioner, with John Slidell, to England and France, in 1861 and was captured on the "Trent," 8-11 mo., and kept in Boston as a prisoner of war till 2-1 mo., 1862. He died near Alexandria, Va., 28-4 mo., 1871.

He was a champion of the "lost cause," which he believed to be right, but had his efforts been enlisted in the cause of humanity, his great energy and perseverance would have caused his fame to shine out as brightly as his illustrious predecessor.

William Ernest Mason, also an American legislator; born in Franklinville, N. Y., 7-7 mo., 1850; removed with his parents to Bentons Port, Ia., in 1858; was admitted to the bar, and began practice in Chicago, Ill.; was a member of the Illinois General Assently, and the state senate; of congress, and elected United States senator in 1897, in which capacity he was an ardent advocate of Cuban Independence.

It will be noticed in the biographies given of the Mason family at large, that it has been composed of three branches distinguished by leaders, great in military affairs, lawyer statesmen, and champions of religion. To the latter class belongs the branch of the family whose genealogy is more minutely traced out in these pages.

THE MASON FAMILY IN EUROPE.

Evsham, New Jersey, Branch.

The early history of the Mason family is to a great extent wrapped in obscurity, and particularly that branch with which this history has to do. The family no doubt lived in England from a very early day, and we believe it to have been of Anglo-Saxon origin. Among the first converts to the Quaker faith was one, Martin, from whom the Evesham branch of the Mason family is believed to have descended.

The following is copied from the Dictionary of English National Biography: "Martin Mason, (from 1650 to 1676), Quaker, was the son of John Mason, 'Gent.' of St. Swithians, Lincoln, whose will leaving his son Martin his seal ring, was proved 1675. Mason received an excellent education, was well versed in Latin, and became a copious writer chiefly of controversial tracts. He joined the Quakers early and between 1650 and 1671 was continually imprisoned for his opinions. Most of his writings are dated from Lincoln Castle. He was concerned as to the schism of John Parrot about wearing the hat during prayer. The Vision of John Parrot, 1682, contains on the back of the title page some memoriam verses by Mason, date 27, 10 mo., 1676. He seems to have taken a broad-minded view of the controversy, and wrote, "What matter whether hat be on or off, so long as heart be right!" (MSS. letters.) In 11 mo., 1660, Mason wrote from Lincoln Castle an address to Charles, King of England, and an address to both houses of parliament. They are clear and forcible addresses, setting forth that all compulsion in religion should be removed. They were printed in broadside. Martin Mason was one of the four hundred liberated by the King's Patent 13, 9 mo., 1672. The absence of any record probably implies that he left the Society. A volume of manuscripts left in the possession of a descendant, contained verses and letters addressed to judges and deputy lieutenants of the county of Lincoln, besides correspondence with Albertus Ottis Faben, a German doctor, who cured him of a violent inward complaint. See Faberis Deauro Potable Medicale, (1677, P. 6.) Mason had a daughter, Abigail, buried among the Quakers at Lincoln, 4, 4 mo., 1658, and a son Martin, Jr., married at St. Peters at Arches, Lincoln 29, 7 mo., 1679, to Frances Ross, widow of Lincoln.

We give the following data taken from Friends' Records, London, England, and various histories pertaining to the people known as Quakers.

The following are the early Mason families of the parishes of Moulton, Crayland and Lincoln, monthly meetings of Spalding, Broughton and Wainfleet, County of Lincoln.

Thomas, b. ; m. Ann,
m. Bridgett Curtiss, 26-4 mo., 1664.

Lidda, b. ; m. Steven Carnall, 4-7 mo., 1670.

Simon, b. ; m. Susannah

Martin, b. ; m.

Ann Mason, first wife of Thomas, died at Moulton, 14-4 mo., 1663, and was buried at Spalding. Her body was stolen away at night, and carried to Combe. Thomas Mason died at Moulton, and was buried at Spalding, 1667. Susannah Mason, wife of Simon, died 18-2 mo., 1687, and was buried at Crayland. Simon Mason died at Crayland 1-1 mo., 1785, and was buried at Spalding.

Bridgett Mason, the second wife of Thomas, after his decease, married Thomas Head of Spaulding, Lincolnshire, (Husbandman), at the house of Thomas Summers, 11-8 mo., 1674.

The children of Simon Mason and Susannah were:

Mary, b. 2-10 mo., 1675; died at Crayland, 6-5 mo., 1683.

Simon, Jr., b. 11-10 mo., 1677; m. Mary Sharp.

William, b. 11-8 mo., 1682.

Mary, b. 17-12 mo., 1686, (the second).

Simon Mason, Jr., son of Simon Mason and Susannah, married Mary Sharp at the house of Thomas Summers, 11-7 mo., 1690. She deceased, and 13-5 mo., 1715, he married Martha Stephenson, daughter of Thomas of Spalding. Martin Mason resided in the parish of Lincoln, and was a member of the monthly meeting of Broughton and Gainsboro, whom he married, is not known, and the names of his children as far as can be ascertained were:

John, b. ; m.

Abigail, b. _____; d. 4-2 mo., 1658.

Martin, Jr., b. _____; m. 29-7 mo., 1679, Francis Ross, (widow).

There may have been other children. John Mason resided at or near the parish of Aynho, Northamptonshire, and immigrated to Burlington county, New Jersey, between 1678 and 1683, O. S. We believe that Martin Mason instead of leaving the Society of Friends, as suggested in the quotation above, left England with other Friends, to make a home in America, as no star has been placed opposite his name, as was the custom of Friends where members had repudiated the faith. He probably died on shipboard or very shortly after landing. No permanent record could well be kept, as Friends' records were not yet established in Burlington monthly meeting of "New Caesaria," later New Jersey. As to the wives of John and Martin Mason, nothing is known.

In 27-12 mo., 1660, John Mason, while a lad, was taken by a constable, while in a Friend's house at Polebrook; and was sent to Northampton Goal, for his religious belief. Besse's Suffering of Friends, Vol. I., page 551.

From Samuel Smith's History of the Colony of New Casearia or New Jersey, page 276, we quote the following:

In 1703, "Lord Cornbury arrived in New Jersey in the month called August, 1703, having published his commission at Amboy and Burlington. He returned to his government in New York, but soon came back, and convened the General Assembly to meet him at Pearth, Amboy, the 10th of November * * * * *

The first representatives for the western division of New Jersey were Thomas Lambert, William Biddle, William Stevenson, Restore Lippincott, John Kay, John Hugg, Jr., Joseph Cooper, William Hall, John Mason, John Smith.

In 1704, (page 283) the members of this assembly were Restore Lippincott, John Hugg, John Kay, John Smith, William Hall, John Mason, Thomas Bryan, Robert Wheeler, Peter Fretwell, Thomas Lambert, Thomas Gardiner, Joshua Wright.

How varied the vicissitudes and conditions of life. We find John Mason in his native and home land incarcerated in the goal of Northampton for his Christian loyalty, while in America, the land of his adoption, we find him sitting in the presence of an English lord helping to frame and enact laws to govern the Commonwealth of the West Division of New Jersey. "Truly, he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

As to John Mason, Gent., of St. Swithians, Lincoln, England, we have no knowledge except the statement quoted above. We infer, however, for the following reasons, that he was rector of the above named parish of the established church of England. The title of gentleman in England belongs to what is known as the "upper middle class" of English nobility, and any person or family having a coat of arms, and not a yeoman, was entitled to use this appellation. Most persons who made use of this title were supposed to be owners of real estate, and leasors of the same; but tradesmen and the clergy were included. Martin Mason, son of John, joined the Society of Friends early, and was im-

I. We learn from court records, at Trenton and Mount Holly, N. J., that John Mason, the progenitor of the Evesham branch of the Mason family, came to Burlington county, N. J., in a very early day, possibly with the Bortons, Moores, Engles, Prickitts, Sharps and other families and possibly he may have immigrated prior to this time. He was, no doubt, settled in America as early as 1677, as a creek which empties into the Rancocas has been known by the name of Mason's Creek since Burlington county was first settled. He leaves a will dated 20-3 mo., 1706, and also in a deed dated 5-4 mo., 1786, mention is made of his purchasing one hundred acres of land, deed dated 22-3 mo., 1689, of Thomas Olive, Colonial Governor of N. J. He was, no doubt, a member and one who helped to organize the monthly meeting of Orthodox Friends of Haddonfield, N. J., and were it not for the fact that a part of these church records have been lost, or destroyed, we should be enabled to give a much fuller record as to the family's early history. He died at the home of his eldest son, James, in the year 1728. The name of his wife is not positively known. His children were:—

Sarah, b. ; m. John French.

Isaac, b. ; m. 1750, Sarah Price.

Ester, b. ; m. Nailer.

JOHN MASON.

Cyrus b. 30-11 mo., m. Elizabeth Stokes.

Uriah, b. 2-10 mo., 1800; died single.

Mary, b. 24-6 mo., 1802; m. Nathan Busby.

Martha, b. 5-7 mo., 1804; m. Thomas Deacon.

John, b. 21-7 mo., 1808; m. Sarah Lippincott.

V. Cyrus Moore, Jr., son of Cyrus Moore and Mary Austin, married Elizabeth Stokes, daughter of Jarvis Stokes and Elizabeth Rogers. Their children were:—

Cyrus, b.

Jarvis, b. ; died when 10 years of age.

Abigail, b. ; m. Amos Harvey.

Mary, b.

V. John Moore, son of Cyrus Moore and Mary Austin, married Sarah Lippincott, daughter of Josiah Lippincott and Mary Phillips. Their children were:—

Joseph, b. ; m. Elizabeth C. Wills.

Abel, b. ; went west.

Mary, b. ; m. Isaac H. Wills.

Elwood, b.

V. Able Moore, son of Cyrus Moore and Mary Austin, married Elizabeth Engle, daughter of Obadiah Engle and Patience Cole. Their children were:—

John, b. ; m. Priscilla N. Wills.

Granville, b. ; died single.

Cyrus, b. ; m. Esther Prickitt.

Barclay, b. ; m. Catherine Johnson.

George, b. ; m. Kate Sellars.

Anna, b. ; m. Lemuel Prickitt.

Elizabeth, b. ; died single.

Lemuel Prickitt, who married Anna Moore, was the son of Josiah Prickitt and Ann Sharp. Esther Prickitt, who married Cyrus Moore, was the daughter of Zachariah Prickitt and Agnes Sharp.

V. Eliza Moore, daughter of Cyrus Moore and Mary Austin, married John Engle, son of John Engle, Sr., and Lucy Brooks. Their children were:—

Mary A., b. 13-1 mo., 1827; went to Burlington.

V. Mary Moore, daughter of Cyrus Moore and Mary Austin, married Nathan Busby, son of Thomas Busby and Esther Borton. They had one child:—

Lydia M., b. ; m. Jacob Wills, son of Benjamin H. and Elizabeth C. Wills.

IV. Sarah Austin, daughter of Jonathan Austin and Rebecca Mason, married Jacob Haines, son of Jonathan Haines and Hannah Sharp. Their children were:—

Jacob, b. ; m. Elizabeth Haines Bowker, (widow).

Jeremiah, b.

Jonathan, b. ; m. Naomi Stratton.
 Rebecca, b. ; m. Caleb Haines.
 Hannah, b. ; m. Jonathan Austin.

First Friends Church of Burlington, New Jersey, built in 1685, and in use until 1787. This was among the first Friends' churches built, if not the first. We wonder why it was that a plain people should build a church in this form and shape. This is no doubt due to the fact that in England there is still remaining two of the round churches built by the Saxons. One of these churches is located at Northampton, the former home of many of the Burlington Friends, and no doubt suggested the above form of structure. The first meetings of Friends at Burlington, New Jersey, were held under a tent covered with sail cloth, then in the log house of Thomas Gardiner, and then in the home of John Woolston, which was the first frame house erected in Burlington and probably in New Jersey. Thirteen couples passed meetings for marriage before the year 1681. The first yearly meeting was held in Thomas Gardiner's house, 28-6 mo., 1681, and was composed of the following, Shrewsbury, Salem, Burlington, Ancocas, Shackamaxon and Chester, (Moorestown) on the west side of the River De'aware. The first meeting of Friends was held at Shrewsbury in 1670, Salem, 1675, first house at Chester built of stone, 1720, by Cadwalader. First meetings held in Evesham, 1695, and in the same year joined the Newtown, (Haddonfield) monthly meeting. In 2-1 mo., 1685, Benjamin Moore and Joseph Haines subscribed a portion of lumber towards building the above church, which shows that saw mills run by water power must have come into use about this time, otherwise this lumber must have been sawed by hand or imported from England, which is not probable. Elizabeth Mason Collins, and John Woolman, Jr., no doubt attended meetings and spoke in this church as the Spirit gave them utterance.

III. So'omon Mason, son of James Mason and Lida Busby, married Anna Kemble, 13-9 mo., 1754. Their children were:—

James, b. 1759; m. 1782, Mary Lee.

Samuel, b. ; m. 15-3 mo., 1786, Rachel Zelly.

John, b.

Kemble, b.

Beulah, b. ; m. Josiah Gaskill.

Martha, b. ; m. 1777, Samuel Tomlinson.

III. Jacob Mason, son of James Mason and Lida Busby, married Rachel Tewksbury, 9-11 mo., 1763. Their children were:—

IV. William, b. ; m. Rebecca

Lida Busby, wife of James Mason, Sr., was a daughter of Nicholas Busby and Mary French, married 30-8 mo., 1695. Nicholas died 1727, and Mary died 1728, both leaving wills. Nicholas Busby was a son of John Busby, weaver, of Milton, in the Parish of Shipton, belonging to Friends' Meeting, Milton, England. He came with a certificate to Philadelphia, 4-2 mo., 1682, and is, no doubt, the John who settled at Rancocas, Burlington county, N. J.

IV. James Mason, son of Solomon Mason and Anna Kemble, married 3-10 mo., 1782, Mary Lee. Solomon Mason was a son of James Mason and Lida Busby. James was a son of John Mason, the immigrant. The children of James Mason and Mary Lee were:—

John, b. 4-7 mo., 1783.

Mary, b. 16-2 mo., 1785.

James, Jr., b. 16-11 mo., 1787.

Joel, b. 2-2 mo., 1790.

Alice Anna, b. 29-3 mo., 1792.

Solomon, b. 6-7 mo., 1794.

First Friends Church, Burlington, N. J. 1685 to 1787

Isaac, b. 13-2 mo., 1797.

James Mason died 5-12 mo., 1803, and Mary, his widow, married 22-7 mo., 1813, Bethuel Moore; he died 7-3 mo., 1831.

Anna Kemble, wife of Solomon, Sr., was born 21-4 mo., 1759. Mary Lee, wife of James Mason, was born 6-5 mo., 1763, and died 17-6 mo., 1848.

V. Solomon Mason, son of James Mason, and Mary Lee married

1. Mary
2. Mary Woolman,
3. Kiziah Woolman.

His children were:—

John, b. 9 mo., 1825; m. Sarah Borton Engle.

Alice, b.; m. Ruben Dudley.

HISTORY.

This relic was no doubt brought from England in the "Good Ship Kent," 1677, by Thomas Stokes. It then passed into the home of Sarah Stokes, his daughter, who in 1693 married Benjamin Moore, the progenitor of the Moore Family in America, and after whom Moorestown, New Jersey, is named.

It was next used in the home of his son, Joseph Moore, who in 1736 married Patience Woolman. It descended from them to their daughter, Mary Moore, who married John Mason in 1759. She died, and in 1761 John married her sister, Elizabeth Moore. She also died, and in 1773 John Mason married Elizabeth Ballinger. From this home this relic came into the home of Abraham Mason and Eleanor Borton, and from them descended to his son John Mason and wife, Charity Borton, who brought it from Burlington county, New Jersey, to Fulton county, Ohio, in 1839. At his decease it was purchased by John Borton, the sixth, of West Unity, Williams county, Ohio, and was presented to his daughter Lydia Borton and husband, John R. Mason, now of Shipshewana, Indiana.

It will be noticed that warming pans which were used in the latter part of the 17th century were more elaborate in design and construction. This specimen ante-dates the use of stoves and had done service for many years before the United States government was organized.

III. John Mason, son of James Mason and Lida Busby, married Mary Moore, daughter of Joseph Moore and Patience Woolman, at Haddonfield, Monthly Meeting, N. J., 9-4 mo., 1759. No issue as far as known.

Mary died and John then married her sister, Elizabeth Moore. This marriage was under the laws of N. J., 21-5 mo., 1761, and outside of the Friends' church an acknowledgement made by John Mason at the Evesham Monthly Meeting, N. J., 10-12 mo., 1772. They had one daughter:—

IV. Mary Mason, b.

Elizabeth died and John then married, 22-2 mo., 1773, Elizabeth

Ballinger, of Salem Monthly Meeting, N. J. She was the daughter of Joshua Ballinger and Naomi Dunn. Their children were:—

Joshua, b. ; m. 17-1 mo., 1799, Mary Maxwell.

Abraham, b. 12-11 mo., 1775; m. Eleanor Borton.

Mary Maxwell was the daughter of John Maxwell and Rebecca, and was born 15-1 mo., 1780.

V. Eleanor Borton, who married Abraham Mason, was the daughter of Samuel Borton and Rhoda Packer. Samuel was the son of Obadiah Borton and Susannah Butcher. Obadiah was the son of John Borton, Jr., and first wife, who was the son of John Borton and Ann, who came from the Parish of Aynhoe, Northamptonshire, England, in 1682.

Elizabeth Ballinger Mason, third wife of John Mason, was born in N. J., 4-1 mo., 1755. Her parents, Joshua Ballinger and Naomi Dunn, being members of the Society of Friends, her father died when she was only six years of age, leaving a widow with six small children. Elizabeth was frail in body, until 15 years of age. In 1770, she was apprenticed to a trade, which she followed until 18 years of age, when she united in marriage with John Mason, a member of Evesham Monthly Meeting, N. J., with whom she lived a little more than 4 years, and of whom she speaks in her memoirs as a truly affectionate husband, and few, she believed, ever lived together in greater harmony and love. But He who I believe brought us together, saw meet to separate us. A short time before he expired, in a very affectionate manner, he said to me, "Well, my dear, I think we have nearly fulfilled our marriage covenant, and shall have nothing to answer for upon that account." He also expressed that he saw nothing in his way, and believed he should go to rest, the remembrance of which always afforded comfort and satisfaction to her mind. Being left a widow with two small children, life's burden seemed truly great, but her faith in her Lord and Master, buoyed her up, and kept her through all trials and discouragements. In the year 1778, she was again united in marriage with Job Collins, of Evesham, N. J., by whom she had the following children:—

Mary Collins, b. 19-8 mo., 1780; m. Uriah Borton.

John, b. 31-5 mo., 1782; m. Sarah Haines.

Naomi, b. 26-4 mo., 1784; m. Isaac Roberts.

Lydia, b. 17-11 mo., 1787; m. Isaac Stokes.

Elizabeth, b. 9-2 mo., 1786.

Josiah, b. 18-6 mo., 1789.

Hannah, b. 5-9 mo., 1792.

Hope, b. 7-10 mo., 1794.

Isaac, b. 4-7 mo., 1797.

Ezra, b. 12-2 mo., 1801; died 8 mo., 1825, age 24 years.

Job Collin's first wife was Mary Haines by whom he had one daughter:—

Sarah, b. 15-11 mo., 1774; m. 12-3 mo., 1784, Samuel Thorn.

The children of Joshua Ballinger and Naomi Dunn, parents of Elizabeth Mason Ballinger and who were married in the year 1749, were:—

Elizabeth, b. 4-1 mo., 1755; m. John Mason, 3rd wife,
m. Job Collins.

Thomas, b. ; m. Susanna Dudley.

Sarah, b. ; m. William Wilkins; died 9 mo., 1812.

Bathsheba, b. ; m. John Moore, died 2 mo., 1820.

Rachel, b. ; m.

Joshua, Jr., b. ; m.

Job Collins died 2 mo., 1827, in the 75th year of his age. In her memoirs, Elizabeth says: I believe his departed spirit is now at rest, in the arms of Redeeming Mercy; this is my comfort, my great consolation. Elizabeth Mason Collins was granted a dispensation to enter the gospel ministry when 24 years of age, in which she continued, as her health would permit, to nearly the close of her life. She traveled with other Friends and held meetings in Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey, Long Island and New York, also, was a delegate to many yearly meetings at Philadelphia, Pa. The memoirs which she wisely kept, she says, were for the benefit of her descendants and were approved by the Upper Evesham Monthly Meeting, held 12-3 mo., 1831, and Haddonfield quarterly meeting, 17-3 mo., 1831. After her death, which occurred 1-2 mo., 1831, in the 77th year of her age.

IV. Joshua Mason, son of John Mason and Elizabeth Ballinger, married Mary Maxwell, daughter of John M. Maxwell and Rebecca, 17-1 mo., 1799. Their children were:—

Bethuel, b. 31-1 mo., 1800; m. Sarah

John, b. 11-4 mo., 1802; died 9-5 mo., 1802.

Job, b. 5-7 mo., 1804; m. Mary Rogers.

Hannah, b. 11-8 mo., 1807; m. Levi L. Kain.

William, b. 28-3 mo., 1809; m. Mary Ann Wisham.

Joshua Mason died 2-7 mo., 1811. The account as given by his mother, Elizabeth Mason, is as follows: "In the seventh month, I met with a severe trial indeed, by the sudden and unexpected death of my oldest son. I knew not of his illness until late in the afternoon; I went that evening to see him, and found him nearly speechless, though I believe sensible. With a look of endeared affection, he grasped my hand, being able to say but little. He departed next morning, 2-7 month, aged about 37 years, leaving a widow and four children."

V. Bethuel Mason, son of Joshua Mason and Mary Maxwell, married Sarah Their children were:—

Mary, b.

Joshua, b.

Sarah, b.

Richard, b.

V. Job Mason, son of Joshua Mason and Mary Maxwell, married Mary

Rogers. Their children were:—

- Mary, b. ; m. Joseph Sharp, 2nd wife.
- Beulah, b. ; m. Joseph St. Kinson.
- Emma, b. ; m. William Evans.
- Hannah, b. ; died young, unmarried.

V. William Mason, son of Joshua Mason and Mary Maxwell, married Mary Ann Wisham, daughter of Jacob Wisham and Desiah. Their children were:—

- Annie, b. ; m. Jacob Braddock.
- William, b. ; m. Mary Haines.
- Cooper, b. ; m. Mary Bowker.

Levi L. Kain, who married Hannah Mason, the daughter of Joshua Mason and Mary Maxwell, was the son of William Kain and Anna Lippincott; Anna was the daughter of Levi Lippincott and Lettice Wills.

VI. Emma Kain, daughter of Hannah Mason and Levi L. Kain, married William B. Evans, son of Thomas Evans and Sarah Burrough. Thomas was a son of Thomas Evans and Mary Eves. Mary Kain, daughter of Levi L. Kain and Hannah Mason, married Joseph Sharp, son of Thomas Sharp and Rebecca Troth. Thomas was a son of Thomas Sharp and Esther Brooks.

IV. Abraham Mason, son of John Mason and Elizabeth Ballinger, was born in Evesham, N. J., 12-11 mo., 1775. He married Eleanor Borton, daughter of Samuel Borton and Rhoda Packer. Their children were:—

- Elizabeth, b. 29-11 mo., 1797; died single, age 30.
- John, b. 12-10 mo., 1799; m. Charity Borton.
- Joseph, b. 13-9 mo., 1801; died single.
- Samuel, b. 25-6 mo., 1803; m. Mary R. Borton.
- Susan, b. ; m. William Borton.
- Mary, b. ; m. Esaias Hunt.
- Josiah, b. ; died single, 7-9 mo., 1891, age 82 years.
- Rhoda, b. ; died single, age 19 years.
- Naomi, b. ; died age 15 years.

VI. Esaias Hunt was the son of Mary Borton and Ralph Hunt. Mary was the daughter of Samuel Borton and Rhoda Packer. Esaias married Mary Mason, daughter of Abraham Mason and Eleanor Borton. William Borton, who married Susan Mason, was the son of Obadiah Borton and Sarah Andrews.

Abraham Mason, second son of John Mason and Elizabeth Ballinger, was a wheelwright by trade and his home was at Milltown, N. J. He departed this life 4-2 mo., 1828, in his 53rd year, "after a long and tedious illness from consumption, which through adorable mercy, was sanctified to him for good. A profitable season, wherein he became instructed in the school of Christ, and was enabled to bear his affliction with Christian fortitude. Being favored with his understanding, he took leave of his wife and children, in an affectionate manner, and quietly departed without sigh or struggle."

Naomi Mason, daughter of Abraham Mason and Eleanor Borton, died very suddenly in the 15th year of her age, having previously been a very robust person. Her loss was so keenly felt by her sister, Elizabeth, who was a consumptive, that she, too, soon passed away, dying at the age of 30 years. Naomi preceding her only three months. She died in the year 1825.

Charity D., b. 10-2 mo., 1845; died 3-10 mo., 1850.

V. John Mason, the progenitor of the Ohio branch of the Mason family, was a son of Abraham Mason and Eleanor Borton. He was born at Mill Town, N. J., 1799, and removed to Fulton county, Ohio, with his family, in the year 1839. While a young man in N. J. he learned the carpenter's trade, which he followed for many years. He was twice married. He first united in marriage with Charity Borton, a daughter of Bethuel Borton and Rebecca Clifton, by whom he had nine children, 4 boys and 5 girls. Charity died 7-5 mo., 1861 and on the 9-11 mo., 1865, he again united in marriage with Rebecca Vansciver, of Camden, N. J., with whom he lived until his death on the 8-1 mo., 1878. In his marriage relations he was very successful, the women whom he married being far above the medium as women of business capacity, and true moral and religious worth. John Mason built some of the first frame buildings erected in Fulton county, Ohio. One that he constructed for his brother-in-law, Benjamin Borton, is still occupied and in good state of repair, this 1907. When he removed from N. J. to Ohio, his effects were transported in a one horse wagon; and at the time of his death he owned many acres of land and was surrounded by prosperous neighbors and had all of the luxuries of modern life. In later years he abandoned his trade and lived quietly until his death, on the beautiful homestead which he had carved out of the primeval forest. For many years he was a member of the Society of Hixite Friends.

In Memoriam.

Died, at her home in West Unity, Wednesday, 2-5 mo., 1900, at 2 o'clock, a. m., Mrs. Rebecca Bailey, aged 84 years, 3 months and 11 days.

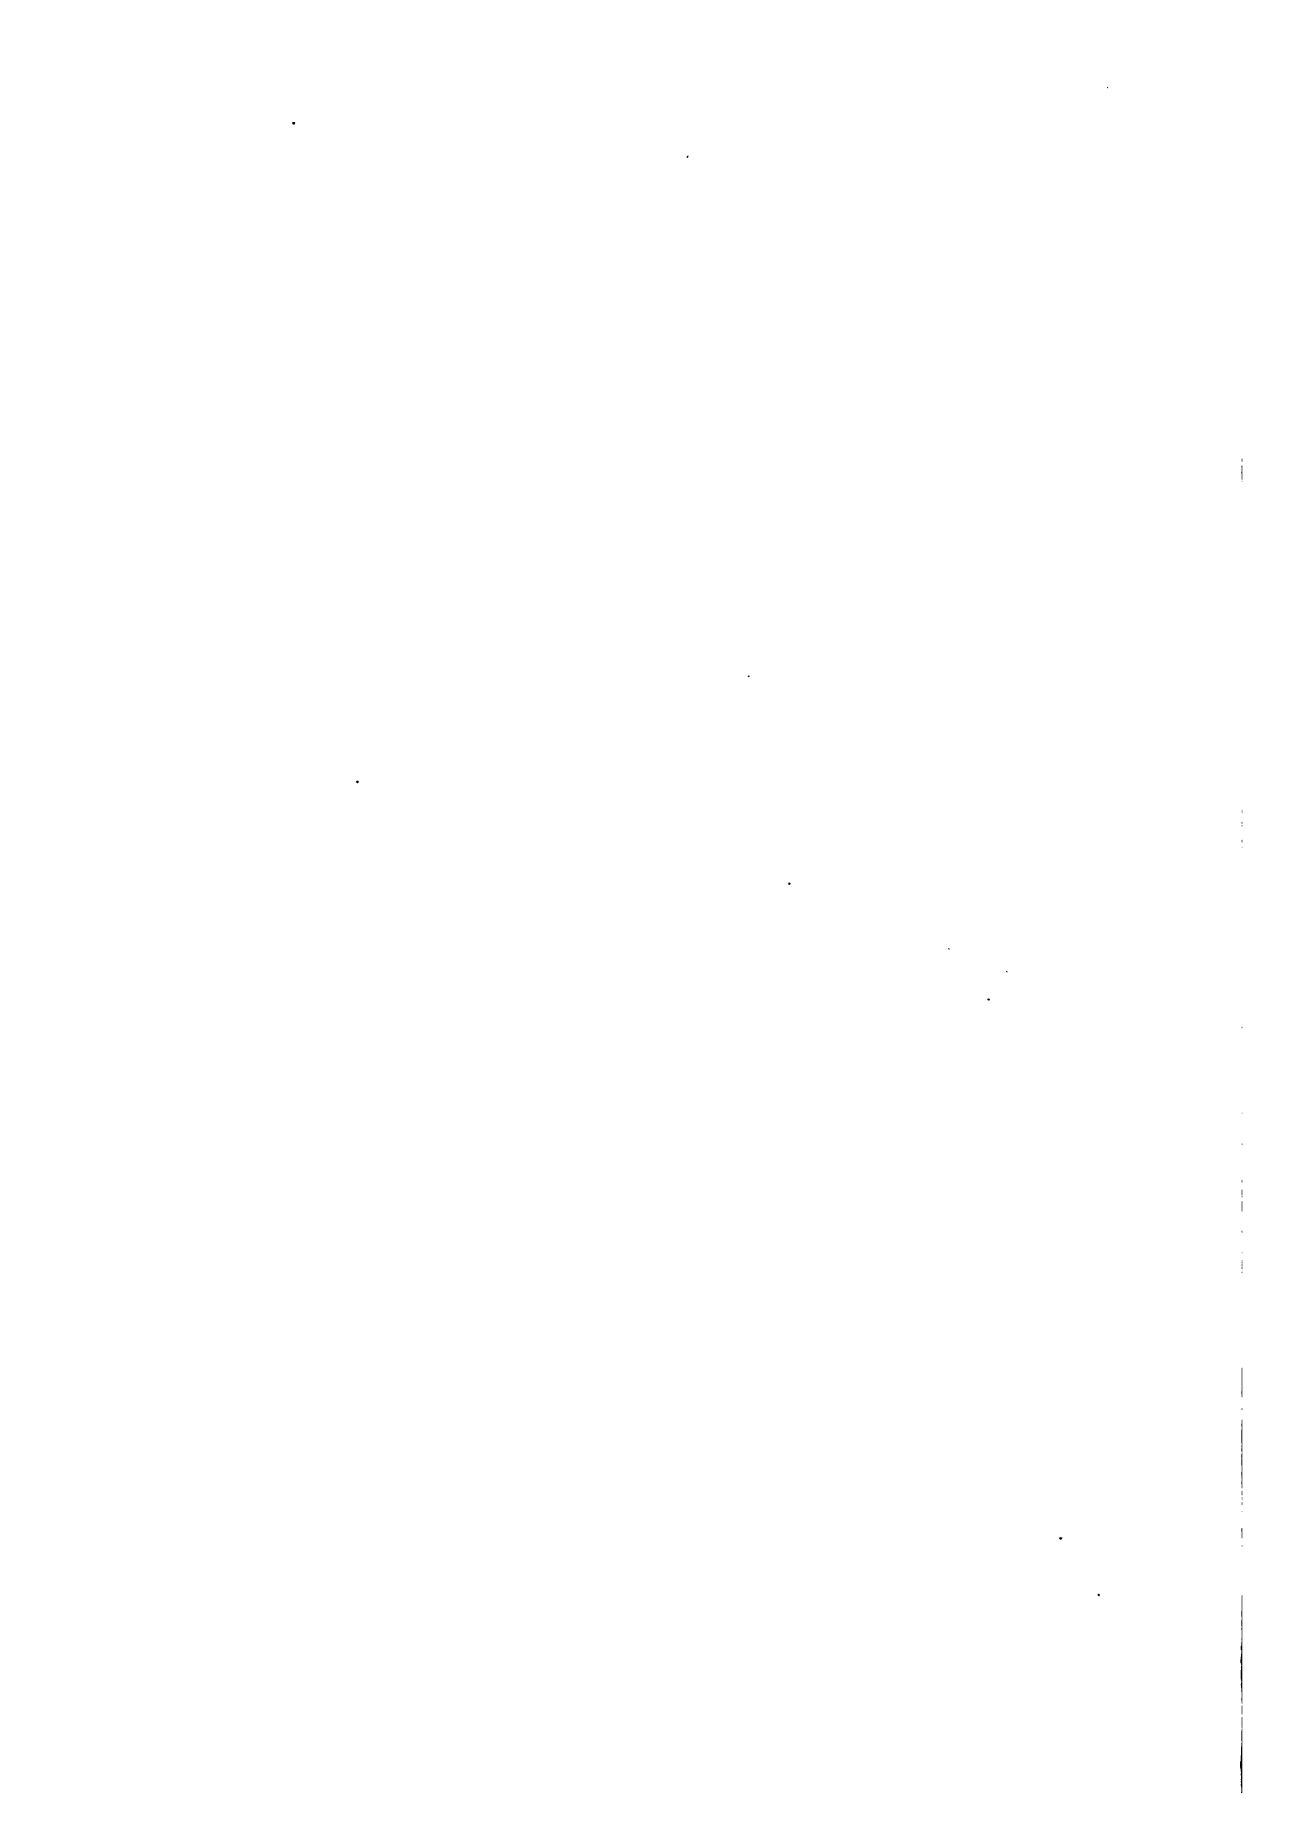

Rebecca Vansciver was born 21-1 mo., 1816, in Gloucester county, N. J., near the village of Berlin, and was the fifth of a family of seven daughters. Her early girlhood was spent on the farm where she was born and in the village where for a number of years her father ran a hotel. When she was about 15 years old her family moved to Camden, where she learned vest-making, which trade she followed for upwards of thirty years.

On 9-11 mo., 1865, she was united in marriage to Mr. John Mason, of Franklin township, whom she had met while on a visit to Ohio. She came at once to Ohio and has lived there ever since.

After Mr. Mason's death she remained a widow for about two years.

Bethuel Mason

when she was united in marriage to Mr. Randall Bailey, and came to West Unity to live, where she has lived ever since. Mr. Bailey died about eleven years ago.

Early in her life she gave her heart to God and throughout her long life gave evidence of a strong Christian character. About four years ago she united with the Ambrose Baptist church in Fulton county.

She was the embodiment of industry and frugality. A kind friend and neighbor, she was always ready to help along a good cause.

Mrs. Bailey comes of a long-lived family, one of her sisters having died in her 86th, one in her 84th and one in her 74th year.

For the past six or seven weeks, Mrs. Bailey has been cared for by her niece, Mrs. Emma Webster, of Camden, N. J., and after her death another niece, Mrs. Cramer, of Camden, N. J., and a nephew, Asa V. Borton, from near Lafayette, Ind., came. These three represent the families of her nearest living relatives, as Mrs. Bailey was the last of her family.

The funeral services were held from her late residence on Saturday, at 11 o'clock, a. m., her pastor, Rev. Lewis, of Fulton county, assisted by Rev. J. P. Stockton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this place, officiating. Her remains were laid to rest beside her husband in the Shiffler cemetery.

VI. Mary Mason, daughter of John Mason and Charity Borton, married John Ely, 25-9 mo., 1841. Their children were:—

Charity, b. 30-8 mo., 1843; m. Norman Ingraham.

Harrison W., b. 6-4 mo., 1848; m. Tamar Snider.

Phebe A., b. 20-1 mo., 1850; m. Alfred Borton.

Mary C., b. 8-1 mo., 1852; m. Rulon Borton.

Catherine E., b. 22-5 mo., 1853; m. Edwin Borton.

John, Jr., b. 7-8 mo., 1855; m. Priscilla Borton.

Asher M., b. 11-2 mo., 1845; died young, 2-4 mo., 1849.

Rhoda A., b. 1-9 mo., 1846; died young, 2-4 mo., 1849.

Mary Mason died 20-10 mo., 1856, and John Ely married Rhoda Mason, sister to his former wife, 31-1 mo., 1859. Their children were:—

Winfield Scott, b. 5-12 mo., 1859; m. Dora Oswald.

Stanton M., b. 18-3 mo., 1862; m. Ruie Hider.

Elliott C., b. 13-6 mo., 1865; m. Sarah Oswald,

m. Dora M. McElroy.

John Ely, Sr., son of Asher and Catherine Ely, was born 13-3 mo., 1820, Northumberland county, Pa., came to Knox county, Ohio, where they resided until 1839, and then removed to Williams county, Ohio. John was a born athlete. An expert swimmer, a good woodsman and could distance his fellow laborers in husking, binding up wheat or using the scythe or cradle. His favorite sport was hunting and fishing. In hunting deer his favorite method was "belling" them, this was done by strapping a cow bell to the horses neck, he would then mount and with loaded rifle quietly saunter through the woods. At this early day all cattle had to be pastured in the woods, hence each herd had its bell cow, and this being the case the deer became used to the bells and many times herded with the cattle, hence a hunter riding a belled horse could readily come within rifle shot of the deer. The favorite horse used for this purpose was a fine large sorrel stallion, owned we believe, by Asher Ely, and John Ely has located to the writer many places where deer have been killed by him, in this way. The horse was so trained that he would stop with head erect, while the rifle rested between his ears and was aimed and fired. The deer when killed would then be "jerked," thrown across the horse behind the rider and taken to the cabin home. John Ely deceased the 26-9 mo., 1878, a man greatly loved and esteemed by all who knew him.

Emitt C., b. 13-8 mo., 1884.

Ernest J., b. 26-6 mo., 1896.

Sarah Cynthia died 18-9 mo., 1906.

VII. John R. Mason, son of Reuben B. Mason and Sarah Oldham, married Lydda Borton, widow, daughter of John Borton and Elizabeth Taylor. Their children were:—

Cora, b. Adopted.

Reuben Borton Mason, oldest son of John Mason and Charity Borton, was born in Burlington county, New Jersey, 4-3 mo., 1826, and came with his parents to Fulton county, Ohio, in 1839, being a lad 13 years of age.

He attended the public schools in N. J., and secured what education he could obtain from the pioneer schools of Fulton county, Ohio. His boyhood days were spent in helping to clear and improve the land taken up by his father and the raising and distilling of peppermint.

When he reached his majority, he was married to Sarah Oldham, 15-3 mo., 1849. She was born in Allegheny county, Pa., 17-12 mo., 1830. After marriage they settled on section one, on part of the land taken up by his father.

He built a log house which later was occupied in part, for store purposes until a frame building was erected. He also built an ashery and began the manufacture of pot and pearl ash; also baking soda, "Saleratus."

Later he laid out the town of Trenton, and the neighboring post-office of Blanc was removed to this village. He was installed as postmaster, which office he held for several years.

He had some knowledge of law, although never admitted to the bar, and pleaded many cases in justice court.

His knowledge of medicine was such that he never employed a physician in his home, and although they passed through several epidemics of fever, his children all grew up to man and womanhood.

In politics he was an ardent abolitionist until after the emancipation of the slaves, when he became a Democrat. As to his religious views, he clings to the tents of his early fathers, the Hicksite Friends.

During the war of the Rebellion, he enlisted in the 38th Regiment, Ohio Vol. Infantry, but was rejected owing to weak eyes, (myopia) and other physical ailments.

In 1866, the family moved to Ransom township, Hillsdale county, Mich., where he located on a large farm and later entered into the mercantile business at Frontier, Mich.

He is still living, in his 82nd year, and with his youngest sister, Naomi Prickitt, are all that survives of his father's family, in which there were nine children, four boys and five girls.

He gives many reminiscences of the early days, and the hardships endured, among others, how he and his younger brother, Abraham, killed a deer. The gun rested on his shoulder while Abraham aimed and fired it. The aim proved true and there was meat and great rejoicing in the Mason home.

One flour mill had to do the grinding for the pioneers scattered over a wide tract of country, so that a peck of corn was a grist for each family, hence, Reuben or his brother, Abraham, had to visit the mill each day astride of the old family horse, which they called Dave. The same which hitched to a one horse wagon brought the family from New Jersey and landed them in their new home in Ohio. This noble old charger made one or two subsequent visits to New Jersey and Philadelphia, Pa., carrying to that city, peppermint oil and returning with boots and shoes and other family supplies, or in other words, going six hundred miles to market.

Reuben Borton Mason was an educator and helped to build up the pioneer schools of Franklin, Fulton county, Ohio. He was for many years an officer on the school board, was also one of the township trustees. After his removal to Michigan he was elected to the office of Justice of the Peace, which office he filled to the satisfaction of the public and all concerned.

The village of Trenton would, no doubt, have thrived and became a business place, but parties owning the adjacent land, refused to survey and dispose of village lots, hence, the town ceased to grow and thrive.

VI. Abraham Mason, son of John Mason and Charity Borton, married Mary Ann Borton, daughter of Asa Borton and Elizabeth Hazen. Their children were:—

Elizabeth, b. 4-12 mo., 1851; m. 25-12 mo., 1873, Willis E. Clark.

VI. Abraham Mason, son of John Mason and Charity Borton, was born at Hartford, New Jersey, 18-7 mo., 1828, and came, while a lad, to Ohio, with his parents. He united in marriage with Mary Ann Borton, daughter of Asa Borton and Elizabeth Hazen, 21-2 mo., 1850. In 1853 he purchased his homestead, one hundred sixty acres of land in Gorham township, Fulton county, Ohio, of E. C. Chester, for $1,000. He also at this time owned eighty acres of land in the township of Rasin, Lenawee county, Michigan. He enlisted 3 mo., 1864, in Company B., 60th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, under command of Captain Eddy. His regiment was a part of the infantry corps of the Army of the Potomac under General Burnside. His first experience in battle was at the Wilderness, Virginia. His whole time while in the service was spent in and around Petersburg, Virginia, and the engagements were Battle of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, North Anna River, Cold Harbor, battles at Petersburg, battles at Weldon Railroad, Battle of Richmond and Petersburg, and Hatcher's Run, where on the 27-10 mo., 1864, he was shot through the bowels, was sent to the City Point hospital, where he died at 7 o'clock a. m., 29-10 mo., 1864, and lies buried at City Point, Virginia. This patriot might have enlisted in a new regiment, and have seen but comparatively little service, but he went as a recruit in a regiment that had seen much previous service. This veteran regiment was kept at the front, which was according to his wish and desire. He was ready for sacrifice or service. He left a wife and six little children to enter the service of his country. We append an extract written by Abraham Mason to his brother, Reuben B. Mason, on 13-9 mo., 1864. At this time his father, John Mason's home and that of Reuben were in the throes of an epidemic of yellow fever, which had been brought into the country from Philadelphia, Penna. The younger brother, Bethuel, had died with it in 8 mo., previous, while Reuben Mason, with most of his family, were down with the disease, also his brother, John C. Mason. The letter in question is written just after Abraham has learned of the death of his brother, Bethuel.

Petersburg, Va., 13-9 mo., 1864.

Dear Brother:—

I take this opportunity of writing a few lines to let thee know that I am just middling well, hoping that when thee gets this, it will find thee and all thy family, and all the rest of my folks, and also others, all enjoying good health, as that is one of the greatest blessings we have in this world. I heard of Bethuel's death, which was sad news to me to think that one so young and in the prime of life should be called away; but the Lord knows best, and what is best for us; so let His will be done, not ours. Tell Father not to fret about it for all things are for the best.

I heard that John was very sick, and that thee was not much better. * * * * * I almost forgot to tell thee that I received a few lines from Rhoda Ann, which was a great pleasure to me to think that she thought enough of her uncle to write to him, for a letter always does a soldier good, if it is but a short one.

I suppose thee would like to know something about what we are doing here at the present time. Well, today we are lying still, but have orders to clean our guns, and be ready for any emergency. We are back about one mile from the front where we have been building forts, and breast works, for a week or over, and we have to work every day, and some of us stand guard every night, so thee can see that we have not much time to write. * * * * * Well, I must bring my letter to a close, so farewell for this time. Please write as soon as thee gets this and let me know how you all are.

From thy brother,

ABRAHAM MASON.

Amelia, b. ; m.

Clarence, b. ; m.

After the death of their parents these children went to live with their mother's people in Philadelphia, Pa., and we have no more record concerning them.

James Mason, the only male heir of John Mason, the Immigrant, who lived to raise a family, married Lida Busby. They left four sons, Jacob, Isaac, John and Solomon. The descendants of John and Solomon have been traced, while those of Jacob and Isaac but little is known. The former married Rachel Tewksbury, and with his son William sold their landed estate in Evesham township, Burlington county, New Jersey, to James Mason, son of Solomon, who married Mary Lee. The deed is dated 5-4 mo., 1786, recorded at Mt. Holly, New Jersey, and the consideration was 415 pounds. After this sale, the family moved to Red Stone, Pa., and later William located at Marietta, Ohio, and his father, with other members of the family, journey on into Kentucky, where some of his descendants still reside.

Isaac Mason is believed to have also located in Pennsylvania, and is believed to have been the father of Ernest Mason, who was born in Pennsylvania, and later returned to the birth place of Isaac, his father. He was the father of William Mason, a millwright by trade. He lived to be a man past eighty years of age, and died at Mount Holly, New Jersey, in 1907, leaving two sons, William, Jr., and Josiah. The former lives in Camden, New Jersey, and the latter at Mount Holly. Ernest Mason's home in Pennsylvania was near Brandywine.

Other New Jersey Masons who were probably related to the Evesham branch, as to whom no positive data could be secured, were: John B. Mason. He had one brother who went west, and may have been the progenitor of the family in Indiana. John B. and his brother were orphans. The former was brought up by a man named Joseph Brown of Shamong township, Burlington county, New Jersey. He married Elizabeth Shinn. They had six children as follows: William H., married Hannah A. Lippincott. He died 1-7 mo., 1880; Silas C. married Lydia Willits; Joseph B., married Margaret Dobbins; Thomas S. married Margaret Mitchel of Richmond, Va.; Samuel S. married Eliza Cutterly; Margaret S. married John Forncrook of Haddonfield, New Jersey. Another family is that of the Rev. John R. Mason of Collingwood, New Jersey. His great-grandfather, he thinks, came direct from England, and settled near Honesdale, Pa. His grandfather was John Mason, who had one sister Nancy, who married a man by the name of Jameson. They were the only children. At the age of twenty-one years John came to New Jersey, and settled at Cranberry. He married Ann K. Pessine. They had three children: Robert P., father to John R. Mason; Mary, who married Abyele Dey and Margaret, single; Robert P. Mason resides at South Amboy, New Jersey.

We give below some account of John and Thomas Mason of Salem, Salem county, New Jersey, by Thomas Shourds, from his history of "Fenwick Colony" of West New Jersey. Thomas Shourds married Sarah Thompson, daughter of Joseph Thompson and Ann Mason, a descendant of John Mason. John and Thomas landed in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1683, and were no doubt cousins of John Mason who settled in Evesham about 1677. Search has been made in England, parish records of Winchcomb, and all others in Gloucestershire, also various records in this county, but positive proof giving the exact relationship could not be secured. After giving quotations taken from Shourd's History, we append data taken from Colonial Records, Trenton, New Jersey, and also from accounts of treasurer of Salem county, New Jersey, 11 mo., 1720 to 1728 inclusive.

Mason Family—Shourds' History and Genealogy of Fenwick's Colony of Salem county, New Jersey, pages 150-152.

"John Mason was a native of Gloucestershire, England, and resided in the parish of Winchcomb. He emigrated to America when a young man, and landed at Philadelphia in 1683. Soon afterward he came to Salem to live, and purchased a town lot in the town, containing sixteen acres. It lay on the south side of Broadway and was bounded on the west by Samuel Hedge's land. He erected a brick house there and lived in it for some time. In 1685 he purchased 5,000 acres of land. * * * * * About the year 1690 John Mason purchased of Roger Milton, 1,000 acres of upland and salt marsh in the township of Elsinborough. It was bounded on the east by Samuel Nicholson's allotment of 2,000 acres; on the west by Redroc Morris' land. In 1695 he built a substantial brick dwelling, left Salem, and lived on his landed estate before described. In 1704 he built a large addition to it, which made it one of the largest brick dwellings that was in the county at that early day. John Mason married Sarah Smith, daughter of John Smith of Ambelbury; she was born near London, England, 27th of 10 mo., 1671. (Births of children as in Salem Mo. Mg. Records). He owned land in various parts in Fenwick tenth. He purchased considerable tract of land in Monmouth precinct of Anna Salter, erected a flour mill about 1705. * * * * * He was appointed a commissioner for the public highways in 1706; was a member of the legislature for two or three years, and one of the Justices of Salem county for a number of years. He was a large landholder in the state of Delaware, likewise in Pennsylvania in the neighborhood of Chester. His descendants are not very numerous. There are none at the present time by the name of Mason of his descendants in this country. John Goodwin Mason, who died in 1839, was the last of the male descendants. There are quite a number in the female line who are direct descendants of John Mason, the emigrant."

"It is probable Thomas Mason emigrated from England to West

New Jersey about the same time his brother John Mason did. He resided in the town of Salem some length of time. * * * * He purchased five hundred acres of land in Upper Mannington, being part of Fenwick's grove. He soon became a citizen of that township, and continued to reside there until his death. In 1720 he purchased of Samuel Fenwick Hedge five hundred acres of land, being part of Hedgefield. There is nothing to show that he even took an active part in the public affairs of the colony." (See page 534 d.) "I see by the court records he occasionally served as one of the grand jurors. (Births of children of Thomas and Elizabeth Mason as in Salem records.) James Mason, son of Thomas and Elizabeth Mason, became in possession of nearly all of the large landed estate in the township of Mannington, that belonged to his father, Thomas Mason. He married a daughter of Abel Nicholson. They had no issue. He devised the greater part of his landed estate to his nephew, James Mason Woodnut, son of Jonathan Woodnut. James left his mill and farm adjoining to his wife's niece, Ann, the daughter of John Nicholson."

Register of names of veterans of the Civil and other wars with name of company and regiment, where the same could be secured, of all soldiers connected with the Borton and Mason families. At the head of this list we place the obituary notice of the death and burial of Captain Cyrus Borton of Alliance, Ohio, which occurred near the close of the year, 1906. Of the persons named, some were killed in battle, others died from wounds and sickness, but the majority of them are living today, 1907.

Captain Cyrus Borton answers the last call.

After an illness of several months, Cyrus Borton passed away Saturday afternoon at his home about 6 miles south east of Alliance. He was past seventy years of age and was one of the best known and most highly respectable residents of Knox township, Columbiana county, Ohio.

During the Civil war, Mr. Borton first enrolled as a member of the organization known as Fremont's Bodyguard. Later he enlisted in the Eightieth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, was promoted to first sergeant, then first lieutenant and afterward was made captain of Company K. of the above regiment. He served with credit in all the engagements in which the organization took part, which were many. It also participated in Sherman's famous march to the sea.

Capt. Borton was a member of John C. Fremont post, G. A. R., of Alliance, and Masonic lodge at Homeworth. In the latter society he had the rank of Past Master. Besides the wife, four sons survive, Benjamin and Seth of Alliance and Louis and Mark Borton.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon, meeting at the house at one o'clock, then proceeding to Quaker Hill cemetery, near Sebring. At the latter place members of the Grand Army from Alliance conducted their burial service. A number of other people attended the funeral.

Religious and Fraternal Affiliations

In compiling this "History of the Borton and Mason Families," we should consider our task only partially completed, were we to omit mention of the religious, political and fraternal status taken by the members of these families.

The early fathers who immigrated to America were fruits of the religious reform inaugurated by George Fox, in England, in 1643. The Society of Friends to which these immigrants adhered was greatly prospered until the coming of Elias Hicks, through whose teachings a split was caused in the original church, in the year 1827. At this time and previous, many Friends were immigrating from New Jersey to Ohio and Indiana, which was then known as the "Far West." The Friends who thus sought new homes, in many instances reared up new churches, either orthodox or Hixite, according to their faith. Others found a church home with the then existing denominations: Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Disciples, Congregationalists, and later the United Brethren in Christ. In perusing these pages, the reader will notice the names of many descendants of these families who are and have been pastors in these churches. Atheists, Deists, Skeptics, and Universalists are very rare, if they exist at all, and the members of the above named families are always found in favor of morality, religion and good government.

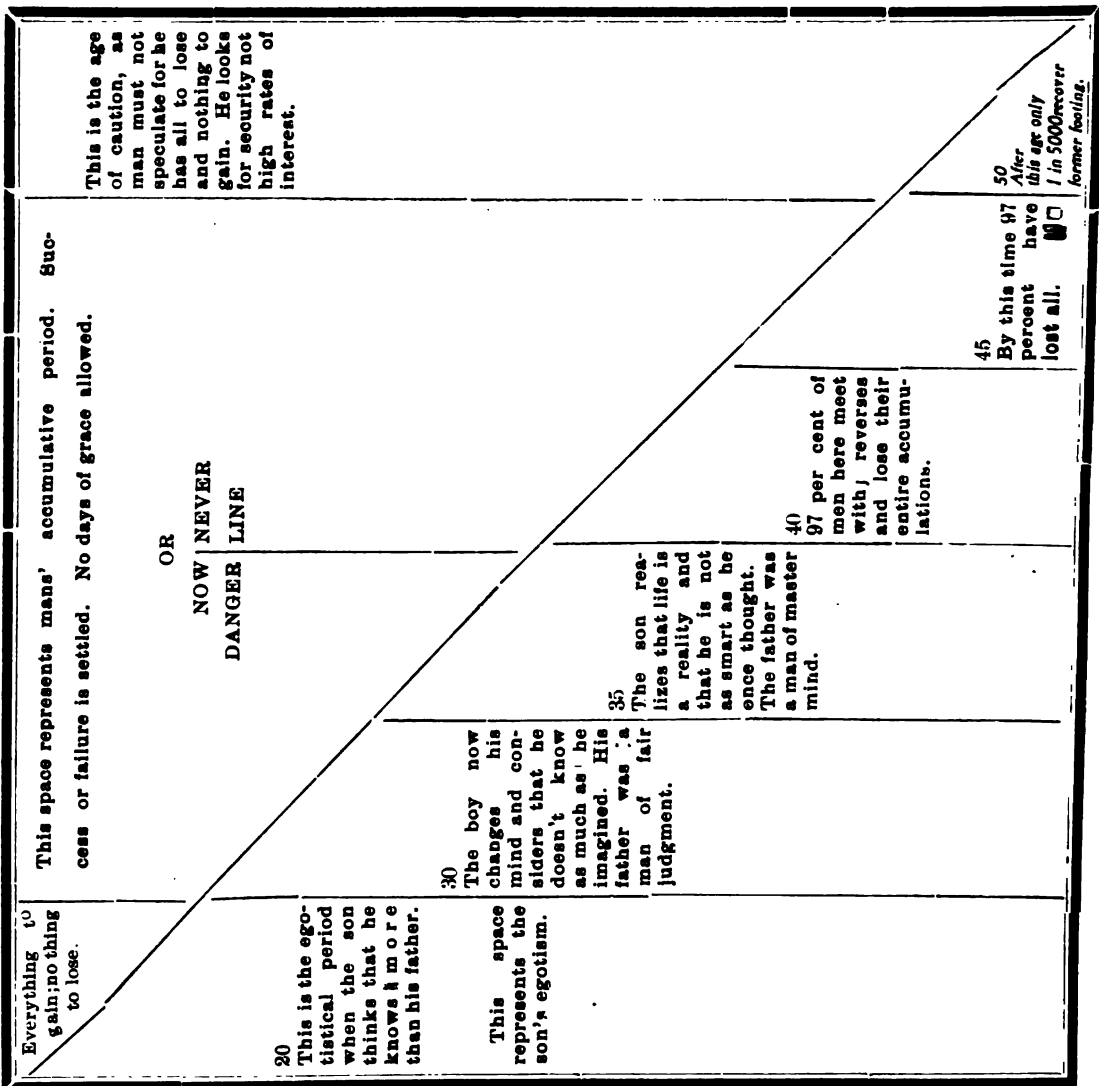

Politically, the Borton and Mason immigrants, in common with Friends did not engage in political affairs, and were non-combatants during the war of the Revolution and were, no doubt, divided in opinion as to the outcome. When the evils of the African slave trade became apparent, they labored in common with others, for its extermination, first in England and then in America. They freed their own slaves and later helped to establish "the Underground Railway," and when the cloud of the Rebellion darkened the sky of the Republic, these families contriluted of their means and many of their young men went to the front, some of which returned no more to the home of their childhood, but sleep in southern graves. Previous to the war, these families, almost to a man, espoused the cause he'd by the abolition party. After the slavery question was forever settled and other political issues came to the front many became adherents to the cause of prohibition, others joined the ranks of free silver, some became Democrats (free traders) but the great majority still help to hold aloft the banner of the Republican party, at the present time, 1907.

Fraternally. As to the fraternities, some members of these families have united with the Free Masons and have become recognized leaders in that order. Others have become Oddfellows, while some may be found as members of the insurance fraternities, and others who are engaged in agricultural pursuits, have become patrons of husbandry and praise the Grange and its benefits, but the majority of the members of these families hold aloof from all secret societies, which is in no doubt due to the teaching of Friends' discipline, and no desire for public preferment, as to office. We will quote the article of discipline in question, taken from the rules adopted by Friends' yearly meeting, of the state of Ohio, and is in substance the same as all others.

"Rule as to Masonry and other Kindred Associations."

As a church, we have ever held that secret, oath-bound societies as Freemasons, Oddfellows and other kindred associations are contrary to the example and teachings of the Lord Jesus, hurtful to the best interests of his church and a serious hindrance to the spiritual life and growth in grace, of its members; we therefore affectionately enjoin it upon our youth, not to connect themselves in membership with such; and if any of our members are found to be active or adhering members of such societies or if any should join them, they should be tenderly and faithfully labored with and if such labor prove ineffectual, they should be dealt with as in other cases of offense."

A few words might be said with regard to the financial standing of these families. We believe that the request of King Solomon, "That he be given neither poverty nor riches" would apply to their financial standing, which is the result of their own efforts and desires, to live modestly, do justly and owe no man, thereby keeping the injunction as given by the Apostle Paul. In one or two cases it might require seven figures to represent the accumulated wealth and in others only two or three, yet as far as we know, avarice with its kindred vices has never led a member of either family into the penitentiary, nor a lack of industry and thrift compelled any to appeal for alms or shelter in a home for the unfortunate. Speculation in stocks and otherwise has been tabooed as fickle and uncertain and all games of chance which promise much for nothing, but the rule seems to have been to make the income always more than the outgo and with prudence and perseverance, a competency for old age will be assured. We append the following diagram of loss and gain which may be interesting.

The Famous Packer vs Nixon Litigation

On the following pages we append the opinion given by the attorneys in the case of the representatives of Daniel Jones; also the affirmation of Rhoda Packer Borton, "Packer vs. Nixon," in the matter of the estate of Mathias Aspden. This suit at law was begun in 1828 and decided in 1850. The object in bringing this action was to recover under the will of Mathias Aspden, Jr., property which had descended through his mother from his great-grandfather, Daniel Jones. It will be seen from the above that the Packer heirs could not well claim under the Aspden will, but should have commenced in an early day, a suit for ejectment, and recovery of the property. Daniel Jones, having died intestate, according to the opinion given by the attorneys above, there are at least two undivided shares, one of which should go to the descendants of Rhoda Packer and Samuel Borton.

Opinion in the Case of the Representatives of Daniel Jones.

We have examined, although but cursorily, yet satisfactorily, the claims exhibited upon the part of the descendants of Daniel Jones, to certain real estate situated in the city of Philadelphia and Northern Liberties. Prima facie, there is no doubt resting upon the face of the title of those parties. The title to the property which they claim being by unequivocal and unquestioned documents, established to have been legally vested in Daniel Jones, their progenitor. If Daniel Jones has not parted with said property, and I have met with nothing to induce me to suppose he has, and if his daughter Rebecca and her husband, to whom it must have descended, did neither convey it nor suffer it to be sold under executions, then it must have come regularly down to the four children of the said Rebecca and Philip Packer, viz: Samuel, Daniel, Rhoda and Rebecca. Under two of those, viz., Samuel and Rhoda, the present claims arise, and the question put to us is, whether, in the first place, the title in Samuel Jones is regular and sufficient; secondly, whether there is anything in the Act of Limitations calculated to bar us from a recovery. The title, as we have said, is regularly in the said Daniel, and of course, unless parted with, he having made no will, descended to his daughter. We have examined the Register's office, in order to ascertain the extent of personal property left by Daniel Jones, and find that it but little exceeded two hundred dollars. This certainly is but a small personal estate, when compared with the vast extent of real property of which it is alleged he died possessed. However, it must be remembered—we speak of other days than those in which we live—that at the period of Daniel Jones' death, furniture to the amount of two hundred dollars was not altogether contemptible; and we must bear in mind, that although the real estate in question is at this time, of immense value, it was, at the time of the purchase or grant, upwards of one hundred and twenty-five years since, of little or no consideration in a pecuniary point of view. So that, upon reflection, whatever may now appear to have been the disparity between his real and personal estate—a disparity brought about by the lapse of more than a century, which has diminished in our estimation the value of the one, and increased, almost beyond proportion, that of the other—we may fairly conclude, that there is nothing in the circumstance referred to, calculated to excite unfavorable suspicion of the title by which the property was held by Daniel Jones, and, as far as we have been able to learn, no conveyance was made by him of the estate in question. Indeed, he died shortly after it became his, and the probability of his having transferred it to others, is diminished by that consideration. There is another circumstance which infallibly shows that he, as well as his immediate heirs, died, seized of the chief part, if not all, of the real estate, the deeds for which have been submitted to us. It appears, that in the year 1768 Rebecca Aspden and Daniel Packer, two of the children of Rebecca Packer, the only child of Daniel Jones, executed a deed wherein they recite the title in their grandfather to certain real estate, and that recital accords with the description of the estate now claimed. We may therefore say that the property in question came unimpaired into the hands of the grandchildren, viz., Samuel, Rhoda, Daniel and Rebecca, the two last of whom, as we have said, executed a deed in 1786, unto Matthais Aspden and James Hartley, wherein they state that they are the only surviving children of Rebecca Packer.

Now, whether this were true or false matters but little in regard to our claims. If Rebecca and Daniel were the only surviving children, they were certainly not the only children, and it is equally certain that the other two children of Rebecca, viz., Samuel and Rhoda, left numerous issue or offspring, some of whom are still alive, and all of whom are legally represented in this claim. This being the case, the deed referred to could, of course, convey no right or title that was not possessed by the grantors. They may have been the only children, but they were not the only heirs. Hence, we take it as pretty well established that down to the time of the grandchildren, no appropriation incompatible with our claim had been made of the real estate in dispute, and there is no reason to suppose that since that time no appropriation has been made. As to the second question, or that having relation to the Statute of Limitations, we can only observe, that we have been much at a loss in respect to the chronological part of this inquiry, and, consequently that if it were essentially necessary, we should encounter great difficulty in coming to a satisfactory conclusion upon the subject.

But we are inclined to think that the case may be placed upon other and better footing. The present holders of the property may be considered as not holding adversely, but as tenants in common with the present claimants so that it is optional with us either to proceed by ejection, provided the statute should not bar us, or, if it should, we can at least proceed in partition against the present holders of the debatable lands, as tenants in common with us of the larger right, no time can deprive us.

After infinite labor and difficulty, and a most careful investigation of the documents and papers submitted to our inspection, and after extracting from among the rust and rubbish of near a century and a half, all the light that could be possibly derived, although certainly less than might have been desired, we are inclined to the opinion:—First, that Daniel Jones had a complete legal title vested in him at the time of his death, which descended to the present claimants. Secondly, that there is nothing in the deed from Daniel and Rebecca Packer calculated to affect our claim; and thirdly, that although the statute may bar an ejection, the remedy of partition is still open to the claimants.

Affirmation of Rhoda (Packer) Borton.

Rhoda Borton, aged about 84 years, residing in the county of Burlington, in the state of New Jersey, in Evesham township, widow. Being duly affirmed on the part of the petitioners, deposes as follows:

My father's name was Samuel Packer, called Samuel Jones Packer, and he sometimes put the Jones first. He was the son of Philip Packer of Pensauken. He (Philip) married Rebecca Jones; she was his second wife, and the daughter of Daniel and Mary Jones, as I have been told, the children of Philip Packer, by Rebecca Jones, were Samuel, Daniel, no other sons that I have any knowledge of; daughters, Rebecca, Martha, Rhoda, Mary, and I believe the name was Sarah, not Mary. Sarah married John Carter, I don't know her children. I believe she left children, but they were out of my knowledge. Rebecca married Roger Hartley of Bucks county; she married secondly Matthias Aspden; her children by R. Hartley were Roger, James, Benjamin, Ann, Jennet, Bathsheba and Rebecca; I don't recollect any others, and am not sure I have stated them in the order of their birth; she left a child by Aspden, a son named Matthias, he was the only child that I know of. I was personally acquainted with Matthias Aspden the younger, and with his mother while he went to England. I cannot tell if Roger Hartley the younger left any children; he was living in Pennsylvania some time ago. James and Benjamin are both dead; James left no children that I ever heard of; he died more than ten years ago, soon after I was married. Benjamin left daughters; I don't know of any sons, don't remember how many daughters nor their names, some of them married into the Brick family. Ann, the daughter of the first Roger Hartley, is dead; she married William Hinchman, she left children, one named Ann, another William, one

John, who is dead; he lived in Moorestown. Jennet died a young woman, unmarried. Bathsheba married a Nathan Zanes and left two daughters and some sons, the daughters are living and I believe some of the sons are; the daughters were named Ann and Sarah, Ann married a man named Ellis, and Sarah a Champion; Ann lived recently near Haddonfield, and Sarah in it.

Rebecca, daughter of the first Roger Hartley, married John Kay, now both dead, leaving children, whose names I do not know. They have both been dead more than ten years. They left a son named Matthias; he is dead; he was married. I don't know if he left children; he died not a great while ago, perhaps eight or ten years. My father, Samuel Packer, had ten children, Parthena, Rebecca, Susan, Sarah, Ruth, myself (Rhoda), Daniel, John, and Eleanor. Parthena married William Lopen. They are both dead; they died more than ten years ago, I expect. They left Uriah, Rhoda and Ravhel, their children. I can't tell if Uriah is living; he went to the new country; I understood his father went after him, but he must be deceased if he did. Rhoda married a man named Bailey, I don't know if she is dead or alive. Rachel, I don't know whether she married, or is living or dead. These are all the children of Parthena I know of. Rebecca married Caldwell. They are both deceased; he has been dead many years and she too; they left one daughter named Sarah, a son Thomas, who died during the old war. Sarah married Thomas Sims and had some children, who are deceased. They had two grandchildren, I can't tell their names. Thomas left no children, Sarah, my sister, died childless; so did Samuel. Ruth married James Duffield; she is dead, dying in the time of the yellow fever in Philadelphia. She left Samuel, James and Rhoda. There was also one Edward. Samuel is dead; he died an infant; James died a young man, out at sea. I expect he died unmarried. John is living, Edward is living; Rhoda is dead; she married James Reynolds. She died very lately, since the death of the testator. I married Samuel Borton.

Daniel, my brother, has been dead many years. He left Samuel, John, Daniel, Susan, Elizabeth. These are all I can recollect. Samuel is living, I believe they are all living; there were children who died in infancy. Susan married Hugh Cox, Elizabeth is unmarried, my brother John is dead, leaving issue, his children were James, Edward, (I don't know which was first) Martha, Mary and John, John was the youngest. My brother John died a long time ago, more than thirty years ago. My husband has been dead more than thirty years.

The children of my brother John are all living except John, who died twelve or thirteen years ago; he died a young man without children. My sister Eleanor married Amos Bee, they are both dead; he died a considerable time ago; she married again and died five or six years ago, her second husband was Isaiah Hunt, I think died before Matthias Aspden's death; her children by Amos Bee were Deborah, who died before her,

Samuel, Ephraim, Packer, Eleanor and Rebecca. Deborah died in infancy. Samuel is dead, leaving no children that I know of. He died since his mother, about ten years ago. Ephraim died at seat, leaving no children, before his mother's death. Packer had one daughter; I don't know whether she is dead or alive, the daughter is named Deborah, she is married. Eleanor Bee was twice married, her first husband was Isaac Leeds, her second was Joseph Wiley; she died I guess as much as seven years ago, her children are living for aught I know. Charlotte is just married to Joseph Sickler, Mary Ann is living, unmarried, and Ruth, I believe, had children by Wiley I don't exactly remember. Haywood is one; he is living; they had a daughter who died a child. Rebecca Bee married Asa VanSciever, they are both living. Eleanor Bee had by her second husband Isaiah Hunt, Samuel, Rhoda and Isaiah; they are all living I believe. Rhoda married Jacob Sickler. Rhoda, my aunt, the daughter of Philip Packer and Rebecca Jones, married George Hammitt. They are dead many years ago, sixty years ago; they left children. They had Daniel, who died a young man unmarried, for all I have heard. George was the next, Samuel, Rhoda, Theodosia, Rebecca, Benjamin, Joseph, Sarah, Elias and Thomas. George is dead, he died many years ago, before I was married, he left children, one son Daniel and some daughters, whom I do not recollect. Daniel lived in Moorestown. I don't remember the names of any of the daughters. Samuel Hammitt died, I believe, many years ago; I don't remember how many children he left nor their names. Rhoda Hammitt married a man named William Wheaton, and had one daughter by him; they are both dead a long time ago. They did six or eight years ago. The daughter's name was Mary; she married Thomas Haines, I believe. I think she and he are both living. Theodosia Hammitt is dead, it may be ten years ago; she married a man named Manning, I think, and left children, whose names I do not know. Rebecca Hammitt died a young woman, unmarried. John Hammitt is dead. I believe; I don't know how long ago he died. I don't remember the children; he had sons and daughters, I believe; he had a son named Eves, but I don't know what became of him. I think he had a son Thomas who deceased lately. He kept a tavern, I don't know what children he left. I believe there was a daughter named Hepzibah; I have not heard of her death. Benjamin Hammitt went out to the new country and settled there, I don't know if he had any children, and I have not heard of his death. Joseph Hammitt married and lived at the Rising Sun; he died 14 or 15 years ago. I cannot remember his children. He had a son George, but I cannot tell whether he is living or dead. Sarah Hammitt married Wothon, who has been dead a good many years, and her husband, too. I don't know that I saw any of the children except John. There were others whom I remember seeing when they were small. Elias Hammitt, son of George and Rhoda, I most think is dead, leaving a daughter or two. I think there were one or two others. Thomas Hammitt died many years ago. I know nothing of his children. Being examined on the part of the complainant, the witness says I cannot say whether my father was older than my Uncle Daniel, but I rather expect so. My father died first, some of us were young when my father died. My uncle Daniel left no children; he had one who died an infant. Daniel, my brother, was older than my brother John. I had but two brothers. My brother Daniel died about ten years after my marriage, as well as I can recollect. (Produces her marriage certificate. Married on the 11th of November, 1766, Samuel Borton to Rhoda Packer). My uncle Daniel died about five or six years after my marriage. My brother Daniel died ten or fifteen years before my husband's death, which was about thirty years ago. Samuel was the oldest of my brother Daniel's sons. I cannot say if the oldest child, but believe he was. Samuel, my nephew, is living; I expect he is here now.

Being examined on behalf of Job Packer, the witness says, I don't recollect a Philip Packer, who married Ann Coates. My grandfather had a son Philip, who married and lived in Pennsylvania; he was not the son of Philip and Rebecca Jones, he was the son by a first wife. I remember a son of his namd Aaron, comig out of Pennsylvania to see my mother. I don't know the name of the first wife, he was an old man when he married my grandmother. I have heard my mother say that his head was as white as a sheet. I had not a good chance of knowing the Philip Packer's family of Pennsylvania. I knew my grandmother very well; she came and stayed with my mother; perhaps I was then two years old.

Being examined on the part of Jone Zane and Isaac Zane, the witness says, Matthias Aspden, the testator, his brother, James Hartley and waiting man came to our house after they returned from England, not long afterwards, a few years perhaps, Matthias Aspden, the testator, went with his father to England to get his, the father's eyes coached. This was when I was about fourteen or fifteen years old; he wrote to his mother that he was then going to school in England. I don't remember when he went to England a second time. They came to see if uncle Daniel had signed his rights to lots in the city of Philadelphia, my grandmother wanted my father Samuel to have, because he bore the maiden name.

Matthias Aspden came down with Hartley to get all us children to sign our right to him. I believe Matthias Aspden returned to England about the beginning of the war. I think he came home after it was settled. I don't know how long he stayed in this country; he was backwards and forwards several times. I did not see him the last time he was here.

RHODA BORTON.

Examination taken, reduced to writing, and by the witness subscribed to the eleventh day of August, 1829, before me, T. L. Wharton, Master.

Rhoda Borton, being examined on the part of the petitioners, de-poses as follows: I have heard of Matthias Aspden being twice married. The issue of the first marriage was a daughter, who was married to Captain Harrison. I never heard when I was young, many years ago, any doubts of her being born in lawful wedlock.
